Hewitt Gets Hard Jolt—A. W. Peebles, a farmer living near the city, was trying out a newly-acquired automobile on Ferry street yesterday afternoon, and at the same time I. S. Hewitt was on the paving doing some sweeping in the line of Peebles' orbit. It was claimed that Peebles tooted his horn too late for Hewitt to make a quick jump, and he was knocked headlong by the car, which, however, did not pass over him. He did not suffer anything worse than some severe bruises, but he took the number of the car and reported to the police.

HUTCHASON'S INSURANCE STORY

Eighth Installment.

Hello! Why, how are you? You haven't been in this town for over ten years, have you? "No, I went away years ago and just returned today." "Well, Jim, I'm glad to see you," said the old resident, whose name was Clark.

"Clark, I am looking for Mrs. — Her husband was the cashier of the bank when he died." "What do you want to see her for, Jim?" asked Clark.

"I was told that she was compelled to work to support her family," said Jim. "Well, Mr. —'s affairs were involved when he died and when they were finally settled up his wife was left with practically no income." "Didn't he carry insurance?" "No—he thought that he didn't need it."

LEARN STENOGRAPHY
The New System of MACHINE SHORTHAND
The Most Wonderful Invention for Business Efficiency in 50 Years
Stenography is shorthand written by a "dial" machine instead of pen or pencil. It is superior to all other systems of shorthand. Easier to learn and so plain as print.
Only FOUR MONTHS Required
Operations get better results by reason of greater efficiency—$50 to $125 per month.
The typewriter has supplanted shorthand. Stenography will supplant pencil shorthand.
