

A Slight Difference.

The Democratic paper at Oregon City begins an editorial with these statements: "The Radicals have much to say about Democracy."

All Democratic papers seem to presume on the ignorance of their readers and their incapacity to analyze statements and detect errors.

The above is from the Oregonian of the 9th inst. and may well be said to be the most barefaced misrepresentation of facts on record.

To make the matter more plain to the obtuse visions of the Oregonian editor, we will give him further figures and ask him to deny the truth of our statements.

Of that sum about 12 millions go to pay the interest on the National debt, 50 millions for pensions, making together 150 millions.

An exchange, speaking on this financial question, says truthfully and ably: "The Radicals make a great show of having paid so much of the national debt."

At the close of the first year of Grant's administration, Henry C. Dawes, Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, a Republican leader in the House, longer a member of Congress than any other man in it, stood in his place on the floor and asked every member, before he commenced his speech, to send and get his book of estimates, and follow him figure by figure, and see to it that he had done it.

At the close of the first year of Grant's administration, Henry C. Dawes, Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, a Republican leader in the House, longer a member of Congress than any other man in it, stood in his place on the floor and asked every member, before he commenced his speech, to send and get his book of estimates, and follow him figure by figure, and see to it that he had done it.

At the close of the first year of Grant's administration, Henry C. Dawes, Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, a Republican leader in the House, longer a member of Congress than any other man in it, stood in his place on the floor and asked every member, before he commenced his speech, to send and get his book of estimates, and follow him figure by figure, and see to it that he had done it.

timber, ores of metals and perpetual water-power, altogether superior to those upon which Massachusetts has become populous, rich and politically powerful.

And now, asks the company's pamphlet, what is this great landed empire of fifty millions of acres worth? If it sells for only the low price per acre at which the Kansas Pacific road forced off its lands, while it ran through and stopped in a wilderness of buffalo grass, the proceeds will be over $165,000,000.

The above is from the Oregonian of the 9th inst. and may well be said to be the most barefaced misrepresentation of facts on record.

To make the matter more plain to the obtuse visions of the Oregonian editor, we will give him further figures and ask him to deny the truth of our statements.

Of that sum about 12 millions go to pay the interest on the National debt, 50 millions for pensions, making together 150 millions.

An exchange, speaking on this financial question, says truthfully and ably: "The Radicals make a great show of having paid so much of the national debt."

At the close of the first year of Grant's administration, Henry C. Dawes, Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, a Republican leader in the House, longer a member of Congress than any other man in it, stood in his place on the floor and asked every member, before he commenced his speech, to send and get his book of estimates, and follow him figure by figure, and see to it that he had done it.

At the close of the first year of Grant's administration, Henry C. Dawes, Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, a Republican leader in the House, longer a member of Congress than any other man in it, stood in his place on the floor and asked every member, before he commenced his speech, to send and get his book of estimates, and follow him figure by figure, and see to it that he had done it.

At the close of the first year of Grant's administration, Henry C. Dawes, Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, a Republican leader in the House, longer a member of Congress than any other man in it, stood in his place on the floor and asked every member, before he commenced his speech, to send and get his book of estimates, and follow him figure by figure, and see to it that he had done it.

At the close of the first year of Grant's administration, Henry C. Dawes, Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, a Republican leader in the House, longer a member of Congress than any other man in it, stood in his place on the floor and asked every member, before he commenced his speech, to send and get his book of estimates, and follow him figure by figure, and see to it that he had done it.

Portland Correspondence.

PORTLAND, Sept. 12, 1871. EDITOR ENTERPRISE.—This city has been thrown into a perfect furore for the past week over the lectures of Miss Susan B. Anthony, a most horri bly advocate of Woman's Rights.

Is a tall, angular woman, perhaps fifty years of age, with glassy gray eyes, gray hair, wears spectacles, and one look into her countenance would frighten a young child into convulsions.

She is tall, angular woman, perhaps fifty years of age, with glassy gray eyes, gray hair, wears spectacles, and one look into her countenance would frighten a young child into convulsions.

She is tall, angular woman, perhaps fifty years of age, with glassy gray eyes, gray hair, wears spectacles, and one look into her countenance would frighten a young child into convulsions.

She is tall, angular woman, perhaps fifty years of age, with glassy gray eyes, gray hair, wears spectacles, and one look into her countenance would frighten a young child into convulsions.

She is tall, angular woman, perhaps fifty years of age, with glassy gray eyes, gray hair, wears spectacles, and one look into her countenance would frighten a young child into convulsions.

She is tall, angular woman, perhaps fifty years of age, with glassy gray eyes, gray hair, wears spectacles, and one look into her countenance would frighten a young child into convulsions.

She is tall, angular woman, perhaps fifty years of age, with glassy gray eyes, gray hair, wears spectacles, and one look into her countenance would frighten a young child into convulsions.

She is tall, angular woman, perhaps fifty years of age, with glassy gray eyes, gray hair, wears spectacles, and one look into her countenance would frighten a young child into convulsions.

She is tall, angular woman, perhaps fifty years of age, with glassy gray eyes, gray hair, wears spectacles, and one look into her countenance would frighten a young child into convulsions.

Remarks of Governor Grover on Laying the Corner Stone of the New Penitentiary.

FELLOW CITIZENS: We come here to-day to lay the corner stone of the first permanent public building of this State—the Penitentiary.

Before you are rising the walls of a structure, palatial in appearance, its architectural designs are ornate portals and windward designs—angles, and its coming dome, strike you as a work of beauty and a place of cheerfulness—and you ask, can this be a prison?

Perhaps the progress of society can be no better judged than by observing the course of public law for the punishment of crime and the modes of inflicting the punishment.

Under the progress of civilization the mode of inflicting the punishment of crime has changed from the barbarous to the humane, and from the cruel to the merciful.

Under the progress of civilization the mode of inflicting the punishment of crime has changed from the barbarous to the humane, and from the cruel to the merciful.

Under the progress of civilization the mode of inflicting the punishment of crime has changed from the barbarous to the humane, and from the cruel to the merciful.

Under the progress of civilization the mode of inflicting the punishment of crime has changed from the barbarous to the humane, and from the cruel to the merciful.

Under the progress of civilization the mode of inflicting the punishment of crime has changed from the barbarous to the humane, and from the cruel to the merciful.

Under the progress of civilization the mode of inflicting the punishment of crime has changed from the barbarous to the humane, and from the cruel to the merciful.

STATE NEWS.

The Plaines reports Oakland considerably more to the discovery of quartz ledge on Callalopa Creek which prospects very rich.

The Dallas Republican has the following: At the races Wednesday, Whitney's horse was the winner by about twenty feet.

Mr. William Tatem, who lives about four miles east of town, informs us that on Thursday afternoon of last week, his barn, together with his contents—about eight hundred bushels of wheat, and a considerable amount of other property, was entirely destroyed by fire.

The Statesman says: Again we are called upon to publish the occurrence of a very sad event, the result of a careless use of firearms.

The Eugene Guard says that Chinaman have been going through to the front on the Oregon and California Railroad at the rate of one hundred a day since Thursday.

The same paper says: Sheriff Palmer of Benton county, telegraphed to Sheriff Poindeux a day or two since to look out for three Indians, charged with horse-stealing, if he supposed they had started for this place.

The Portland county jail contains twenty six prisoners.

The Oregonian says that Messrs. Siltz & Upton, Real Estate Agents of this city, have recently made an extensive purchase of land in Washington county, on their own account.

The editor of the Albany Democrat has gone to the mountains. We hope our friend Brown will have a pretty good time.

The editor of the Albany Democrat has gone to the mountains. We hope our friend Brown will have a pretty good time.

Telegraphic Clippings.

PORTLAND, September 11.—Returns from 128 towns give Perham 30,327; Kimball, 24,045; making the Republican majority 6,427.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—The injunction case against the city officials came up this morning. The defendants all appeared by counsel, and announced their readiness to proceed.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 11.—Jacob Harper and the negro turkman, and the negro turkman, were found murdered in the latter's house. Several negroes living near the place have been arrested on suspicion, blood having been found on their clothes.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—One hundred guns were fired from the Government large office, at the Battery, yesterday in honor of the Republican victory in California.

It is expected that ten thousand trades unionists will take part in the workingmen's demonstration next Wednesday.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—A morning paper has a statement that John W. Norton, Superintendent of the Money Department of the City Postoffice, is a defaulter to the extent of from $100,000 to $200,000.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 12.—The Republican State Convention for the nomination of candidates for Governor and State officers, met to-day.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 11.—The whole Republican ticket is elected—including the three Congressmen—with the exception of McElroy, for Harbor Commissioner, who is probably beaten by a scratch.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 13.—The wheat market is rather quiet.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 13.—The owners of the steamer Constantine state that she has simply been hauled off for repairs, and not sold out to Holladay & Brenham, as reported.

Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer cleanses the head from dandruff. Give it a trial.

Oregon City Prices Current. The following are the prices paid for produce, and the prices at which other articles are selling, in this market:

WHEAT—White bushel, $1.10. OATS—per bushel, 60 cts. POTATOES—per bushel, 75 cts. ONIONS—per bushel, $1.00 to $1.50.

THE COSMOPOLITAN DRAWING. The Managers are settling with Agents, and the Cotton tree is making every preparation for the drawing.

Is a blessing vouchsafed to few. Even those who have been favored by nature with strong constitutions and vigorous frames are apt to neglect the precautions necessary to preserve these precious endowments.

NEW TO-DAY. MYERS'S HALL, Saturday Evening, Sept. 15, 1871. STEPHEN MASSETT WILL GIVE HIS BUDGET OF Sentiment and Fun TO THE CITIZENS OF OREGON CITY.

SUMMONS. In the Circuit Court for the County of Clackamas, State of Oregon.

NEW HARDWARE STORE, CORNER FRONT & STARK STS., PORTLAND, OREGON. JOHN R. FOSTER is now receiving and offers for sale, at the lowest rates, a full stock of SHELF AND BUILDERS' HARDWARE, Mechanics' Tools, Table and Pocket Cutlery, MINERS' GOODS, Nails, Ropes, Shovels, Anvils, Axes, Etc.,

NEW HARDWARE STORE, CORNER FRONT & STARK STS., PORTLAND, OREGON. JOHN R. FOSTER is now receiving and offers for sale, at the lowest rates, a full stock of SHELF AND BUILDERS' HARDWARE, Mechanics' Tools, Table and Pocket Cutlery, MINERS' GOODS, Nails, Ropes, Shovels, Anvils, Axes, Etc.,

NEW HARDWARE STORE, CORNER FRONT & STARK STS., PORTLAND, OREGON. JOHN R. FOSTER is now receiving and offers for sale, at the lowest rates, a full stock of SHELF AND BUILDERS' HARDWARE, Mechanics' Tools, Table and Pocket Cutlery, MINERS' GOODS, Nails, Ropes, Shovels, Anvils, Axes, Etc.,

NEW HARDWARE STORE, CORNER FRONT & STARK STS., PORTLAND, OREGON. JOHN R. FOSTER is now receiving and offers for sale, at the lowest rates, a full stock of SHELF AND BUILDERS' HARDWARE, Mechanics' Tools, Table and Pocket Cutlery, MINERS' GOODS, Nails, Ropes, Shovels, Anvils, Axes, Etc.,