ed and home owning, home loving, patriot; people than anything else that can be done at this time.

"Nothing can do more to unite the people in support of the government insure domestic tranquility than an equitable marketing system that will abolish the unnecessary middleman and profiteer."

When he turned his attention to rural credits Mr. Spence said the subject presented another instance "where the tourist receives greater consideration in the state of Oregon than the farmer."

"When the land board received bids below par for rural credit bonds they decided that the honor and credit of the state would be impaired if state bonds were sold below par," he continued. "But when bids were received as low as 92 cents on the dollar for road bonds, evidently the honor and credit of the state were not involved, for road bonds were sold at about that price."

A patriotic sentiment pervaded all mention of the war made in the address. Mr. Spence said that no matter what were the direct causes or excuses for the war it had developed into a contest for industrial and political freedom on one side and of military slavery on the other. He urged support of President Wilson

BEGS OFFICER FOR PROTECTION

Pete McAvoy, One of I. W. W. Leaders on Trial, Afraid of San Jose Mob.

CHICAGO, June 4.—Pete McAvoy one of the 119 I. W. W. leaders on trial for violation of the espionage law in Federal Judge Landis' court, fell to his knees and with outstretched hands begged a policeman to protect him from bodily injury in the streets of San Jose, Cal., last September after several United States soldiers in uniform had forcibly dispersed the gathering and threatened the speaker with violence because of disloyal utterances. The story of McAvoy's hasty flight into the arms of a policeman when danger threatened was told by George A. Wilson, a San Jose detective. McAvoy had been addressing street meetings in San Jose all summer agitating a strike among employees of the fruit growers.

"McAvoy denounced the war and advised the workmen it would be better to go to jail than to be sent into the trenches," said the witness. "He said if President Wilson and the king of England had any grievance it ought themselves to fight it out themselves and not ask workmen to fight their battles for them. Just then several soldiers in uniform came along and when they heard what McAvoy was saying they broke up the meeting and made a dash for the speaker. McAvoy jumped down from the soap box on which he was standing and crawled through the crowd to a policeman who had arrived on the scene, and then on his bended knees McAvoy raised his hands and shouted: 'Protect me, protect me.'"

President Wilson has sent to the senate the nomination of Major-General Peyton C. March, acting chief of the general staff, of whom this is the latest photograph, to be a full general and chief of staff. The fact that other major generals were of longer service made it difficult to fill his position. With a title superior to all others his work will be simplified.

CAMP LEWIS NOTES

CAMP LEWIS, Tacoma, Wash. June 4.—The first test of efficiency of animal equipped organizations of Camp Lewis will be one of the primary objects of the great military horse show to be staged in the remount depot's arena on Monday June 16. It was announced today.

The formal program was arranged today at a conference between Captain J. W. Jackson of the remount depot and division staff officers, and though the program was not finished it was expected to bring every mount and team into action similar to that which is expected of them when they reach the battle front.

Competition between organizations is to be on a far greater scale than to carry themselves first of all. It is this early training which removes the curves from the round shouldered civilian and gives him the big chest and straight carriage of the soldier. Within three short weeks the men will be ready for their first review under arms, company front and they are finding their first days in camp strenuous ones.

The new men are receiving their, smallpox and typhoid vaccinations, whole companies marching to the infirmaries of the depot brigade and with bared arms for the inoculation has been ordered from the Tacoma Y. M. C. A. and full equipment will be installed immediately.

The parade grounds and every bit of vacant ground near the parade grounds was filled today with groups of newly drafted men who were being put through their first lessons in military training. There were squads of various hues, some in uniform, some in shirt sleeves and some wearing their coats in the hot sun which shone down with mid-summer intensity upon the groups of perspiring recruits.

The men first are learning the various squad formations and how the rodeo given by the remount depot last fall, every organization equipped with animals being expected to take part.

Organizations of the 316th supply trains this morning began their intensive physical training by competing to prepare themselves for garrison duty. The gymnasium floor of the Y. M. C. A., No. 8 was requisitioned and the men were put through the horizontal bar drill and other exercises in groups much the same fashion college gymnasium classes are run. Other athletic equipment for use of the soldiers tion.

Alien soldiers are appearing at the depot brigade library this week, the second week in the naturalization of men in service. The rate of 200 a day for the preliminary examination is being maintained. It was said today, and some 1500 will be ready for final citizenship when federal court convenes again in camp Friday.

Officers here believe the Camp Lewis naturalization plan has set a record for all other cantonments in the country for a speedy process. With two federal judges sitting last Thursday 1156 soldiers were examined and took the oath of allegiance. As each regiment was passed before the court, the men were separated and grouped by nationalities, the men of each nationality taking the oath of allegiance in a group. There was not a delay and the average man was eighteen seconds, it was said, during the six hours court was in session.

STRAWBERRIES SELL HIGH.
SEATTLE, Wash., May 27.—First strawberries from Kennewick, Wa., this year brought close to fifty cents apiece for the Red Cross. The Kennewick berries, especially the first to ripen, are generally regarded as luxuries, but when they were sold for the Red Cross here they soared to prices never reached before. WAR SUMMARY

From drives on wide fronts the German offensive in France has deteriorated into isolated attacks along the area between Soissons and Chateau Thierry and eastward on the Marne in the general direction of Rheims.

Although in these attacks the enemy still is using large effective and great numbers of guns, he is being held almost everywhere from further progress and on various sectors compelled to assume the defensive against vicious blows delivered by the American, French and British troops.

Near the Neuilly wood, which lies northwest of Chateau Thierry and at the point where the drive has brought the enemy nearest Paris, the Americans have beaten off a strong German attack, and on the Marne at Jaulgonne, some six miles northeast of Chateau Thierry, fighting with the French, they have aided in forcing the first contingent of the enemy to cross the Marne again to seek refuge on the northern bank of the stream.

Between the Aisne and Ourcq rivers the Germans have captured Pernant and to the south of that village the French have ceded a little terrain. In the Ourcq valley they also took the town of Neuilly-la-Poterie (Veully-la-Poterie) seven and a half miles northwest of Chateau Thierry in fighting during which the place changed hands several times. In the region between the Oise and the Aisne, the Germans have been unable to advance.

There still is only moderate activity along the line held by the British in Flanders and Picardy, where patrol activities and bombarding continue. On the Aisne front the Germans are heavily bombarding British positions.

Full confidence in the outcome of the war again has been expressed by the supreme war council of the allies, which has just gone over the entire situation resulting from the big German offensive, although it was stated that the allied nations may be still exposed to critical days. Additional attacks on shipping by German submarines off the Atlantic coast have been reported.
