COMEDY AND SENTIMENT

while over and about them were draped the three flags of the allies, and the entire scene thrown out in vivid relief by red fire in the background. It was a fitting climax to a program filled with the spirit of patriotism.

The second portion of the program settled back into the realm of vaudeville, scintillating with comic stunts and shaking with laughter. Prominent in these were Ivan Martin with euphonium numbers beautifully rendered, Mrs. A. J. Rahn in a killing "cullahd" stunt and a trio of camouflaged artists with accordion, French horn and trombone.

As a finale was Cooke Patton's spookly performance in the cabinet in which were some things both pretty and surprising, and all done to a musical accompaniment.

It was a very satisfied and gratified audience that left the building at the close, and every one carried a sense of appreciation of the labor and the genius that had made the performance possible.

Chicago took a two run lead in the third on passes to Barber and Paskert and singles by Mann and Kilduff. Cincinnati scored their first run on singles by Allen and Groh and Elliott's wild throw. The Reds won the game in the seventh on a double by Blackburne and single by Allen.

EXPECT TO SET PRICE ON WOOL

Leading Dealers Meet With Committee of War Industries Board Every Day

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Guarantee of a fair price for raw wool to the producer is expected to follow a series of separate conferences of representatives of the Nation Wool Growers' association and leading wool dealers with the price-fixing committee of the war industries board.

The wool growers have been here since Saturday, meeting daily with the committee and today representatives of wool merchants were called in by the committee. Within the next two days officials think an agreement will be reached between the growers and the dealers where by the growers will receive a stipulated price for wool clips from the dealers which will allow sufficient profit to stimulate production. The wool dealers, according to the arrangement being worked out by the price-fixing committee will be assured a price that will cover their overhead expenses and net them a small margin of profit for handling the wool between the producer and the manufacturer of the finished product.

Progress made at the conferences so far indicate, according to officials, that a long-standing controversy between the wool growers and the handlers of their output before it gets to the manufacturer, will be settled for the period of the war. The dealers here for the conference represent interests from Boston, New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Chicago. The growers are from practically all the wool growing states.

SHOTS FIRED DURING TRIAL KILL HINDUS

ately after United States District Attorney John W. Preston concluded the prosecution argument to the jury and the noon recess had been declared. The shooting came as a tragic, dramatic climax to the trial which started Novemb 20 last, and had engaged world-wide attention because of its broad scope.

The dead men are Ram Singh, who was shot by Marshal Holohan, and Ram Chandra, editor of the Hindustan "Ghad" (Revolution), the most prominent of the Hindu defendants, and also as the outgrowth of a controversy over a parcel of land owned in Canada by Singh.

Pistol Smuggled In. The federal authorities tonight were concentrating their efforts upon discovering how the automatic pistol which Ram Singh used, had come into his possession. All Hindu defendants are searched daily as they enter the court room. Santokh Singh, a third Hindu defendant, was suspected from his countrymen on suspicion, the federal authorities said, that he had obtained the pistol and had given it to Ram Singh at the 11 o'clock recess.

At the opening of the afternoon session, Judge William C. Van Fleet, presiding, exonerated Marshal Holohan from all blame, either for the shooting or for the possession of the pistol by Ram Singh. He announced that Singh had been given the pistol at the morning recess. Singh had been seen at the morning recess

Y. M. C. A. IN FIGHTING LINE

Big Shells Damage Huts in Present Drive, Says Letter to Gingrich

Placing its automobiles at the service of the British and French in removing the wounded soldiers and refugees, seeing its huts blown to atoms, its dug-outs shattered and its tents riddled with shrapnel, the Y. M. C. A. on the western front has passed through a baptism of fire only to come back with the same fortitude and vigor as the allied troops.

According to the information received here by Oscar B. Gingrich, general secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., at least $20,000 damage has been done to Y. M. C. A. equipment or has fallen into German hands on the western front in the present drive. The information says:

"Four times the Y. M. C. A. men moved their positions and abandoned during the retreat one large wooden building, two huge tents and a quantity of supplies. Five soldier huts loaned to the British Y. M. C. A. have been lost. Two others on the French line were destroyed by shell fire and two badly damaged.

"It is only another proof of the red-blooded work of the association secretaries at the front to find that their huts and dug-outs are under fire and that they are serving men in the very face of death. Now the call has gone out for additional men to serve in Y. M. C. A. work overseas and the response is magnificent. The Y. M. C. A. workers are doing their share to bring victory to the allied forces."

Order Is Restored. Judge Van Fleet, who had left the room just before the first shot, and was at the door of his chambers adjoining the court, returned and restored a semblance of order. The bodies of the dead men were covered as the room was cleared of all but defendants and counsel. Judge Van Fleet ordered all defendants on bail remanded into custody for their own protection and ordered that all persons entering the room at the afternoon session be searched thoroughly.

Mrs. Ram Chandra was summoned to the court room and broke down at the sight of her husband, lying in an ever-widening pool of blood. She was led from the court room to a nearby office, screaming and shrieking through broken English intermingled with Hindustani. Two small children survive Chandra.

Woman Narrowly Escapes. Mrs. Annete A. Adams, assistant United States district attorney, who aided in the prosecution, was directly behind Chandra when he was shot. She attempted to flee behind the judge's desk, but her foot was caught and held under Chandra's body as he fell to the floor. She extricated her-

Case Goes to Jury

The case of a group of German consular officials, millionaire American shipping men and Hindus, charged with conspiring in this country to overthrow British rule in India, went to the jury at 6:53 o'clock.

The jury received the case after five months of testimony. The trial began before the United States district court November 20 last. In scope the conspiracy was worldwide and resultant drama had the far places and out of the way corners of the earth for its scene.

Because of the fact that the jurors must vote upon the cases of thirty defendants, it is thought that a verdict will not be reached tonight.

District Attorney John W. Preston finished the prosecution closing argument today just before the shooting. He attacked the defense of J. Clyde Hizar, Bernard Manning and Writer Sauebeck, defendants, and requested a verdict of guilty against all the defendants.

Judge Van Fleet consumed all the afternoon with his instructions to the jury. He counseled them that in their deliberations they should take no cognizance of the double tragedy.

The jury went to dinner at 6:30 p. m. without having reached a verdict. Deliberation was resumed when they returned at 7:30 p. m.
