European Champion Back

GEORGES CARPENTIER

Georges Carpentier, European heavyweight champion before the war, but since it began one of the heroes of the French, has returned to boxing, and this photograph shows him in his teaching costume at the Ecole Militaire de Joinville Le Point, where he trains French soldiers to box just as is being done in the American army. At the beginning of the war Carpentier was one of the great auto drivers in France. Then he took up flying and made a success of that. Four years of hard work broke him down and refusing to be idle while he recuperates, he has taken up another line of effort for the government.

He calls attention to the number of farm animals that shuffle off from the scene of action by natural causes, and which in the majority of cases are dragged off by the owners and buried on the shortest notice. The idea of utilizing the carcass is seldom harbored, partly because of aversion and partly through lack of facilities. Over in Europe this would never occur, for every part of the body would be put to some use—the manufacture of glycerine, soap, glue, phosphate and fertilizers. The same he says could be done in this country if each for rendering, and the doctor suggests that each county should arrange for the establishment of small plants in various locations for the purpose of utilizing this waste.

NEW FEATURE NOW PLANNED

stration for State Fair May Be Arranged

Although the annual state fair is still several months away, Secretary A. H. Lea and his associates are already studying upon features which if carried through will make it one of the most attractive and memorable on record. One of the features as outlined in the rough by C. W. Niemeyer, who is one of the most enthusiastic projectors of the arrangement, is the staging of an international pageant and dramatic production, calculated not only to demonstrate the patriotic spirit and endeavor but international fellowship—the League of Nations. In past years a feature of Fair Week has been a Scandinavian day. The idea this season is to broaden this feature to include all farm community possessed facilities the allied nations engaged in the war against Germany. Under the title "America, the Melting Pot of Nations," it is said there could be gathered together a wealth of national music, national colors, national cost mues. It is suggested that arrangements be made to have all the national consuls present in their own particular garb, and so far as possible to have brief addresses from each—a grand symposium of felicita-Portland Railway Light & Power tion and good-will focussed upon the And included in the occasion would be all the various military and civic organizations, lending a thrilling impressiveness to it all.

No definite statement of plans can be made at present but it appears turers, anticipating favorable action that something along this line will be developed and will enlist all the local resources to make the fair an event of surpassing importance.
