

THIS WEAK, NERVOUS WOMAN TOOK VINOL

It Made Her Strong and Well

Barneveld, Wis.—"I was in a weak, nervous, run-down, anemic condition, so that my housework was a burden. Vinol was recommended, and it made me well and strong. It is certainly the best tonic and strength creator I have ever taken."
—Mrs. John Lewis.
"Vinol is a cod liver and iron constitutional remedy for weak, nervous, run-down conditions of men, women and children. Your money will be returned if it does not help you."

reported to us whilst we were at sea. May I pay my respectful tribute of honor to the gallant men who have made the supreme sacrifice for their country's sake and express my profound sympathy with their relatives?
"I am indeed glad to find myself once again, and for the third time since the beginning of the war, in America. It is barely three months ago since I sailed for England and I return this time charged with many varied duties which I should scarcely have had the courage to undertake had I not known from past experience that my government could implicitly rely upon the cordial good will of the American people and their complete cooperation with the allies in all measures necessary for the vigorous prosecution of the war."
"I am sure you will fully understand that I cannot make any statement in my official capacity until I have been received by your president. Moreover, I am not yet acquainted with what has happened since I left for military domination of the world, ertheless, be permitted to say that the recent pronouncements upon war aims by your president and of the British minister, which are substantially in accord and are accepted by the allies, have been received with complete unanimity by the British people. You know how vastly the answers made by the German government have differed from their professions when entering into the negotiations at Brest-Litovsk. But those utterances have now left no shadow of doubt that the German government is waging this war for conquest of nations and territory and for military domination of the world.

More War Necessary.
"There can be but one answer for the free and democratic nations united in the struggle against the common enemy. It is to continue to put forth all their powers and to employ all their resources to resist this attempt at military despotism and finally to bring about a just and lasting peace. Such a peace alone will give security against wanton aggression and the violation of treaties and will ensure liberty and justice for all nations."

"Let me impress upon you that when I left England the determination to carry the war through to the end was as fixed as ever. The British people are ready to face the critical months before us, perhaps the most critical of the war, with grim tenacity. They are prepared to endure what ver suffering or privation or sacrifice may be necessary to obtain the only possible conclusion of this war. That the American people are equally prepared to make every effort to bring about this result is the surest guarantee that the cause is just and the aim is righteous."

The Graves committee, with headquarters in London, undertakes to furnish the relatives of British soldiers killed in action with information as to the burial place of the departed hero and a photograph of the grave, whenever obtainable.

Tomatoes Give Up Overcoats.
At one camp there were not enough overcoats in the stores to go around, so the British Tommies gladly took off the coats they were wearing and put them on the Americans. The Red Cross also sent from the Belfast branch knitted mufflers, helmets and sweaters which were especially welcomed by the Americans in their first experience with the Irish climate.

The one thing most appreciated by the men was a visit from Miss Jean Ogilvie, a member of the Red Cross from New York. She was the first American woman they had seen since leaving the United States. She came from Belfast with cigarettes, clothing, comforts and food. Two thirds of the men lost all of their funds except a little pocket change. Fortunately a few carried money belts, and saved their money, which, once ashore, they promptly distributed among the others.

The American officers were hit hardest. All lost their kits and the larger part of their uniforms which, unlike the privates, they must obtain at their own expense. As for the enlisted men, townspeople everywhere invariably refused to accept payment for purchases by them.

Survivors Are Quartered.
LONDONDERRY, Feb. 9.—All the American survivors from the Tuscania with the exception of about 100 sick or injured and a party of 142 who landed in Scotland were today quartered in two military camps.

To a majority of the men the overland journey from the northern coast where they were brought ashore was their first ride in the native toy-like trains and they thoroughly enjoyed it. The news had spread through the countryside that the Americans were coming in special trains, and at each little railway station groups of farmer folk had gathered to catch a glimpse of the troops and wave a friendly greeting, to which the Americans were constantly making acknowledgments. Scottish troops piped the Americans from the railway to the camps. Captains Wells and Smith of the American Red Cross, who had visited as many of the landing places as was physically possible, followed the men to camp, where they helped to distribute funds to the American officers and will see that the men are properly outfitted. A complete issue of clothing was made to each officer and private. The outfits came from British stores on orders from quartermasters and captains, and payment is guaranteed by the Red Cross. Besides clothing, each man was presented with a razor and a shaving brush.

Injured Are Few.
AN IRISH PORT, Feb. 9.—The correspondent of The Associated Press who visits to the sick and injured Americans confined in hospitals in two widely separated Irish seaports today found them progressing favorably. In fact, many of the men had been discharged from the hospital and had rejoined their comrades in camp. There was only one dangerously ill out of a total of 100 in five hospitals—a lumberjack from the southwest who was suffering from pneumonia as a result of exposure.

There were a remarkably small number of injured men, probably not more than a dozen. They received fractures of legs or arms by getting caught between the lifeboats. The majority of the men are suffering from mumps, measles or pneumonia of which there were many cases aboard at the time the Tuscania was torpedoed.
The correspondent found the Americans comfortable and cheerful. The townspeople at both places have done and are still doing everything to assist the local authorities in giving the best possible attention to the Americans who are loud in the praise of the courtesies extended on every hand.

One of the conditions of enlistment in the famous French Foreign Legion is that in any fighting the Legion shall lead any "forlorn hope" the French army may be called to carry out.

No Further Peace Plans Permitted Says Hun Paper

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 9.—Discussing the peace negotiations, the Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung says no further concessions to the Russians will be permitted. Should the peace negotiations with Ukraine materialize, then the development of peace negotiations with Trotsky may be a matter of indifference to us the paper adds.
Vorwaerts says this means that Trotsky will be confronted with an ultimatum requiring him fully to recognize the German demands of December 27, including the question of self-determination for the Russian border people as the German government conceives it. Otherwise war against Russia will be resumed. "We do not know what Trotsky will reply," says Vorwaerts, "but if the negotiations are wrecked, we know the German people will inquire very thoroughly into the question of who is to blame."

Two soldiers in the military hospital at Bath, England, furnish a strange example of war's coincidence. Both were born in the same village, both joined the same regiment, were simultaneously wounded in their left ankles by bullets which passed into their right feet, traveled home together in the same convoy, and were placed side by side in the hospital to receive identical treatment.
