"I Had It Coming," Sims Said, In Commenting On Public Reprimand

ADMIRAL ADMITS THAT SPEECH ATTACKING IRISH SYMPATHIZERS IN AMERICA WAS INDISCREET; SECRETARY DENBY REBUKES HIGH NAVAL OFFICIAL.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—"I had it coming to me—I spilled the beans." This admission came smilingly from Admiral Sims, but a short time after the public rebuke from Secretary Denby had been delivered to the admiral's hotel.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, June 25.—Rear Admiral W. S. Sims has received a public reprimand from Secretary of the Navy Denby, as a rebuke for his "jackass" speech which Sims delivered in London, June 7. The reprimand was administered in the face of assertions by the admiral that he had been misquoted. It is the second he has received from a secretary of the navy, the first having been handed down

VICTORIOUS POLO TEAM GIVING EXHIBITION

LONDON, June 25.—The American polo team which won back the international cup from Great Britain this week plays an exhibition game at Hurlingham today.

in 1911, also because of a speech made in London.

An order from Denby, issued Friday afternoon and delivered to the admiral at his hotel by the secretary's aide, concluded with this paragraph:

"The department expresses its strong disapproval of your conduct in having again delivered a highly improper speech in a foreign country and you are hereby publicly reprimanded."

Denby stated later the reprimand would not alter Sims' status in the navy and that he would continue as president of the naval war college at Newport.

The issue of the reprimand followed receipt from Sims of a written statement setting forth an inaccuracies in published accounts of the speech. Sims admitted, however, the accuracy of his reference to the "jackass" votes.

This portion of the speech was quoted by Denby in the reprimand and it was made clear that this was the utterance that led to the rebuke.

Statements made by Sims, Denby told him, "dealt with matters which properly should be the subject for comment by no high governmental official."

RIVER YIELDS BODY OF PASCO CHINESE

CORPSE FOUND AT CELILO THAT OF J. M. LEE, RESTAURANT-EUR.

For years J. M. Lee, Chinese, operated a little restaurant in Pasco, Wash. Because of his sunny disposition and many likable traits, he was respected and liked by both the white and Chinese residents of the town.

One day about two weeks ago, the door of Lee's restaurant were not opened, for the first time in years. White friends investigated and found not a trace of the Chinese. He had closed his restaurant the night before and had then apparently vanished into thin air. All of Lee's personal belongings were just as he had left them. He had no enemies, as far as was known. Lee had simply added another chapter to the book of unsolved mysteries.

Thursday, a body, supposed to be that of an Indian, was found on the beach a short distance below the Celilo falls. The body, after coming over the falls, had caught in an eddy and been left on the beach when the Celilo jumbies receded.

Coroner C. N. Burget was notified and went to Celilo to bring the body, for burial in a pauper's grave at the expense of the county. Swollen almost beyond recognition as a man being from long immersion in the water, the body was lying face downward in the soft mud left by the river. A leather wallet half extended from one pocket.

In this wallet was a deposit slip made out on a Pasco bank, showing that one J. M. Lee had deposited a considerable sum of money in that bank about three weeks ago. The slip of paper was all the wallet contained.

After bringing the body to The Dalles, Burget got into communication with the Pasco bank over long distance telephone, where he learned the details of the mysterious disappearance of the Chinese.

Pasco is approximately 130 miles from The Dalles. During the two weeks since Lee's disappearance from the Washington city, the body had floated the entire distance over falls and rapids and through whirlpools.

No explanation of the cause of death could be ascertained from examination of the body, because of the many knocks and blows which it received during the long journey down the river. Whether Lee was murdered and his body thrown into the Columbia by the murderer, or met his death by accidentally drowning or was a suicide will probably never be known.

Relatives from Pasco will arrive in The Dalles today to complete funeral arrangements.

Short Skirts, Roll-Tops, Banned For Women Employes of C. B. & Q.

WORKING MORALE OF FORCES USURPED BY RECKLESS FASHIONS OF 3,000 FEMINE WORKERS FOR RAILROAD COMPANY; WELFARE DEPARTMENT USES "MORAL SAUSION."

By James L. Kilgallen
(United News Staff Correspondent)
CHICAGO, June 25.—"Normalcy" in business has extended to women's dress.

The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, through its women's welfare service, has started out to check the reckless pace of fashions as followed by the working girls of today. So it has decreed:

No more peck-a-boo waist.

Skirts shall be a modest length. No more rolled hose, sheer hose or see-through dress.

Business dress for business.

No more rouge, and very little powder.

It had to happen, officials of the Burlington say. The styles of dress worn by their young women employes—2,000 of them throughout the system—was becoming embarrassing to the working morale. Something had to be done. So the matter was taken up with Miss Daisy Oden, supervisor of the woman's welfare service of the road, and finally put entirely in her hands.

Other concerns throughout the country are expected to follow the lead of the Burlington.

Miss Oden, interviewed by the United News, said that she had con-
