KOURTING IN SEASON.
I love to court in Winter,
When all is bright and gay,
When all outside is dreary
And I know not why;
I love to court in Spring time,
When nature smiles so sweetly,
To chase the cold away;
I love to court in Summer,
When all things are in bloom,
And yet I think that Summer
Will never be my doom;
I love to court in Autumn time,
When the leaves are falling,
For I have asked just twenty-one
Of all the girls I love,
To have me for their loving one,
And they have answered—No!

MIGRATION—HOMES.
From the New York Tribune April 10, 1869.
Every human being ought to have a Home—not merely a shelter for the night, but a habitation of his own in which he is content to live and resigned to die. Crime is the fruit of homelessness—of the thousands who crowd our State prisons, not even hundreds owned house or farm when they sank into fidelity. If every family in this country owned its home, the number annually graduated through idleness and vice into out-right, flagrant villainy would be rapidly and permanently diminished.
