Nothing Like it for Rundown and Nervous People

Von Ormy, Texas—"I suffered from a general run-down condition—anaemia, loss of appetite and cough, so I was unfit for my work. I tried different medicines without help, and through my druggist learned of Vinol. I took it; my appetite increased, my cough disappeared, I gained in weight and I am now well and strong, so I can conscientiously endorse Vinol."—Viola Salada, R. N., Van Ormy, Tex.

Dentistry Done to a Standard Not to a Price

I don't advertise set prices for dental work. You will never see me promising to sell to all comers gold crowns for $3.50, porcelain fillings for $2.00 or bridge work for $5.00, and talking that sort of nonsense to you.

I am selling reasonable priced but expert dentistry. I'm not peddling hand-me-down molars. I'm not trying to run a five-and-ten-cent store with a few gross of second rate incisors on the counter. I'm not in the business of foisting on the public shoddy, catch-penny goods—not in this line of work where vitally valuable human teeth are the price of unscrupulousness.

No honest dentist can tell me that he can give every patient the same job for the same time, care and price. No two dental operations are identically alike. Human teeth are the same all over the world, but careless habits, indifference, neglect and, often, other physical causes bring about abnormal conditions. How, then, can I conscientiously promise you that a gold crown on your upper bicuspid will cost exactly what it will to put a gold crown on your neighbor's lower molar?

It's cruel to tip off the professional secrets of some of the merry maxillary mechanics of my acquaintance, but I can't resist explaining that the advertising of fixed prices is merely a rude dodge to bait customers into the dental "parlor" and there talk them into contracting for work much more expensive than that so glibly advertised.

Dental operations that are cheap in price are too often cheap in workmanship. The Painless Parker offices are a unit in their insistence on the best of skilled work, all up to a fixed standard. The prices vary, of course, but, with our perfected business organization, our corps of specialists and our ability to buy the best goods in bulk at a low rate, we can quote figures far below Dental Trust fees—and still make our reasonable profit.
