

Flares and Flickers

Beginning next Sunday, "Let's Get a Divorce," with Billie Burke as the star, will be the feature of the program at the Oregon theater. This is a superb picture, in which Miss Burke appears at her best in the role of a romantic convent girl.

The smile-a-minute man, George Walsh in "Some Boy" at the Liberty today.

It is said Douglas Fairbanks pays an income tax on $450,000, Mary Pickford on $250,000, and Chaplin on $100,000.

Face to face with the kaiser, the citizens of Salem will find themselves on May 30, and they will see more vividly than ever before, the ruthless workings of the insane imperialism with which our boys are battling at this moment in France. Coming, "The Kaiser."

Charles Ray will be seen in his next picture, "Playing the Game," at the Oregon next week.

Earl and Curtis, a pleasant appearing chap with a remarkable aptness for repartee and a brunette of fascinating mannerisms and superb looks, comprise this team of entertainers who present their latest comedy from the pen of Louis Westin, entitled "Some Trip." On the Hippodrome show at the Bligh today.

To be cooped up in an express car, fed by the agent and generally treated as an animal, is the experience that befalls Vivian Martin in "Unclaimed Goods," her latest Paramount vehicle, which will be shown at the Oregon theater next Wednesday and Thursday.

Norma Talmadge in "The Law of Compensation" will be the big feature at the Liberty next Thursday.

Douglas Fairbanks will be at the Oregon again this week in "American Aristocracy" considered by photoplay critics as the best picture he ever made. Wednesday and Thursday are the days set for his Salem appearance instead of Wallace Reid in the "House of Silence," as was formerly advertised for the Oregon on those dates.

A big special Red Cross feature in two reels, "The Spirit of the Red Cross," shows geographically just what the Red Cross are doing in France. The story is by James Montgomery Flagg and will be shown in addition to the regular program at the Liberty next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Everybody's favorites, Jack Pickford and Louise Huff, at the Oregon today in "His Majesty Bunker Bean."

Mary Pickford had best look well to her laurels, for "little brother" Jack is coming more and more to the front as one of the most popular juvenile stars of screenland. In his newest picture "His Majesty Bunker Bean," from the story by Harry Leon Wilson, Jack Pickford has given a charming interpretation of the imaginative young stenographer. Louise Huff plays "The Flapper." Bunker is featured at the Oregon today.

Glenna, a charmingly beautiful woman of the Janesque type, presents an unusual singing number, which is billed under the title of "Double Voice Singer." Vaudeville has had many male double voice artists and a very small number of females who made an effort in this line, rather unsuccessfully though. Not so, however, in this case, for Glenna has demonstrated her right of superiority over male and female as a double voice singer. On the Hippodrome show at the Bligh today.

Old photographs of early residents and historic landmarks are being collected by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Niemeyer (Blanche Liston) for use in compiling special data. Salem is one of the old western cities and is rich with relics if they could only be collected.

Don't Take any Chances---

A battery may seem to be doing its job nearly as well as usual—may turn the engine over strongly enough to "get by"—may supply enough current for light—may produce a fairly hot spark—and may go on doing so right up to the point where the spark of life goes out.

If you do not know that your battery's in good health, you're taking chances.

Drop in at the Electric Shop for ten minutes and let us test your battery.

And ask about the still better Willard—the only battery with the "bone dry" principle that is your absolute assurance of getting a battery as new as the day it left the factory.
