For JUSTICE of the PEACE FRANK DAVEY

I am asking the Republican nomination for justice of the peace of the Salem district because I believe myself thoroughly equipped to give the best possible service in that important position. I came to Salem in 1887, over thirty years ago, and in every movement since for the betterment of the city and all its enterprises, for the development and settlement of the state, for the safety and support of the nation, I have taken a somewhat prominent part with hand and tongue and pen. My life is known to all who have lived here a dozen years or more, and I trust to their verdict. I am a lawyer by education and have been in close touch for thirty-eight years with courts, even to the highest jurisdiction. I know the work of a justice office thoroughly. I have not an enemy in the world to punish and I know of no friend who would ask reward at the expense of justice. Respect for law and its enforcement without malice, revenge or oppression is inherent in me and has been intensified by my extensive experience in making laws, hence the public knows what to expect from me. I owe the people of Salem and vicinity for many friendships. I expect to repay them by honest, faithful service at all times. —Frank Davey.

ARTHUR WATERS MAKES ESCAPE

Runner in Turnkey's Office Walks Away From Prison After Supper Hour

Arthur Waters, a trusty who was employed as a runner in the office of the turnkey at the state penitentiary, made his escape last night between 7:30 and 9 o'clock. He was committed from Multnomah county July 6, 1917, to serve from one to seven years for larceny from a dwelling. Before his sentence to Salem he had been in a reformatory at Chehalis, Wn., for two years and served a year in the Multnomah county jail. Waters apparently walked out of the building and the prison yard not long before supper. Trustees are not required to assemble for the night and are not crowded for time before 9 o'clock.

Waters is not considered dangerous. He is 20 years old, 5 feet 9 inches tall, weighs about 150 pounds, has dark brown hair, hazel eyes and is light of complexion. He is of tall slender stature. His prison number is 7721.

State Is Not Liable for Debts of Contracting Firms

It is not necessary, on behalf of the state, to ascertain whether a contractor erecting a state building has paid his sub-contractors before settlement is made with the contractor, according to an opinion of Attorney General Brown in reply to a question put by J. H. Ackerman, president of Oregon Normal school. President Ackerman asked if the state is liable for the contractor's debts if he does not pay his sub-contractors. Reference is made to a contract with the state board of trustees for normal schools for the construction of new buildings at the Monmouth institution. The opinion says it is usual, however, to require a waiver from the surety on the contractor's bond if final settlement is made prior to the time specified in the contract, so that if any suit or action should be commenced upon the bond there will be no question of defense on account of premature judgment. No suit can be made against the state without its consent. Mr. Ackerman asked the information because of reported straightened circumstances of the contractor.
