Red Cross Material Arrives-

The Salem Red Cross headquarters sure. J. C. Perry. has recently received about 16,000 yards of bandage material, and several thousand yards more are on the way, besides about a thousand pounds of yarn for knitted goods. This yarn will be stored at the Meyers store where it will be distributed to the workers next Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Apparently there is still a large demand for the wool goods in spite of the lateness of the season. There has been a very good turnout of the workers during the past two days and a gratifying amount of material has been made up. It is now planned to make a shipment of sixteen boxes on April

Case Against Two Lines Dismissed by Portlanders

The Portland Traffic and Transportation association and the Oregon Portland Cement company yesterday requested the public service commission to dismiss their complaint against the Southern Pacific and Oregon Electric railroad companies, but made known their intention to proceed against the other defendant railroads. The plaintiffs sought to have the Southern Pacific and Oregon Electric establish, by way of Jefferson street, Portland, a through route to points of destination on lines of the Oregon Electric and to make joint rates from Oswego to those points. The other defendant roads against which the action will continue are the Spokane, Portland & Seattle, the Oregon-Washington Railroad & Navigation company, and the Oregon Short-Line.

'I'll give you a match if you bring in another prisoner."

The Italian, who is only 5 feet inches tall, went back over the parapet. He returned in less than five minutes, walking with drawn bayonet behind a 6 foot German who was yelling "kamerade, kamerade." A few minutes later it was reported that ten Germans were lying in a machine gun nest in No Man's Land. The Italian started for the spot alone, but he was ordered back by the commander of the unit, who later sent a detachment of men to rout out the enemy, which they did. Americans Are Eager, The prisoners captured by the
