It, do so. It looks and tastes somewhat like fresh venison.

All told, it is estimated about one thousand persons dined and supped with the women of the Red Cross.

The grab bag, deestrick skule, dancing girls in costume made a lot of fun, but the big auction sale today, when "Brother Bill" will hold the boards, flanked by ten or a dozen pigs from "Daddy" Eyre's ranch, will keep the auctioneers busy, and doubtless there will be a lot of "squealing" done, if the boys and girls don't get a fair show when the bidding begins.

Colonel E. Hofer has donated for sale at the Country Fair, many beautiful and old-time favorite flowers, including roses, gladiola bulbs, forget-me-nots, etc.

The beautiful floral booth is the center of attraction, for all lovers of flowers and is in charge of Mrs. R. P. Wallis and Mrs. C. P. Bishop.

The rose slips, which are one year old, all ready to be planted are 50 cents each, and they include American Pillar, Thousand Beauty and Caroline Testout, the latter at $1.25 a dozen.

High Price of Feed Not Unsurmountable Obstacle

"The high price of feeds is not an unsurmountable obstacle to profitable production of poultry and eggs," says U. L. Upson, federal extension poultry husbandman, now in Salem, when shown the headline inquiry of the Capital Journal of March 13.

"It is a fact, he continued, that the poultrymen I have interviewed in Oregon who are keeping and have kept books for previous years, have stated without exception that they are making a better profit this season than for several seasons past."

"While it is true perhaps that there are some phases of the feeding question which should receive careful attention by those who have this matter in hand, it is also true that the greatest part of the agitation is being raised by the people who are not sufficiently interested in poultry keeping to justify the keeping of accurate records of feed costs from year to year, or those who through timidity, or for other reasons, sold off their flocks last season and are now endeavoring to justify their course to themselves and others.

"In every case of complaint which I have had an opportunity to investigate, I have found that there is a joker somewhere in the deck. In fact, the whole commotion among poultrymen resembles, somewhat, the causeless commotion created by the pet rooster on Sunday morning about daybreak."

NOT WORTH BITING. During a hot march in Palestine a sturdy Scotch soldier, six feet in height and proportionately broad, found himself side by side with a humpbacked little Englishman, who was five feet nothing.

It was a hot day and the Scot was greatly troubled with the midges. They buzzed around him all the time, while the little Englishman seemed to be immune.

"The midges don't trouble me!" said the little man triumphantly. "I wonder why?"

The Scot looked down from his superior height.

"I daur say," he replied, "it's because they haven't noticed ya yet!" —Chicago Herald.
