

CARPENTIER'S CAMP IS CALM ONCE MORE

HEAVY WORK OVER, CHALLENGER RESTING UNTIL BATTLE BEGINS SATURDAY.

By William Slavens McNutt (United Press Staff Correspondent) MANHASSET, N. Y., June 30.—The Carpenter camp has returned to normalcy after the explosion of yesterday caused by the advent of too many visitors during the absence of M. Descamps. Again it is impossible to crash the gate at the old farm house and the challenger is enjoying the peace and quiet which he maintains as so necessary to him in his training.

The remainder of his training will consist of just that peace and quietness. The heavy work and conditioning is over and it but remains for Descamps to keep his charge on edge until he steps into the ring to blast loose the heavyweight crown from the head of the present champion, or resign his pretensions to world title honors.

Those who have faith in emens can see little to encourage the Frenchman. Last week two of Carpentier's sparring partners, Italian Joe Gans and Paul Journee, set sail on the ruddy sea of combat in a ring in Brooklyn and came to grief. Gans took to the lifeboat in the 10th round while Journee went down with colors flying. Nevertheless, he went down. The colors that he flew when he went down were crimson and the coloring matter was knocked loose from his arteries by the stern and rockbound fists of Mr. Weinert.

Those who play emens shook their heads over this double defeat of members of the Carpentier camp. It was, they said, bad medicine.

Then Captain Mallet, a French army officer who has always done duty in Carpentier's corner when the latter fought, went out swimming and left his legs out in the hot sun when he emerged from the water. Captain Mallet's legs, as a result, are temporarily neither beautiful nor useful. They are red, swollen and blistered and the captain will not be present in the challenger's corner at the big fight. No. The captain will be home if bed getting the results over the telephone, while a nurse rubs the blistered extremities with ointment to the accompaniment of a soothing breeze by an electric fan.

Carpentier is fighting the jinx to the best of his ability. While out on his road work Wednesday he found an old and rusted horseshoe which he picked up, brought home and nailed up alongside the front door. He would have nailed it up over the door, he says, but with the luck breaking so poorly for him and his, he decided that if he did so it would probably fall and hit him on the head some time when he was leaving the house.

Carpentier is calm and says he is confident everything that can be done to fit him for the fray has been done. He wins or loses on the strength of the condition that he has already attained.

CARPENTIER UNTRUBLED BY IMMINENCE OF FIGHT

By United Press (United Press Staff Correspondent) MANHASSET, N. Y., June 30.—"Just waiting for the bell," said Georges Carpentier today.

The challenger has completed his training. He is in perfect physical condition and apparently untroubled by the imminence of the championship battle.

Having tipped the scales this morning at 172 1/2 pounds and laid away the gloves until Saturday afternoon, Georges declares he will do nothing but rest from now on.

Georges' doctor is enthusiastic over his condition. Gus Wilson, whose job it is to massage and rub him down, says he was never so clean cut and ready for a fight. Francois Descamps goes about the farm rubbing his hands and smiling. After the little flurry of nerves which attacked the challenger's camp on Tuesday, everyone is on edge with confidence.

Carpentier himself is the least worried man, as far as appearances go, of anyone at Manhasset. He avoided visitors today, but in private joked and played cards and seemed entirely at his ease.

All of the difficulties which have arisen during the past month have been swept away. Carpentier and Descamps are satisfied with the size of the ring, which has been completed, and are pleased with the dressing rooms and other arrangements.

MANY BATTLES FOR HEAVYWEIGHT CROWN

By Henry L. Farrell (United Press Staff Correspondent) NEW YORK, June 30.—The Dempsey-Carpentier battle, called "the boat of a century and the greatest of all times," adds a chapter to a list of important heavyweight championships that started back in 1882.

John L. Sullivan was the first to be considered one of the real greats of the ring. He won the title by knocking out Paddy Ryan in nine rounds at Mississippi City, Miss., Feb. 7, 1882. He successfully defended his crown by knocking out Jake Kilcain in a 75 round battle at Riehartz, Miss., on July 8, 1889. It was the last fight with bare knuckles.

Figured without a chance, James J. Corbett, a bank clerk, gave one of the first proofs of the merits of brains and science against brawn and brute strength when he won the championship from Sullivan September 7, 1892, in a 21 round fight in New Orleans. Corbett defended his title against Charlie Mitchell in a three-round fight at Jacksonville, January 25, 1894.

After defeating Peter Maher in one round in Mexico in 1896, Bob Fitzsimmons came along then and won the title from Corbett after 14 rounds in Carson City, Nevada, March 17, 1897. He held the crown until June 9, 1899, when he was knocked out by James J. Jeffries in an 11 round fight at Coney Island, N. Y.

On the same battleground, Jeffries beat Tom Sharkey in 25 rounds on November 3, 1899. Fitzsimmons challenged again for the title, but Jeffries knocked him out in an 8 round bout in San Francisco on August 25, 1902. Corbett then challenged Jeffries and was knocked out in 10 rounds at San Francisco on August 14, 1903. Jack Munroe challenged him but suffered the same fate after two rounds in San Francisco August 26, 1904. Jeffries retired in 1905, undefeated.

Marvin Hart claimed the title after knocking out Jack Root in a 12 round bout at Reno, July 3, 1905. Jeffries refereed the bout and presented Hart with his title.

Tommy Burns became the champion when he won a 20 round decision from Hart in Los Angeles on February 23, 1906. Hart claimed a foul, but it was not granted. On May 7, 1907, Burns defeated Jack O'Brien in a 20 round bout in Los Angeles and on July 4, 1907, he knocked out Bill Squires in one round at Colma, Cal.

Jack Johnson came into possession of the title when he beat Burns in a 20 round bout at Sydney, Australia. Police stopped the contest. Burns received $30,000, while Johnson got $5,000 along with the crown. The colored fighter whipped Stanley Ketchel in 12 rounds at Colma, October 18, 1909, and knocked out James J. Jeffries in 15 rounds at Reno July 4, 1910.

After Johnson had defeated Jim Flynn in nine rounds at Las Vegas July 4, 1912, he got into trouble with the government and a journey of white heavyweights was arranged in Los Angeles in 1913. Luther McCarty beat Al Kaufman, Jim Flynn and Al Palzer and was proclaimed the white heavyweight champion of America. On May 21, 1913, at Calgary, Canada, McCarty was knocked out by Arthur Peacock. McCarty collapsed in the ring and died from what the coroner's jury termed a hemorrhage of the brain.

Gunboat Smith won the title from Peacock in 15 rounds at San Francisco on January 1, 1914.

Jess Willard then came along and being proclaimed the white hope he was matched with Jack Johnson, still world's heavyweight champion. Willard won the world's championship by knocking out the negro in the 26th round at Havana, April 5, 1915.

After a sensational string of short knockout victories, Jack Dempsey was matched with Willard by Tex Rickard. They met in Toledo, Ohio on July 4, 1919. Dempsey knocked Willard down seven times in the first round and won the title when Willard failed to answer the bell for the 4th round.

Ruth hit his twenty-third homer off Bigbee, Athletics, in first game of double header and his twenty-fourth in the second game off Perry.

The Robins beat the Giants in a double header.

Big Purses In Ring History

By United Press NEW YORK, June 30.—Tex Rickard has figured in five of the biggest money contests of boxing history, including the Dempsey-Carpentier bout, which with a million dollar gate by far exceeds all other sporting events of all time.

Rickard started his now famous career as a promoter with the Gans-Nelson lightweight contest when he offered the then unheard of sum of $30,000 for the bout. His next venture was the Johnson-Jeffries heavyweight championship affair and then came the Willard-Moran bout, the Dempsey-Willard championship and now the greatest of them all, the Dempsey-Carpentier meeting.

The purse of $600,000, which is approximately what Dempsey and Carpentier will divide is more than the total receipts of any boxing contest in history and it exceeds by more than four times the sum ever given to any boxers in the past.

The following tables give the receipts and what the principals got in the biggest money drawing contests of the past:

DEMPSEY ENDS TRAINING AND WILL REST FRIDAY

By United Press ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 30.—Jack Dempsey is through training and he is glad of it. The world's champion will do his last work today when he punches the bag for two rounds and takes a long walk on the road.

Dempsey and his household will move Friday to Jersey City. His means of transportation and his destination at the scene of the battle are being kept secret by Manager Kearns. It is understood that he will spend the eve of the contest in a private home near the stadium and will see no one.

The champion looked to be just how he said he felt—in the finest condition.

BIG CHESS TOURNAMENT IS SET FOR HAVANA

By United Press BERLIN (By Mail) Alechin, noted chess player, thrice condemned to death in Moscow, will be one of the participants in the forthcoming world chess tournament in Havana.

His friends, with difficulty, got him free and he is now here, where he is booked for a match with Teichmann.

Herr Kagan in charge of the European end of the tournament told the United Press today the contest would probably be at the end of the year in Havana. The following participants have already been listed: Marshal, Teichmann, Tarrasch, Reti, Dreyer, Euwe, Bogoljuboff (a young Hollander especially recommended by Lasker), Rubinstein, Alechin, Kostitch, and Maroczy, with probably the Austrians Tartakow and Spielmann.

All the participants receive passage and pay. It is expected here that a big tournament will follow in New York.

GEORGE WASHINGTON IN TRAFALGAR SQUARE

By United Press LONDON, June 30.—A statue of George Washington—the leader of the Continental army that wrested the 13 colonies from George III—was unveiled today in Trafalgar Square, opposite the National Gallery of art and just across the square from a statue of George IV.

All members of the American official and residential colony attended the ceremony, one of a series arranged for this summer in connection with the dedication of Sulgrave Manor, home of Washington's ancestors.
