Vanderveer Again Objects to Introduction of Tons of Printed Matter

ATTORNEYS DISAGREE

Evidence Introduced Shows Total Receipts of Organization Increased

CHICAGO, May 7.—An attempt by the defense in the trial of 112 leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World to bar from the records tons of printed matter seized in the government's raid last fall met with defeat today in a ruling by Federal Judge Landis for the third time in two days.

with opposing counsel we have saved the government thousands of dollars," said George F. Vanderveer, counsel for the defense. "But in this case, witnesses should be called to substantiate the government's claim that the matter was seized at the points indicated."

me, I was tired when I tied myself into Captain Neer's comfortable camp cot. I think I fell asleep tying myself in. Sunday morning I was up bright and early shaking hands with a bunch of Salem boys who came to give him no trouble whatever. He could hardly trust himself to believe that it was I. Said he was getting his mail regularly. Many of the boys got the Journal and the Statesman.

enlightened and I didn't know whether he would be able to stand army life. Now he is one of the biggest men in the company. He weighs 180 pounds and is every inch a man and soldier. If his folks could see him they would be so proud of him. He certainly gave me the "once-over" and could hardly believe it was I.

When I returned to camp I saw Theron Hoover. I visited his quarters and found his bed comfortable and he said his health was rapidly returning. He said that the folks frequently mentioned me in their letters and had sent clippings from the papers concerning my trip. Tell his mother and father that I am sure in a little while he will be stronger than ever.

Saturday evening there was a grand entertainment local talent at the "Y". There is an abundance of great talent in the camp and the entertainments are as good as can be found in France. The "Y" also sends singers, lecturers, concert companies and special artists so that every night there is something. The stage scenery was as beautiful as in any theatre. The hut cost $12,000 so you can understand it is no mean building.

Secretary Shaw, a fine fellow, was in charge and two fine American girls will be helping him this week. The boys take a great pride in the "Y". They have a fine meeting for all the church boys on Thursday evenings and church services and Sunday school on Sunday. The entertainment was great and the place was packed to suffocation.

AGE IS BLAMED FOR TUG'S LOSS

Naval Court of Inquiry Presents Report on Accident to Cherokee

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Loss of the navy tug Cherokee off Cape Henlopen, Del., last February 26, with 25 men is blamed by a naval court of inquiry largely upon the age and condition of the craft and the failure of her commanding officer to report that she was overloaded and to heed a storm warning.

Responsibility of the commander, Lieutenant Edward D. Newell of the naval reserves, who went down with the ship "appears to be greatly mitigated," the board reported, "in view of his youth, lack of familiarity with navy methods, and a desire to obey his instruction as soon as possible."

Paul Hendricks came in Sunday morning to see me. Paul is a sergeant now in charge of an important outpost. I never saw him looking better and he certainly seemed pleased to see me. They all said I was the first Salemite they had seen, since leaving Camp Mills. Paul said that his ankle was stronger than ever and gave him no trouble whatever. He could hardly trust himself to believe that it was I. Said he was getting his mail regularly. Many of the boys got the Journal and the Statesman.

Two of the boys fixed a lunch for me, and, after saying good bye to the crew and to Captain Neer, I began my way of return to my own camp. At the station Hayward Fowler rushed in. He had just come in from outside duty and had run all the way from the camp to the station to say good-bye. Hayward is looking fine and is just as active as ever in making a fine soldier. He had just received a letter from his mother, two from Teresa, one from Catherine, and he was a happy boy.

On my return I had two railway engineers from Chicago in my compartment, who have been here since August, and an aviator. I wish you could have heard the stories they told. I laughed till I cried. Americans are great. Working in the thick of the greatest danger, they make a joke of it.

The aviator told us some great things about his work. I was sorry when they got out. When the train stopped at a certain station I got out to rest myself by walking a little and I saw a fine looking, husky soldier and I nearly had a fit when he told me he was Herbert Boyce of Salem. He looked so well in his overcoat and little cap I could hardly take my eyes off him. He said he was with Danna Allen, that Allen never felt better in his life, and that he would be disappointed not to have seen me. At midnight I had to change and take the express for my place.

M and L were about the best companies he had ever seen, and the colonel don't say much usually. And now I am sure you will read this letter with interest and whenever you meet the folks or friends of Company M, tell them I have seen the boys and that they are as safe as if they were in Salem. Whatever funds are sent should be addressed to Commanding Officer Company M, 162nd Infantry, Army Post Office 703, France. Any funds sent in this way will safely reach the boys and money should be sent by American or Wells Fargo Express.

The contest will be held in Guild hall at the University of Oregon.
