Broken Springs Are Made Into Effective Tire Tools

Have you ever stopped on a country road, several miles from the nearest garage, to change a tire and find you had either lost or left your tire tool at home? Then you realized what an indispensable item of equipment the lowly tire tool is in fitting a clincher tire on a rim. Drivers of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber company tire testing cars have solved the problem of supply by transforming broken springs into tire tools. It's a simple process. Here's how a home-made tire tool is made: Touch up, with emery cloth, the thin end of a very old spring. The old springs are easily converted into tools, because of the thin end usually wearing into a very sharp point, thus necessitating but a slight application of the emery cloth. "A broken spring makes an excellent tire tool for a clincher tire," said one of the Goodrich drivers, "and can be quickly made by anyone at no expense. We have found in operating our fleets of test cars that tire tools are misplaced or lost more than any other tool box item. Since our mechanics discovered the "spring tool" we always have an ample supply on hand." Mrs. R. B. Laufer, of Richmond, Calif., was registered at the Bligh hotel yesterday.

WOMEN UNDER ALIEN ENEMY RESTRICTIONS

All of German or Austrian Birth Must Register, Is President's Edict

PROCLAMATION ISSUED

Arrest and Internment Penalty For Violation of Law Aimed at Propagandists

WASHINGTON, April 20.—German and Austrian women in the United States were placed under the same restrictions as have prevailed for male aliens by a proclamation issued today by President Wilson under the recently enacted law including women in the definition of enemy aliens. These restrictions, applicable only to women above 14 who have not been naturalized by their own or their male relatives' declaration of citizenship are as follows: German and Austrian women are subject to arrest and internment if they violate the laws or are regarded as dangerous persons to allow at large.

German women must register, as German males have done, with police or postmasters on some future date to be determined by Attorney General Gregory.

German women are forbidden to enter barred zones about water fronts and warehouses without special permit, after date not yet determined by the attorney general.

German women must leave the District of Columbia by next Monday at midnight, if they are transients, or by May 5 if they have lived in the district since war was declared. None may enter the district.

By these restrictions the government hopes to rid the country of a number of women who are suspected of having promoted German propaganda even after their husbands or other male relatives were interned.

No reason to Complain of Monotony, Say Police

STOCKHOLM, March 31.—A newspaper published in the village of Rosenberg, East Prussia, recently contained the following "personal" advertisement:

"Two lively young girls of the better class, who are weary of the monotony of life here, desire to make the acquaintance of two educated gentlemen of happy and straightforward disposition and agreeable manners. Marriage not especially desired, but faithful escorts to places of amusement and for winter sports is a requirement."

The police authorities of the village replied in the paper's next week's issue with the following advertisement:

"The two young ladies who find life so monotonous here are hereby advised to seek employment in a munitions factory. By doing so they will be following the example of thousands of young English girls, who now find no reason to complain about monotony. If the two young ladies do not follow this advice within one week from today, the police will come to their homes and—if it be necessary—drive them out to work."

"Blinks seems to lead a very happy married life."
"Yes. His wife can darn, but she can't knit."—Utica Globe.

PEASANT LIFE IS DEPICTED

"Chimes of Normandy to Be Given by Salem High School Chorus

"The Chimes of Normandy," given by the high school chorus, is a story of French peasant life in the seventeenth century. The old-fashioned village dress is quaint and picturesque. The odd manner of speech and courtesy are brought out in a charmingly effective way in the beautiful music of this opera by Planquette. The costumes will be rented from a Seattle house which has just costumed the same opera for a high school in Tacoma. That this house carries most beautiful and elaborate costumes was proven by the elegant costumes sent for the two plays staged by the Salem high school this winter.

The chorus consists of twenty-eight peasant boys and girls and nine principals. The characters are well chosen and are enthusiastic about their parts. Miss Joanna James, who was leading lady in "The Mikado" when staged here two years ago by Mr. Wilson of Medford, is also leading lady, Germaine, in this opera. Henri, marquis of Cornerville, is ably taken by William Harris, a popular singer in all high school programs. Gaspard, the miser, guardian of Germaine, and Serpolette, the merry mischief maker of the village, two of the most difficult characters to sustain, are exceptionally well portrayed by Charles Douglas as Gaspard and Florence Jones as Serpolette. Jean Grenicheux, the fisherman, in love with Germaine, is claimed by Serpolette as her sweetheart, is the leading tenor role, and has two of the most beautiful solos in the opera. George Doust is excellent as Grenicheux.

The fat and dignified old Baillie who is to marry Germaine, is Phillip Elliott. The notary who fills the place of the Baillie while that dignified arm of the law is hunting his stolen wig, is Ira Cave. Four peasant girl friends of Germaine are: Gertrude, Hazel McIlchrist; Manette, Edna Ackerman; Suzanne, Emily Loose, and Jeanne, Leona Estes. Bayard Finley as leader of the men servants, and Reed Rowland, as leader of the men; Donald Davison and Lloyd Walz as clerks of the notary, and a grand chorus of twenty-eight picked voices, will present a splendid opera, an evening of fun, for this is a comic opera, but clean fun with good music. The City orchestra, under the direction of Miss Lillian Stege, will greatly add to the success of the evening. And the big thing back of all this is that the high school chorus of 130 voices want to do their part for the liberty loan fund. That is the object of this opera. They want to clear $100 for the fund, and more if possible. Every ticket is out in the field now. The students are working hard, and in all probability every ticket will be sold by next Saturday.

American units which bore the brunt of last week's fighting northwest of Toul addressed the men today praising them for the gallantry and courage shown in that action and for their defeat of numerically superior enemy forces.

Village Is Among Hills

The village of Seicheprey, where the German attack occurred Saturday, is northwest of Toul and about seven miles east of the forest of Apremont, where the Americans repulsed masses of German storm troops recently. The fact that American troops have been on the sector north of Toul has been known, but the fighting at Seicheprey, together with the report of an engagement north of St. Mihiel, shows that upwards of twenty miles of the line in that sector is under American control. Seicheprey lies among rolling hills overlooking a winding valley which runs off to the northeast. The probable objective of the German attack there was to get possession of a strategic road which parallels the battle line for fifteen miles.

SOME ORDER. A certain Irish sergeant in one of the home regiments was exceedingly wroth when he discovered that one of his men had paid a visit to the regimental barber and was minus his mustache. He immediately went up to him, "Private Jones," he roared, "who on earth gave yez permission to get that mustache off?" "Nobody," answered Jones unconcernedly, "only I thought it would improve my appearance."

"Improve your appearance wid a face like yours," bawled the enraged sergeant. "If yez dont' hiv it on again at the afternoon parade today there'll be trouble.—Unidentified.
