LONG ROAD IS NEAR FINISH

Soon Possible to Drive From Salem to Walla Walla Without Puncture

Within two years it will be possible at any time of year to jump into an automobile in Salem and drive clear to Walla Walla, Wash., via the Columbia River highway without a puncture or a blowout—as far as good roads are concerned.

When the state highway commission meets in Portland February 5 it will let contracts for the grading and macadamizing of a stretch of highway from the Morrow-Umatilla county line to Echo, Umatilla county, and from Echo to Pendleton. These two stretches will connect directly with the Wild Horse highway leading out of Pendleton to Walla Walla, and with the letting of the two contracts next month only a stretch of about sixty miles between the Morrow-Umatilla county line and The Dalles will remain uncovered by contracts. The alles is considered the end of the Columbia River highway. The sixty-mile stretch extends through Gilliam, Sherman and Wasco counties.

Grading of the two stretches of road in Umatilla county is to be paid for by the county and the macadamizing by the state highway department.

The body was sent in the afternoon by Webb & Clough to Portland. The services will be held there today and interment will follow in Rose Park cemetery.

SALEM MEN ARE SOON TO SAIL

Watson, Elvin and Halvorsen All "Get By" in New York City

A letter received by W. I. Staley yesterday from George J. Watson brings the information that Mr. Watson, James Elvin and G. E. Halvorsen have all "gotten by" the several tests in New York and are to sail for France. Complying with war department rules Mr. Watson was compelled to leave blank the date of sailing and the name of the ship on which the Salem men will sail.

A shot in the left arm for smallpox and another in the left knocke Halvorsen out for a couple of days, but Elvin and Watson have been on their feet all the time.

The foreign address of the Salem men will be 12 Rue d'Agueseau Paris, France. Mr. Watson's lette follows:

"You will be interested to know that we all passed the board here yesterday—as well as Mr. Dillon from Portland and Mr. Maples from The Dalles, five Oregon men in all We have most of our equipment purchased and will get our foreig service uniforms tomorrow, although not permitted to wear them until the day we sail. This is a war department rule, as these uniforms are different from the home service kind. We leave for France on the ——instant on the steamship——— from pier———. If that news is not very filling, you will have to ask Washington for something more definite.

"All went before the physician yesterday and underwent a searching physical examination. We were vaccinated in the left arm for smallpox and took our first of three "shots" in the right arm for typhoid; the others follow at several days interval. Halvorsen and Maples were on the shelf most of last night and today from the typhoid inoculation, but Elvin and I were not very much affected, except that the arm is very sore. Our rotound physical director will say that our biff-bal training saved us, no doubt. And by the way, this letter is for all my good friends in the Y. M. C. A. and in Salem generally. We shall not forget your many kind expressions of good will and interest in the work at the time of our departure.

"From all that we hear there i still a heavy movement of troops to France, and still a very pressing need for men quilified for the Y. M C. A. work abroad. Three committees were working in internations' headquarters the day we were passed, and working hard. They were not passing men indiscriminately however, as two men just before me were refused—at least they were told there were no vacancies in the special lines at this time.

"Our assignment to duty does not come until we arrive in France, when we are placed by the director t in charge. However, Halvorsen wa recommended for the transport service, bringing up supplies to the huts and also to have supervision over a squad of men in that service and in making repairs. Elvin, Maples a I were passed for secretaries of huts near the front, where the troops are billeted in the villages.

"We are very busy, of course, s if you do not hear again before we sail this is good-bye, and may God bless the loyal ones at home who are doing so much to assure victor in this great struggle."

Salem High Will Play Albany Saturday Night

Next Saturday evening Salem will play Albany in the Salem high school gymnasium. Albany has an especially strong team this year, having been beaten only once, and so a good game is assured. The game will begin about 8:30 o'clock, as a preliminary game will be played between Company A team of the high school cadets and Washington Junior High school. The admission to both games is 25 cents. The lineup of the Salem team will be: Forwards, Gill and Gregg; center, Latham; guards, Ross and Hulsey.

Mrs. Belle W. Cook Died at Newberg on January 19

"Mrs. Belle W. Cook, who died January 19 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Nettie Lee, wife of Rev. George H. Lee, at Newberg, Or., was an Oregon pioneer, coming to the state in 1851. She was 83 years old.

"She came to Oregon with her uncle, Rev. George Chandler, who was first president of McMinnville college. Mrs. Cook was one of the first teachers at Willamette university.

"She was well known as a writer and suffrage leader. For many years she lived in San Francisco.

"She is survived by three sons besides her daughter. They are Clyde Cook of Vancouver, Wash., Dr. Clinton Cook of Seattle, and Gaylord Cook of San Francisco.

"Funeral services will be held in Newberg Wednesday afternoon. She will be buried in the cemetery at Forest Grove beside her uncle Rev. Mr. Chandler."

The above appears in the Oregon Journal, of January 23. Mrs. Cook was the relict of the late Joseph Cook, who will be remembered by the pioneer residents of Salem as being one of the proprietors of a sash and door factory here for several years. Mr. and Mrs. Cook and family lived on North Commercial street, near Division, for a long time, removing to San Francisco where Mr. Cook died a few years ago. As a writer of poetry Mrs. Cook was quite well known in Oregon literature. While here she was an active member of the First Congregational church.

Rutherford, Jonny T. Morizo, Frank T. Tanaka, Knight C. Pearcy, Ralph L. Scharf, James T. Nash, Albert Hugh Bressler, Walter Eugene Guyer, Amos C. Wood, Joseph G. Sched, Salem.

It is understood that all registrants who have not sent in their questionaires, or taken their physical examinations, as directed, are now considered on the delinquent list.

SALEM DEBATES FRIDAY NIGHT

Series Will Decide District Championship of Debating League

The Salem high school debate teams, which won unanimous decisions over Albany and Oregon City two weeks ago, will debate again tomorrow night. The subject will be the same as in the last debates, which is: "Resolved, That the United States Should Abandon the Monroe Doctrine." The negative team, composed of Dewey Probst and Paul Richardson, will meet the affirmative team from Estacada in the high school auditorium. The Salem affirmative team, Kenneth Power and Phillips Elliott, will journey to Hubbard to meet the negative team of that school.

These debates will decide the championship of the northern Willamette district of the Oregon Debating league. Salem has a strong team and expects to go a long way toward the state championship.

In order to meet expenses an admission of 10 cents is to be charged to the Salem-Estacada debate.

Interesting Equity Suit Is Filed in Local Court

Charles A. Johns of Portland, formerly of Baker, where he ran for governor just before moving to Portland, where he is now the general counsel for the Oregon & Washington Power company, yesterday filed in the circuit court a complaint which promises to be a suit of more than ordinary interest, as it affects the title to several large tracts of land in Marion county. The title of the suit is Charles Eugene Geelan against Mary Pulsky and Louie Pulsky, her husband, and Nellie Hiller and George Hiller, her husband, et al.

The complaint recites that Patrick Geelan began suit against the same defendants June 1, 1915, and that on July 8, 1916, the defendants and the plaintiff appeared in open court and agreed on the ownership of the several tracts of land then in dispute, and based on the agreement a decree was entered by the court appointing James Smith, F. M. Gearin and James Murphy as referees. Their report was filed July 20, 1916.

In the meantime Patrick Geelan died testate on July 22, 1916, and the present complaint prays the court to declare that he was at that time the fee simple owner of the tracts of land still in dispute.

Rays Pays Judge Webster $25 as Belated Penalty

Lat Ray, who lives at Mill City, who was apprehended early last spring by Deputy Game Warden Roy Bremmer for having more trout in his possession than the law permits, being about 160 fine beauties, promised to amend his ways in the future and go down to Salem and see Judge Webster in regard to the matter.

According to the deputy warden, Ray told Bremmer that he understood that in war times with the government urging everybody to use more fish, and keep on fishing for more, that it would be all right with Uncle Samuel. Bremmer, however, kept the warrant in his pocket, but Ray had important business down in California about that time, and forgot to stop over in Salem on his way through.

Bremmer happened to meet Constable Percy L. Varney on the street a short time ago, and when Varney heard that Ray had recently returned from his California trip, took his car out of the garage and called on Mr. Ray at Mill City and called his attention to the matter again. Ray took the hint, came in with Varney early yesterday, walked up to Judge Daniel Webster, paid him $25, the minimum under the law, and settled with Varney for the wear and tear on his motor car, axel grease, ets.

The next time Ray wants to go to California he thinks he will not go trout fishing before he starts.

BIGGEST CROWD HEARS SPEAKER

Bruce Evans Addresses Record Audience at First Baptist Church

"I'd rather have a grave in northern France than a palace in Berlin," said Bruce Evans, the evangelist, at the Baptist church last night.

The crowd that was the largest by far that has jammed into the building to hear Mr. Evans applauded and some even stamped their feet in approval of the sentiment expressed. Many stood around the walls of the building and some were turned away. As the meetings come to a close, Bruce Evans is proving his power not only to attract a large crowd but to hold it as well.

No man can put his arm across a buzzsaw and bring as much back as he put over, said the speaker. He further remarked that the devil's dice are loaded and a sinner stands no chance to win. Every draft on the bank of nature must be paid with compound interest. Any man who thinks he can put something over on the Almighty is a very unwise gentleman, according to the evangelist.

Yesterday Bruce Evans went to McMinnville to address the students of the college. This morning and also tomorrow morning he will speak in the absence of President Doney at the university. This afternoon he will speak at the state tuberculosis hospital and at 4 o'clock will speak to the boys at the state training school.

Each number was encored. Following the program light refreshments were served by the following committee: Mrs. L. W. Acheson, Mrs. E. B. Neyhart, Mrs. A. J. Basey, Mrs. R. Simeral, and Mrs. O. C. Kennan.

Mrs. N. A. Jones of Portland attended the installation ceremonies.

MARR PLEASED AT NEW LONDON

Salem Man Is Working on Device to Detect Presence of Submarines

James Marr, who was for several years employed at the United States National bank, and who since his enlistment has been stationed at Harvard university for several months, has written to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Marr, 404 South High street, that he has been transferred to New London, Conn., and is now working on a device for detecting submarines.

Mr. Marr thinks he will like his new location better. He now sleeps and eats on board ship, which, he says, is about a block long. He has a comfortable berth and the rations are said to be excellent. Every other Saturday he goes off duty at noon and does not have to report again until Monday, and is also allowed one evening off each week. He says he is well treated in every way and asks his parents not to worry about him as long as he is at New London. However, he expects his stay there to be short. He thinks he will soon be assigned to active duty, in the wireless department on some transport or submarine. He likes New London better than Harvard for the reason that he always liked ships and says it is a pleasure to have his board and room on one of them.

New London is a few miles distant from Mr. Marr's headquarters which are on the River Thames, near the ocean and in a very secluded place. The place is very closely guarded day and night, all guards carrying automatic pistols.

All letters are censored before being mailed out, but letters sent to the boys are not censored. Mr. Marr says he has had to pass many physical examinations since he left Salem and has just undergone a new one which was very severe, particularly relative to hearing. "Jimmy" passed all of them in fine style.

He asks his father to tell all of his Salem friends "Hello" and to tell them that his address for a month or so will be United States navy, radio department, New London, Conn.

CADET STATUS IS EXPLAINED

Boys in Salem Guards Cannot Serve as Officers in High School Company

Members of the Salem high school cadet corps who enlist in the new Salem company of home guards will not be allowed to serve as officers in the cadets, by a ruling that has been made by those in authority over the cadets. The reason given is an entirely practical one, and the boys who serve in both companies will not be deprived of their high school credits as has been rumored.

Superintendent John W. Todd explains that it will be impossible for boys enlisted in both companies to serve as officer in the cadets for the reason that if the state guards were detailed to duty the cadets would be deprived of their officers, or if both were asked to participate in the same parade, for example, the cadets would be unofficered.

"Should service in the two companies conflict for the cadets who are also in the guards," said Mr. Todd, "the high school boys would be expected to give the guards precedence, and this would be right. But if the boys were officers in the cadet corps it would demoralize the high school company. This is the reason for the ruling that has been made."

The question came up, according to an officer of the guards, when some of the high school boys were observed removing the chevrons from their sleeves at a recent drill of the guards.

The high school company is not subject to a call for service.

FREIGHT EMBARGO IS PUT IN EFFECT

forcement of a preferred list of consumers automatically cuts off shipments to them.

Fuel administration officials could not say today just what has been the effect of the five-day closing other than that more ships have been supplied with bunger coal and that complaints from household consumers of lack of coal have been fewer.

Four Cousins of Mrs. Stafrin Killed in War

Mrs. Conrad Stafrin of Dallas, wife of Captain Stafrin, commanding officer of Company L, 162nd United States infantry, now in France, has received word that her cousin, William Donley, has been killed in action in France. He was with the Canadian forces. He is the fourth cousin of Mrs. Stafrin to be killed while fighting with the Canadians in France.

Domestic Sciene Girls to Serve Seventy-Five

The domestic science department of the senior high school, under the direction of Miss Nell Sykes and Miss Gertrude Purinton, will serve dinner from 5:30 to 7 o'clock Friday night to seventy-five persons in the rooms of the department at the high school building. The reservation plan has been used in assigning the plates and only seventy-five persons will be served. A charge of 50 cents a plate will be made. Miss Sykes and Miss Purinton believe that, with the girls of the department doing the work, half of the amount taken in can be cleared to donate to the Armenian-Syrian relief fund. The rooms will be decorated for the evening.

Junior Red Cross Work Progressing in Schools

City Superintendent John W. Todd says that every school in Salem is expected to make a 100 per cent showing in the organization and support of the Junior Red Cross. The work of organization has been placed in the hands of the principals of the several schools and the collections are now being made.

Pupils in the schools have the option of paying their dues of 25 cents in cash or of working on Red Cross supplies to that extent. The Grant school is leading in the work.

An Old Recipe to Darken Hair

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark, and Glossy.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy, and you look years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.
