No Report On Sales—
It is not probable that any report will be made on the sales of thrift stamps in Salem yesterday, which was set apart as thrift stamp day throughout the nation. While there was considerable activity in the sale of stamps in Salem it was not possible to do the work in such a way as to keep an accurate account of results. Most of the business houses of the city had unusually large supplies of stamps on hand and offered them for change.

Forty Selected Men To Come—
The work of the local exemption board on the latest draft is now drawing toward the close. There are about forty class 1 men who are yet to go before the examining board. Then it will require a couple of weeks for the board to make up the lists to show the total enlistments of all classes. As the recent draft order exempts the state of Oregon on account of its past contributions of young men, the boards will have a welcome rest from the signing of blanks and similar work that has occupied them for months past.

INCREASE IN GRAZING SHOWN
Sheep and Cattle to Browse in Northwest Forests in Large Numbers.

To meet the war needs of the country, sheep and cattle will be grazed on the national forests in increased numbers this year, according to information from Washington just received by District Forester George H. Cecil of Portland. Half a million more sheep and nearly a quarter of a million more cattle will be taken care of than last year, according to the officials of the forest service. This will bring the total number of stock grazed under permit to about nine million sheep, 2,360,000 head of cattle and 51,000 swine.
This increase is on top of an increase of 200,000 sheep and 100,000 cattle made last year, when it was recognized that the country's need for beef, mutton, wool, and hides called for the fullest possible use of the national forest ranges. Through conservative handling of the ranges for more than ten years their productivity has been steadily rising. With the country at war, the necessity of agriculture felt it was necessary to take some chances of overgrazing in the interest of larger immediate production. The results of admitting a larger number of livestock were, however, carefully watched. Any further increases made this year are mainly made possible by finding out how additional stock can be grazed without injury to the ranges, through more intensive methods of use.

made in the Colorado and Wyoming forests, where 51,000 additional cattle and 151,000 more sheep will be grazed. In the state of California there will be 157,000 more sheep. The provision for more cattle is widely distributed through relatively small increases on practically all of the forests.
In Colorado virtually all of the additional sheep to be grazed are owned in small numbers by settlers of the immediate vicinity. Under present wartime conditions it is no longer necessary to handle sheep in large hands in order to make the handling profitable.

Annual School Meetings
Third Monday in June

County Superintendent Smith is mailing out to the 127 school districts of the county the official announcements of the coming annual school election to be held in each district the third Monday in June. At this early date he urges the taxpayers of the various districts to keep the date in mind and arrange to attend the meetings, as it frequently happens that the voters present are very few in number. Along with the notice goes the annual budget and blank contracts for new teachers. Up to the present time very few selections of teachers have been made.
