GOOD, STRONG AND FATAL. -It is natural for man to include an J.R. RALSTON, appetite that affords him pleasure, So frequently in many cases has this been done, that what was at CORNER OF MAIN AND SIXTH STREETS first innocent, by constant indulgence becomes vice. It has been so with Patrick O'Reardon, and he now puts in an appearance before WHERE HE WOULD INVITE HIS friends, and the public in general, to the Recorder on the charges of habitual drankenness.

"You will persist in drinking, Pat," said the magistrate. "Faith, you may well say that; Dry Goods,

I'd get thirsty if I didn't." "Then you don't drink when you are thirsty; only in fear that you may become so." Yes, sir."

"And you think whisky is better than water?"

"It's stronger, sir." But do you think it's as good?" "Oh, ves, sir, because you can mix then, and the whisky kills the impurities in the water."

"Nothin' at all—it does all the killin' itself," he replied, triumphantly, and looked very much as if he had established a proposition that admitted of no denial.

A SHORT "LEADER,"-Wm. North was once asked by the edtor of a paper with which he was LIES IN SMAIL PROFITS connected to write a leading article opposing the temperance movement which was then making a ogreat stir in the city of New York "Write me a good one, and I will give you twenty dollars for it," said the editor.

"How long do you wish it," inquired North.

o "As short as you can make it," was the reply. North sat down immediately, and wrote the following: 'We would rather see the whol world drunk of their own accordthan one man sober on compulsion. The twenty dollars was man diately han led over, and the para graph published as a leader.

RICHES.—The man with good firm health, is rich. So is the p.r. ent of vigorous, happy children. So is the editor of a good paper, with a big subscription list, and whose subscribers pay promptly. So is the clergyman whose coat the little children of his parish plack as he passes them at their play. So is the wife who has the whole heart of a good husband. So ithe maiden whose horizon is not bounded by the "coming man," but who has a purpose in life whether she ever meet him or not. So is the young man who, laying his hand on his heart, can say, "I have treated every woman I ever saw as I should wish my sister treated by other men." So is the little child who goes to sleep with a kiss on its lips, and on waking a blessing

DRIVEY FROM HOME. -I know fathers who have so harshly treated their boys, that they have sought the saloons to rid themselves of the ill treatment of such parents. Instead of finding home pleasant, instead of happy faces, interesting books and papers, instead of innocent games, there is but little unbending formality and austerity. They see nothing but frowns, and hear little but the fretful "shut up!" and "stop your noise!" or "go to bed!" and short crasty speeches, accompanied with perhaps a cuff or a kick. What womler that boys should spend their evenings away from home, seek the saloon and vile companions, if home is no home for them? What wonder that they should none is found where they have a right to look for it? Parents, have a care, or your sons are rained. AN ELOQUENT MESPONSE - When Carl Schurz had concluded his San Domingo speech and completely discomfitted Grant and his supporters, Chandler, of Michigan, a blatant Republican and bosom friend of the President, made what as. he conceived to be a most eloquent response to Schurz. He simply remarked, "The d-1 Dutchman,"

-An old bachelor editor thus, in his spite, comments on a recent monlight night: "We left our sanctum at midnight last night, and on our way home we saw a young lady and gentleman holding o a gate on its hinges. They were evidently indignant at being kept out so late, as we saw them bite each other several times."

In reply to a young friend leaving a town because some things in it were not exactly to her taste or consent, an old lady of experience © said: "My dear, when you have found a place where everybody and everything are always pleasant, and nothing whatever is disagreeable, let me know, and I'll move thither too."
