

SONG.

All around and all above thee,
In the hushed and charmed air,
All things woe thee, all things love thee,

Where'er thy presence lingers,
Where'er thy brightness beams,
Fancy weaves with enning fingers
Sweetest dreams.

And the heart forgets thee never,
Thy young beauty's one delight—
There it dwells forever,
Ever bright.

RAISING NEW SORTS OF THE STRAWBERRY.—Plant the fresh new washed-out seed, a fourth to an inch deep in very rich and finely pulverized beds, and keep the surface moist and shaded. Many new plants spring up spontaneously in bearing strawberry beds, and thus excellent sorts become mixed with poorer. The strawberry is the easiest fruit to raise new sorts from by crossing. For the bearing sort which produces the seed is a pistillate, it must be fertilized by some staminate; and thus every seed is a between the two—the seed, not the berry, being affected the first year. Every seed in every berry of Burr's New Pine, Hovey's seedling, and other pistillates, are necessarily always crosses. We would recommend the following as suitable varieties to produce seed for this purpose: Burr's New Pine fertilized by Hooker; Hovey's seedling fertilized with Early Scarlet and Walker's Seedling.

BALKY HORSES.—If you have balky horses it is your own fault and not the horses' for if they do not pull there is some cause for it, and if you remove the cause the effect will cease. When your horse balks he is excited, and does not know what to do. When he gets a little excited, stop him for 5 or 10 minutes; let him become calm, and as soon as he is over his excitement he will, in nine cases out of ten, pull at the word. Whipping and slashing and swearing only make the matter worse. After you have gentled him awhile, and his excitement has cooled, take him by the bit; turn him each way a few minutes, as far as you can; pull out the tongue; gentle him a little unrein him, then step before the balky horse, and let the other start first; then you can take them anywhere you wish. A balky horse is always high-spirited and starts quick; half the pull is out before the other starts; by standing before him the other starts first. By close application of this rule you can make any horse pull. If a horse has been badly spoiled, you should first hitch him to an empty wagon, and let him draw it around for a while on level ground; then put on a little load and increase it gradually, exercising as before, and in a short time you will have a good work horse.

An opinion extensively prevails in the United States, that grain is better if cut before quite ripe. The last year, Prof. Isidore Pierre, of the University of Caen, in France, determined to try the matter by carefully conducted scientific experiments. He cut the same quantities of wheat, from the same field, on the 11th, 15th, 20th and 25th of last July, when the whole crop was cut by the mowers. He found a daily increase of nitrogen and phosphoric acid to the last—showing that the earlier it was cut the poorer it was in amylose and glutinous matters. He thinks that though there is some loss in shaking out of overripe grain, it is more than compensated for in the increased value of the perfectly ripened article.

Horses, as a general thing, get too much licking and too little feed. If a man loses his hat while driving his horse, he licks the horse to pay for it. If he runs into another wagon through his own carelessness, he licks his horse to make it all right. If his horse slips or tumbles, he gets licked for it—if he does anything he gets licked, and if he doesn't do anything he gets the same. A great many horses know "a lick" more than their drivers, and if they could change places with them, society at large would be the gainers, and so would horses.

The price of sheep in England has fallen off as much as in the United States. Store-sheep, that usually bring eight dollars each, are now selling for four dollars, and immense numbers are being sold in a sort of panic. The consequence will be, that there soon will be a flow of high prices, as there always is in all such cases, and the far-seeing ones are putting about to learn how they can keep over stock cheaply till the good times come again.

Small acts of kindness, how pleasant and desirable do they make life. Every dark object is made light by them, and every tear of sorrow is brushed away. When the heart is sad, and despondency sits at the entrance of the soul, a trifling kindness drives away despair and makes the path cheerful and pleasant.

Rosbeck's farwell speech to the Sheffield electors was quite pathetic. Their decision, he said, was final to him, as he was too old to await the decision of time, which he knew

HOW TO HAVE LOCALS.

Local news makes a paper interesting, both at home and abroad. But it is impossible for an editor to obtain all the news, if he is ever so wakeful and observant. There are many other duties an editor is called upon to perform besides obtaining news. He has to be supervisor of the whole concern, particularly if he is also publisher. He has to look after the interests of the paper in a thousand and one ways. To edit a successful paper is no sinecure berth. He has to obtain competent printers, and look out for their remuneration. He has to obtain paper and materials for the proper execution of the work. He has to attend repairs, canvass for advertisements and subscribers, and collect the pay. He has to make selections from other papers, write editorials, and look over and re-write communications sent.

He needs to be Argus-eyed and Briareus handed. How, then, can he obtain local news, with all his other duties? He should be helped by the community. Here are clergymen; let them give us the local items connected with their Churches and congregations. Here are physicians; let them drop us a word about the health or sickness of the community. Here are farmers; let them give us the news respecting crops, weather, etc. Here are the river men; let them give us the news respecting navigation, tides, shipwrecks and marine accidents. Here are hotel keepers; let them give a sketch of their incidents, or a list of arrivals at their hotels. Here are gay young men; let them keep us posted up on balls, parties, etc. Here are teachers; let them give us facts concerning schools. Here is the military; let them furnish us with facts they wish made public.

How much better for persons to spend a few hours in writing facts, not fancies, for the newspaper, than loafing about some street corner, and talking insipid twaddle. Some object to writing because they cannot write or compose well. That is the most immaterial part. Give us the facts, we will do the spelling and punctuation. Give correct dates, names, places, and incidents, and we will dress them up. Don't abstain from writing because you cannot spell every word correctly. The facts are what is desired.—Register.

By the President of the United States of America.

A PROCLAMATION. Whereas a treaty concerning the citizenship of emigrants between the United States of America and His Majesty the King of Bavaria, was concluded and signed by their respective plenipotentiaries at Munich, on the 29th day of May, 1858, which treaty, being in the English and German languages, is word for word as follows:

His Majesty the King of Bavaria and the President of the United States of America, being desirous to regulate the citizenship of those persons who emigrate from Bavaria to the United States of America, and from the United States of America to the Kingdom of Bavaria, have resolved to treat on this subject, and have, for that purpose, appointed plenipotentiaries to conclude a convention, that is to say: His Majesty the King of Bavaria, Dr. Otto, Baron of Volzendorff, Commissioner of Ministry, and the President of the United States of America, George Bancroft, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary, were agreed to and signed the following articles: ART. 1. Citizens of Bavaria, who have been, or shall become, naturalized citizens of the United States of America, and who have resided uninterruptedly within the United States for five years, shall be held by Bavaria to be American citizens, and shall be treated as such.

ART. 2. A naturalized citizen of the one party on return to the territory of the other party shall be liable to trial and punishment for an act punishable by the laws of his original country, and committed before his emigration, and shall be liable to punishment by the laws of his original country, or any other remission of liability to punishment.

ART. 3. The convention for the mutual delivery of criminals, fugitives from justice, in certain cases, concluded between the United States, on the one part, and Bavaria, on the other part, the fourth day of September, 1850, shall remain in force until the thirty-first day of September, 1858, and shall be held to be in force until the date hereof.

ART. 4. If a Bavarian, naturalized in America, renounces his naturalization, without the intent to return to Bavaria, he shall be held to have renounced his naturalization in the United States. If, on the contrary, he renounces his naturalization in the United States, he shall be held to have renounced his naturalization in Bavaria. The intent not to return may be held to exist when the person naturalized in the one country resides more than two years in the other country.

ART. 5. The present convention shall go into effect immediately on the exchange of ratifications, and shall continue in force for ten years. If neither party shall have given notice of its intention to terminate the same, it shall further continue in force until the end of twelve months after either of the contracting parties shall have given notice to the other of such intention.

ART. 6. The present convention shall be ratified by His Majesty the King of Bavaria and by the President of the United States, and the ratifications of the said King and President shall be exchanged at Munich within twelve months from the date hereof. In faith whereof the plenipotentiaries have signed and sealed this convention. Munich, the 25th day of May, 1858.

Done at Munich, the 25th May, 1858. The undersigned met, today, to sign the treaty agreed upon in conformity with their respective full powers, relating to the citizenship of those persons who emigrate from Bavaria to the United States of America, and from the United States of America to Bavaria, on which occasion the following observations, more exactly defining and explaining the contents of this treaty, were entered into in the following protocol: 1. Relating to the first article of the treaty, inasmuch as the collective "and" is made use of, it follows, of course, that not only the naturalization laws, but an additional five years' uninterrupted residence is required, before a person can be regarded as coming within the treaty; but it is by no means requisite that the five years' residence should take place after the naturalization. It is hereby further understood that if a Bavarian has been discharged from his American citizenship, in the manner legally prescribed by the government of his original country, and then acquires naturalization in the other country, he shall be held to be a resident, and an additional five years' residence shall no longer be required, but a person so naturalized shall from the moment of his naturalization be held and treated as a Bavarian, and reciprocally as an American citizen.

2. The words "resided uninterruptedly" are obviously to be understood, not of a continued bodily presence, but of the legal sense, and therefore a transient absence, of journey, or of the like, by no means interrupts the residence, provided that the moment of his naturalization be held and treated as a Bavarian, and reciprocally as an American citizen.

3. It is agreed on both sides that the regulations, granted by the government of the one country respectively, by their laws for protection against resident aliens, whose residence endangers peace and order in the land, are not to be applied to the emigrants of the other country, and that the regulations contained in the second article of the tenth article of the Bavarian military law of the 15th of January, 1858, which require which Bavarians emigrating from Bavaria before the fulfillment of their military duty shall be held to be subject to the military law in the land till they shall have become 32 years old, is not affected by the treaty. But yet it is established and agreed, that the expression "permanent residence" used in the said article, the above described emigrants shall be held to undertake a journey to Bavaria for a less period of time and for definite purposes, and the royal Bavarian government moreover cheerfully consents to allow a Bavarian citizen, who has emigrated, to be admitted to a military law in practice to be admitted.

4. It is hereby agreed that when a Bavarian naturalized in America and reciprocally an American naturalized in Bavaria, takes up his abode once more in his original country without the intention of return to the country of his original citizenship, he means thereby to recover his former citizenship on the contrary, in so far as it relates to the country in which he has taken up his abode, whether he will or will not in that event grant the Bavarian citizenship anew, and whether he will or will not in that event grant the American citizenship anew.
