Say, not, because you see no tears,

That tears can never flow; Ah, judge not by the light that plays On many a radiant brow; For, oh! believe me, hearts can feel When carelessly they appear; And smiling eyes have often smiled To hide the gathering tear.

I doubt the purity of sighs-I doubt the strength of tears; When these are shed before men's eyes Those rung into men's ears; But doubt I not the depth, the truth Of aching hearts which wear A smile upon the pallid face, That none may see the tear!
