

"WAR AND MORE WAR", LANSING

Secretary of State Condemns German Methods and Criticisms of Government

NEW YORK, June 5.—Suggestions of peace based on "perpetuation of Prussianism" and criticisms of the government and the conduct of the war which are not constructive, were condemned by Secretary of State Lansing here today. Prussia having "wickedly sought war," the secretary said, it is the determination of the American people that Prussia shall have "war and more war and more war, until the very thought of war is abhorrent to the Prussian mind."

Mr. Lansing spoke at the commencement exercises of Columbia university which conferred upon him and upon Lord Reading, the British ambassador, the honorary degree of doctor of laws.

"In the gigantic task of waging the war," Secretary Lansing said, "let us not continually look behind to see where we stumbled, but let us look forward so that we do not stumble again. For the critic of public affairs who is manifestly inspired by political or selfish motives, by conceit or by a desire for notoriety, I have the utmost contempt."

Must Turn Deaf Ears

"As we turn deaf ears to common scolds at home, so we must not relent our efforts to listen to insincere suggestions of peace filtering through from Germany through various channels. A Prussian peace would only postpone the final struggle."

It is the supreme task of civilization to an end to Prussianism. To listen to proposals for a Prussian peace, to compromise with the butchers of individuals and of nations so that they would by agreement gain a benefit by their crime would be to compound an international felony, which this republic will never do."

Mr. Lansing declared that force is the only way "to end Prussianism because it is the only thing which the Prussian respects." He recognized the enemy as strong and stubborn and predicted a bitter struggle but predicted a "day of complete victory for the supreme ruler of the universe could not be free otherwise. He has imposed upon us and our allies the task of freeing mankind from the curse of avarice and inhumanity."

Lord Reading rated the wisdom and justice of President Wilson as one of the greatest assets of the allies in the war. He termed England the home of "that justice which has won the admiration of the world" and said the colonists of pre-revolutionary days had brought it to this continent.

RAD KIDNEYS LAID HIM UP.

A slight kidney impairment may lead to dropsy or Bright's disease. Don't neglect it. Frank Miller, Birmingham, Utah, writes: "Was troubled with my kidneys so bad I could not work. Tried many kinds of medicine which did me no good. Then I tried Foley Kidney Pills; now feeling as good as I ever did before." J. C. Perry.

to word received from a United States cargo ship. The entire crew was rescued by this naval ship on the afternoon of June 5 and is proceeding to an Atlantic port.

Why the U-boat commander picked out a neutral craft for attack is not apparent. The errand and cargo of the Eldevold are not known. Norwegian vessels have suffered heavily in the North sea operations of the Germans, however, and it is evident that Germany's own version of the rules of sea warfare are those to be applied by her U-boat commanders, even outside zones fixed for ruthless operations.

FOUR SUBS ENCOUNTERED.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, June 5.—An American armed freight steamship which arrived here today from an Italian port fired a number of shots Monday afternoon at what was believed to be a German submarine in a location described as about 100 miles off Harneg light, the officers of the vessel said. During the three weeks' voyage the steamer encountered four submarines one of which was sunk by a convoy.

ENGLISH CAPTAINS PREPARED.

DONDON, June 5.—The captains of vessels in the trans-Atlantic service have been expecting submarines off American ports for months past, and most of them have prepared for any emergency the first night out. Thereafter all the way across to Europe on most of the lines lifeboats remained lowered and instructions were given to passengers regarding life jackets.

On the transports the soldiers wear life jackets almost from the time they go aboard. Of late, the lookout forces have been doubled at night and throughout the voyage watchers

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, bring back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger. Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

are almost as alert as when nearing European waters.

FIFTEEN SHOTS FIRED.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The story of the captain of the French tanker Radiotele attacked by a submarine off the Maryland coast yesterday, reached the navy department today showing that the raider had fired fifteen shots at the Frenchman from long range before an American destroyer answering a "S. O. S." appeared.

Following is the navy department's summary of the Frenchman's story: "The submarine was so big that at first the lookout thought it was an American destroyer. He was about six miles from the Radiotele. The submarine when sighted lay about two lengths from a three-masted sailing ship (probably the schooner Edward R. Baird, Jr., which later was bombed and sunk) and the lookout reported it to the captain as a destroyer. But the captain with his glasses recognized it as a submarine. The captain was in doubt as to the nationality so did not fire, but manned his guns. He changed his course from east to west and the submarine opened fire, but the Frenchman still held his fire until the submarine fired the second time. Then he fired, range about 12,000 meters.

Escape is narrow.

"The submarine fired between fifteen and twenty shots. The Frenchman heard two shots about fifteen minutes before he sighted the submarine. He believes that these were fired to stop the sailing ship.

"The Radiotele was making good speed while getting away. No shot hit her. No damage was done, and there were no casualties.

"The destroyer passed the Radiotele at 8:10 making all speed heading toward the direction of the submarine. Apparently the destroyer did not see the submarine until the Radiotele changed her course to starboard, as the captain of the Radiotele purposely kept between the submarine and the destroyer so the submarine would not see the destroyer.

"As soon as the submarine saw the destroyer he submerged. The captain did not see the submarine again and is unable to tell what the destroyer did because the Radiotele was too far away when the destroyer reached the spot where the submarine disappeared."

WORKERS RESCUE TOTS IN BATTLE

Y. M. C. A. Men and Women Carry Food to Soldiers During Thrilling Fight

NEW YORK, June 5.—Thrilling accounts of the signal service given the French army by American Y. M. C. A. and canteen workers during the heavy fighting along the river Aisne, were contained in dispatches received here tonight by the association's war work council.

Men and women, ignoring the battle which raged around them, carried food and drink to the fighting soldiers and made desperate efforts to destroy their huts and remaining stores when retreat seemed inevitable. Then they worked their way back, through storms of shrapnel and machine gun fire, and taking their places with the troops in the new positions, began again to minister to them.

Carl D. Lytle of North Brookfield, Mass., returned to a burning village which the troops were abandoning, to help a lot of little children, while William Edward Wright of Toledo, Ohio, and Eric Mayell of New York city, fought their way back with the regiment to which they were attached. At each pause in the retirement they gathered what supplies they had and served them to the soldiers as they passed along the shell-swept road.

RUPPEL GIVEN LIFE SENTENCE

Parole Violator From Oregon Falls Under Habitual Criminal Statute

Under the habitual criminal statute of the state of Washington, William Ruppel, parole violator from the Oregon state prison, has been given a life term in the penitentiary at Walla Walla. Ruppel, who was going under the alias of William Snyder, was tried in Seattle on a charge of attacking a woman, and Captain Joe Keller, Oregon parole officer, was called to Seattle as a witness for the state against Ruppel.

The habitual criminal statute in Washington, under which Ruppel was convicted in Seattle, fixes life sentence as the penalty for men convicted as many as three times for assaulting women. It was for this offense that he was serving in Salem.

Murder Was Attempted

Testimony showed that Ruppel also attempted murder in Seattle and that he barely escaped with his own life when he invaded the home of one of the city firemen. One of Ruppel's methods of working, it appears, was to watch the homes of firemen who were on duty at night, and to go to the homes when he thought no men were about. On one occasion he knocked on a door, and the housewife answered him from within, but did not open the door. But unexpectedly her husband came in by a back door and met Ruppel at the front of the house. As a ruse Ruppel asked to be directed to a certain place, and while the fireman was pointing out the direction Ruppel thrust a gun against his body and forced him into the house. The woman disappeared into another room, and when the convict noticed this he fired at the husband, but missed. At that moment the woman appeared with a gun and fired at Ruppel, the bullet plowing a furrow in his scalp. The fireman and his wife held Ruppel until the police arrived.

May Have Been Sluggish

Seattle authorities suspected that Ruppel was the mysterious sluggish who terrorized women of that city several months ago, but no connection with the series of offenses perpetrated by the sluggish could be established at the trial.

The jury that sat in the case was almost all women. Captain Keller says, and at times the trial became sensational.

"Ruppel asked to be allowed to make a statement," said Keller, "and told the usual story about a cruel stepfather. I heard a noise, and there was one of the lady jurors weeping as if her heart would break. It took them three hours to bring in a verdict."

There was a general closing of business houses in Windsor and along the route of the procession from the railroad station to the public square, residences and stores were profusely decorated with the colors of the Allies.

John Dillon Neutral on Voluntary Recruit Call

LONDON, June 5.—The voluntary recruiting appeal by Viscount French the lord lieutenant of Ireland, is neither applauded nor condemned by John Dillon, the Nationalist leader, in an interview with the Daily Telegraph's correspondent in Dublin.

"The government," Mr. Dillon is quoted as saying, "has certainly done one sensible thing in abandoning the attempt to enforce conscription in Ireland against the will of the people, which would have brought no strength to the allied cause and undoubtedly would have produced world-wide evils. Any prospects of the success of Lord French's appeal depends, in my judgment, entirely on the extent to which the government will reverse their Irish policy, and the methods of recruiting practiced in Ireland since the outbreak of the war."
