

THE WILL FOR THE DEED.

"I must not forget those stockings; there is a basket full this week."

Jennie's mother said this in a weary way. The little girl was playing in her room, and began to think about helping her.

"Where are they?" she asked. "In the sitting room," the mother answered, and thought no more about it.

An hour later she went down stairs. There sat Jennie in the large arm chair by the open window, the basket on the table before her, and her little fingers very busy.

"Mother," said she, looking up with a bright smile, "you have twelve pairs of stockings and I've done half of them."

Jennie had given up a whole hour's play to help and relieve her mother; but she was a very little girl and she had made a mistake. She had sewed the holes over and over. And as she meant to do her best, the stitches were close and tight.

Her mother knew that it would be at least an hour's work to rip them out, but she would not disappoint the loving heart by letting her know she had not fully succeeded. She said only, "well, you're a dear, good little girl, and now you may run out and play."

Away went Jennie, very happy in the thought that she had helped and pleased her mother. And she had; for the kindness and love she had shown her were more precious to that mother's heart than gold, and lightened her care. Pleasant thoughts kept her company and made her needle move faster.

All of us little folks, and grown folks, are liable to make mistakes, even when we really try to do right. But the love of Christ is only shadowed forth feebly by that mother's love. He, too, takes the will for the deed; whatever is done out of love as done to him, and sees that no true effort is lost, but makes it to do good some time, some way, whether we see it or not.—Vermont Chronicle.

Men Who Win Women.

Nature has so made the sexes that women, like children, cling to the men; lean upon them as though they were superior in mind and body. They make them the suns of systems, and their children revolve around them. Men are gods, if they but knew it, and women are burning incense at these shrines. Women, therefore, who have good minds and pure hearts, want men to lean upon. Think of their reverencing a drunkard, a liar, a fool, a libertine! If a man would have a woman to do him homage, he must be manly in every sense; a true gentleman, not after the Chesterfield school, but polite, because his heart is full of kindness to all; one who treats her with respect, even deference, because she is a woman; who never condescends to say silly things to her; who brings her up to his level, if his mind is above hers; who is ever anxious to do right; who has no time to be frivolous with her. Always dignified in speech and act; who never spends to much upon her, never yields to temptation, even if she puts it in his way; ambitious to make his mark in the world, whether she encourages him or not, who is never familiar with her to the extent of being an adopted brother or cousin, who is not over careful about dress, always pleasant and considerate, but always keeping his place of the man, the head, and never losing it. Such a man, with noble principles, good mind, energy and industry, will win any woman in the world who is worth winning.

On the complaint book of the St. Louis city engineer there is the following epistolary curiosity: "Herr Inspector Sir:—Ter ist ein tam pad blase in der Seitwalk (sidewalk) in der Franklin Ebnu Streets vor mein Hans unt I vau-thim fix quick, at vonstrals mein vrow unt der Kinder—she fall in dem, and now I gits tam doctar bill zo bay."

There is a paper published in Austin, Texas, which is to printers a literary curiosity. It is printed with 120-line pica type, and is very easily read in the dark. They charge fifty cents an acre for advertising, but a man can't say but a few words in that space, owing to the size of the type.

As Claude R.'s wife sat quietly in the twilight, a fellow stole behind her and kissed her. "Is it Claude?" she asked hurriedly. "No, dear madam." A moment after he was heard to exclaim, "Oh, yes, I am clawed now, indeed I am."

An Irishman attending a Quaker meeting, heard a young Friend make the following announcement: "Brethren and sisters, I am going to marry a daughter of the Lord." "The devil," said Pat; "faith and be jabbers, and it will be a long time before you'll see yer father-in-law!"

A young gentleman, whose bosom was being rent with the pangs of jealousy, addressed a billet to the lady, enclosing her notes to him, and requesting that she would reciprocate the courtesy. In her reply she thanked him for his consideration, and would "return his letters as soon as a young gentleman, to whom they were loaned, had given them a satisfactory perusal."

Good thoughts are companions; often our best.

Balsam for the Liver and Blood.
NATURE'S OWN REMEDY.

One of the Celebrated Physicians of Portland, says he is cured of the Lung and Liver complaint, and that he owes his life to Dr. Murray's Lung and Liver Balsam. Read what he says:—

Portland, May 21, 1869.
I have tried Dr. J. W. Murray's Lung and Liver Balsam. I used it in my family with the best of success. I was sick for some months, and used every remedy. I called several physicians, but they did me no good. I exhausted every remedy known to the medical profession, and received no benefit. This Lung and Liver Balsam cured me, and I do not hesitate to recommend it to the public and my friends, as a good and safe remedy. Those who know me, as many do in this State, know that I would not recommend a medicine unless I had used it, and that I do not use a thing that has no merit, because I am opposed to quack remedies.
