JUNIOR RED CROSS WORK IS BIG

Marion County Boys and Girls Get Substantial Results From Time Put In, Report Shows—Many Lines Tried

"Patriotism put in practice." That is the way City School Superintendent John Todd, director of the Salem Junior Red Cross, describes the work of that organization to which some 2000 city boys and girls belong, as well as many in the country districts.

Did you ever stop to wonder where all those big, neat boxes used to pack surgical dressings and miscellaneous shipments from the headquarters of the Wilamette chapter come from? Had you heard who is preparing the racks for drying sphagnum moss for the new dressings? Did you wonder who kept thrift stamp sales up so high when your interest was centering on the liberty bonds and war fund drives? Who had the patience to cut gun wiper when there are so many bigger things to be done? There's but one answer to all of these—the Junior Red Cross.

Did you ever stop to wonder where all those big, neat boxes used to pack surgical dressings and miscellaneous shipments from the headquarters of the Wilamette chapter come from? Had you heard who is preparing the racks for drying sphagnum moss for the new dressings? Did you wonder who kept thrift stamp sales up so high when your interest was centering on the liberty bonds and war fund drives? Who had the patience to cut gun wiper when there are so many bigger things to be done? There's but one answer to all of these—the Junior Red Cross.

It is hard to tell at first just what the school children were doing to help the war so far as Salem and Marion county are concerned. Only those closely connected with it had any realization of its magnitude. They vaguely knew that Red Cross activities had crept into class rooms, sewing and manual training departments were turning out Belgian layettes and hospital supplies and packing boxes, kiddies in the third grade were pasting pictures in fun books and clipping gun wiper from bits of waste and somewhere some war gardens were being kept up. Names of Salem tots appearing in the Rainbow regiment lists showed they were helping with war saving stamp sales. But it was not until this week when Mr. Todd, Miss Mabel Robertson and County Superintendent W. M. Smith collected data and prepared an actual report that its true scope became known.

Much Variety Shown. This statement shows great variety, including almost every war necessity unskilled hands can make. From Salem alone have come the following: Six work caps with hoods, fifteen shoulder shawls, nine fun books, 25,285 gun wiper, five kitchen holders, 377 drinking cups, 220 pin loils, 1100 wooden coat hangers, 249 dish towels, 100 Belgian layettes four complete outfits were made as well as nine extra bonnets and forty-six pairs of booties. Among the hospital supplies were 274 property bags, 179 wash cloths, eight knitted bed spreads, five comfort pillows, seventeen ambulance pillows and ten pieced quilts. Practically all of these articles required a considerable outlay of time. In the miscellaneous section there are listed: Eighty-nine socks, two pairs of wristlets, one kid waistcoat, 190 packing boxes, three lots of knitting needles containing ninety-three, 123 and forty-eight in the separate bunches, 3,231 bandages, three drying racks and forty working frames. It has not been necessary for Wilamette chapter to hire made or send for any wood articles such as the packing boxes or frames during the past year, as all needed have been supplied through the manual training class at the high school.

Make Surgical Dressings. A group of high school girls, who have gone every Wednesday morning with an instructor to the surgical dressing rooms in the postoffice have turned out the large number of bandages. Twenty-nine thousand and thrift stamps or $7,250 worth have been sold by the boys and girls of Salem. Financially speaking, the auxiliary is on a remarkably firm basis. After purchasing its own supplies for the entire school year there was on hand on May 1 $231.40. This money is derived from the following sources: Membership dues, $589.49; salvage, $26.35; entertainments $18.78; other, means $15.56. This makes a total of $650.18, of which $418.78 was put in supplies.

Forty-Seven Auxiliaries. The county report shows a still greater field covered by the forty-seven auxiliaries having membership in Wilamette chapter. Briefly the report shows the making of six capes and hoods, eighty-one towels, fifteen fun books, 64,398 gun wiper, five kitchen holders, 1100 coat hangers, seventeen sets of checkerboards and checkers, 301 dish towels, four complete layettes, nine bonnets, fifty-six pairs of booties, 274 property bags, 268 wash cloths, twelve knitted bed spreads, seventeen comfort pillows, twenty-four ambulance pillows, ninety-three pairs of socks, two pairs of wristlets, one kid waistcoat, 190 packing boxes, 274 knitting needles, nine pieced quilts, 3,231 bandages, three drying racks, forty working frames. Liberty bonds valued at $3150 were sold, also $125.25 worth of certificate stamps and $34,717.87 worth of war savings stickers. Thirteen garden clubs were formed.

The chapter has $648.04 on hand after investing in supplies valued at $529.82. Junior Red Cross work has been definite part of the course of study and a set time has been put aside for it. Teachers follow instructions in the Junior manual, each grade doing that part of the work best suited to the children in it. From the third grade up through the four years of high school it is carried on. As this is only the first year of the existence of the organization after glancing at the present report, one can easily prophesy a big increase in the work next fall. No urging is needed to keep up the children's interest; they are more than delighted with being able to do their share.

HELPS TO KEEP FIT. When the digestion is out of order, it throws the whole physical being out of gear. B. B. No griping or nausea. J. C. Perry.

NO DRAFT FOR I. W. W. MINERS, NOTES DECLARE

Far West and Northwest Disorders to Be Taken Up Next in Big Trial

LETTERS INTRODUCED

Wobblies Pictured Themselves Taking Over United States Government

CHICAGO, May 29.—The metal mine phase of the government's case against 112 Industrial Workers of the World accused of conspiring to cause a rebellion while the nation was at war, virtually was completed tonight and evidence bearing on Far West and Northwest disorders will be taken up probably tomorrow. Tales of lawlessness in the Southwest last year at the time the nation was striving to speed up its military preparations were related in correspondence seized from the files of leaders and substantiated by government witnesses brought from the Arizona mining region.

"The government says the draft is going into effect September 1," Grover H. Perry, one of the workers in the Southwest informed the membership in an official bulletin. "But so far as the I. W. W. miners are concerned it is not going into effect at all."

Bonds Also Attacked. This and numerous other declarations against the draft, against the liberty loan bonds and against the government were read into the records by Claude R. Porter, special assistant attorney general.

"America needs 750,000 men in this county right now to put down rebellion," Stanley J. Clark, a defendant, asserted in an impassioned anti-war speech at a meeting in Wichita Falls, Texas, August 21. Clark also drew a lurid picture of the I. W. W. taking over the government, according to testimony.

For this forthcoming event, the government would be doing the I. W. W. no harm by taking over railroads and other industries, he pointed out, adding that it would save the organization many details.

Socialists to End War. "When the Socialists clasp hands across the trenches, then and then only will the great war come to an end," Clark was quoted by government witnesses as having informed Texas crowds at street meetings. The Socialists then will have to come into power throughout the world."

Clark warned the public against the purchase of liberty loan bonds, declaring the I. W. W. after the war would repudiate all such debts.

Witnesses told of the reign of terror in the Arizona mining districts involving the deportations of hundreds of I. W. W. from Bisbee, and testifying concerning conditions leading up to the strike of mine workers.

Six Hour Day Wanted. Resolutions adopted by the Miami, Ariz., branch were read into the records by Chief Prosecutor Frank K. Nebeker. They called upon the mine owners to establish a six-hour day, 20 minutes of which was to be allowed for lunch discharge armed guards, permit affiliation with the I. W. W. by all workers and fix a minimum wage scale of $6 per day.

William Pope of the department of Justice, and R. Riddle, postmaster of Electra, Ariz., testified concerning the activities of Clark, who finally informed the governor of Arizona that unless miners were granted their demands the I. W. W. would display its power.

"Clark said he told the governor that unless concession were granted there would not be a bushel of grain grown in the Northwest this year," Pope testified.

The organization pointed to its power with statements that immediately after the Arizona strikes copper production was decreased one-half million pounds a day.

THIS WIDOW WAS HELPED. Mrs. A. Walden, 460 Glenn Ave., Fresno, Cal., writes: "I had a fever and it left me with a cough every winter. Foley's Honey and Tar helps me every time. I am a widow 66 years old." Nothing better for bronchial, grip and similar coughs and colds that hang on. Just fine for croup and whooping-cough. J. C. Perry.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. But brewing at home is messy and out of date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.
