I'm thinking of the roadside green, Of every tree and nook,-And how in sultry hours of noon We swam in Pantry Brook; And when upon the casement came The ruler's tattoo loud, How each of us, in passing in, Took off his hat and bowed.

I'm thinking of the benches rade, And desks, so broad and steep. On which we left our autographs In letters wide and deep : And where our first new writing-book So free from stain and spot, We soon adorned, on every page, With many an off-hand blot.

I'm thinking of the "old slough," Ned, And its waters, dark and cool, In which we bathed our sunburnt feet While on the way to school; And where the youthful tadpoles lay, In Spring-time, many a score. And golden lillies righly bloomed In Summer, near the shore.

I'm thinking of the forests cool Where firs and cedars grew, And where our feet in mosses sank As we hunted gum to chew; And of the pleasant meadows where, On many a scattered tree, We heard the red winged blackbird sing His song of "quonk a rec."

I'm thinking of the hour-glass, Ned, With its sand so white and fine, On which our teacher smiled and gazed, As neared the hour to dine; And I feel my sands are wasting, Ned, For oft the children say. As I fondle them upon my knee, "Papa, you're growing gray."

kISS ME BEFORE YOU GO. Your way lies over the hillside, Out in the rain and sleet. Out in the world's wild turmoil.

Where bustle and business meet; I at mine by the noisless fireside, Where the fancilal embers glow With a changeful life-like motion -Kiss me before you go.

My quiet way will be haunted With visions none others can see, Glances more precious than d'amonds, Smiles full of meaning to me; The sounds of a welcome footstep, A whisper thrillingly low,

Ah, thought will clasp memory closely-Kiss me before you go. For this world is full of mischances,

And one of those chances may fail, That we two ne'er again in the firelight Make one shadow upon the wall, O then, once more in the parting-Alas! that it must be so-Leave me a fond benediction-Kiss me before you go.

STARVATION OF A CHILD.—A dispatch from Fishkill Landing of the 16th ult., says that a boy, aged seven years, belonging to the strong women attached to O'Brien's Menagerie, died of starvation at Stonnville on Thursday night. The dispatch adds that while at Stonnville he was shut up in a behind his back; looking from the JOHN M. BACON, window he begged the cook to get him a piece of bread, and she got a ladder to ascend to the window, and threw the bread on the floor. STATIONERY, PERFUMERY, &c., &c., She says he looked as if he had not a drop of blood in him. It is stated that the woman bought the At Charman & Warner's old stand, lately oc child in Paris, for $100, to perform with her in a menagerie. The poor little fellow was buried yesterday. Steps have been taken to arrest the woman.
