FATE OF SIXTH PLANE LEARNED

Account in German Newspaper Tells of Capture of American Crew

AMSTERDAM, July 15.—Particulars regarding the sixth American machine taking part in the raid on Coblenz last week are given by the Elberfeld General Anzeiger. The newspaper says that at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday evening a 15-year-old college student named Gerlach, while harvesting near the village of Schwarzen in Hunabruock, saw a flying machine at a height of approximately 2700 feet in flames.

When it came down he saw it was a French biplane armed with three machine guns and bomb throwing apparatus and had two occupants, an American first lieutenant and another lieutenant, who were detained by Gerlach and two other men, who turned over their prisoners at 1 o'clock in the morning to the authorities at Kirchberg.

The prisoners, according to the newspaper, said they belonged to an air squadron of six machines the goal of which was Coblenz, and that they had been separated from the other fliers during a thunderstorm.

A Berlin official communication of July 11 said five airplanes of an American squadron of six, bent on raiding Coblenz, were captured and their crews made prisoner. The following day another statement said "all six of the American airplanes" had fallen into German hands, the sixth having been shot down.

CRISIS OF NEW HUN DRIVE STILL COMING

toward the river. American reinforcements were also reported getting into the fighting farther east toward Rheims.

Probably in excess of 250,000 American troops are involved in one place or another as that would be the approximate strength of Major General Hunter Liggett's first army corps, several divisions of which are known to be operating with the French corps along the Marne sector.

Nothing had reached the war department to identify the troops which made the counter attacks yesterday at Vaux and in the Jaulgonne region.

Secretary Baker said today he had no reason to believe the first corps was operating as a unit, the indications being its divisions were employed in French corps.

Enemy Behind Door.

The extent to which the check of the first day may have upset the enemy's calculations could not be gauged by the meager accounts received today that gave any specific information of a military character.

It appears certain American forces have held against the enemy, very promptly restoring the general trend of their original lines wherever the rush yesterday had swept them back. The major actions in the battle developed today immediately to the east of the original American positions. There the enemy apparently is firmly lodged across the river but heavy pressure is being brought by Franco-American forces to eject him.

The German position here appears somewhat precarious.

It was agreed that unless they were able without great delay to extend their advance and widen the dent, General Foch might swing a flank assault from the American position to the west in an effort to trap the army of General Boehm, which Berlin claims crossed the river here.

Flanking Hoped For.

The official report from Paris tonight showed the Franco-American forces had recaptured St. Amant and the heights dominating the Marne valley behind the German advanced positions. This led to the hope among officers that a wide flanking movement would be possible which would clear the south bank of the river of the enemy and probably result in important captures of prisoners.

The fact that the defenders are hitting back hard appears to make it certain that the Germans have been able to make only limited improvement of their position.

This is the first great battle in which Americans have engaged. If any confusion developed, the swiftness and certainty with which counter attacks were sent home shows that it was quickly overcome.

Many officers believe the real object of the drive was to widen the German line along the Marne so a later blow could be delivered with Chateau Thierry and the line northwest of there as the center of attack and reduction of the Compeigne salient as its objective.

Attacks Foreseen.

In that event a coincident attack south of Amiens aimed directly at Compeigne, it was thought, would have been delivered and if Compeigne fell, the German advance could either be directed against Paris or the scene shifted for a fresh blow at the channel ports through the British lines to the north.

So far as the present drive goes, much satisfaction is taken here in the fact that the German right ran into an abrupt check against the Americans who still hold what will be the very center of assault in a new thrust at Paris is to follow the present effort.

CONTEST IN WEST VIRGINIA.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 16.—Not in many years has West Virginia witnessed such a lively political campaign as has now begun and which will be continued until the primary election. The prize most sought after is the seat in the United States senate now occupied by the venerable Nathan Goff, who has decided to retire at the close of his term next March. Three former United States senators and two former congressmen are fighting for the party nominations for the senatorship.

Clarence W. Watson, Fairmont, Democrat; William E. Chilton, Charleston, Democrat; and David Elkins, Morgantown, Republican, are former senators, and Joseph Holt Gaines of Charleston, and James A. Hughes of Huntington, both Republicans, are former representatives in congress. Virgil L. Highland, Fairmont, Republican, is a sixth candidate. He is a business man, banker and newspaper owner.

Bakers at Convention Clash; Delegates Leave

CHICAGO, July 16.—A clash after which the New York state delegation left the hall marked the national session of bakers tonight. Master bakers from 15 states are trying to form an organization so that they can send a representative to Washington. The New York delegation was charged with trying to force the convention to adopt its plan of recognizing state wide organizations and ignoring local bodies. When this plan was voted down, the New York men left.

EDUCATION BILL PASSES

LONDON, July 15.—The house of commons tonight passed on third and final reading the educational bill introduced last year.

The bill provides for nursery schools for children under five years of age, compulsory attendance for all between the ages of five and 14, and that no child under the age of 12 shall be employed for profit.

OREGON MAN IS AMONG KILLED

Sergeant Studebaker of Roberts, Oregon, in Daily Casualty List

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The army casualty list today shows: Killed in action, 14; died of wounds, 8; died of disease, 3; died of accident and other causes, 1; wounded severely, 53; missing, 22; prisoner, 1. Total, 102.

The list includes Sergeant R. D. Studebaker, Roberts, Or.; Private Fred W. McEnany, Vancouver, Wash., missing in action.

The marine corps casualty list today shows: Killed in action, 42; died of wounds, 10; wounded severely, 17; missing, 18; total, 87.

The list includes: Private Hugh Fackerell, Eldredge, Idaho; killed in action; Sergeant Fred Belcher, Pe Ell, Wash.; Private John D. Fehr, 6741 Palatin avenue, Seattle, died of wounds received in action.

HUNS CLAIM CAPTURE OF 13,000 PRISONERS

Between the Aisne and the Marne and east of Chateau Thierry there were lively artillery duels.

Big Enterprises and during an advance across the Marne to the southwest of Jaulgonne we broke into the enemy's lines and brought back prisoners.

"Yesterday, to the southwest and east of Rheims we penetrated into part of the French positions.

"By their devastating effect, the artillery, minethrowers and gas throwers, opened the way into the enemy's positions. The army of General von Boehm has crossed the Marne between Jaulgonne and east of Dormans.

"At daybreak pioneers transported storming troops across the river and thereby created the foundation for the success of the day. The infantry stormed the steep slopes on the southern bank of the Marne and under their cover the construction of bridges was carried out."

TWELVE MILES GAINED ON THE FRENCH FRONT IN FRANCE, July 16.—(By the Associated Press)—(Evening)—The Germans have crossed the Marne at various places, giving them control over twelve miles of the southern bank of the stream between Gland and Marcueil-le-port.

This operation cost them dearly, five bridges being destroyed as the troops were passing over, while hundreds of their men are believed to have met death from the machine guns and bombs of aviators.

LINE TWO MILES BACK.

DONDON, July 16.—The French this afternoon were entrenched at Prunay behind the river Verle, two miles back of the original line, the Evening Standard states.

This it adds, is the deepest penetration the enemy has effected in the region east of Rheims.

FRENCH SOUTH OF VESLE.

LONDON, July 16.—The French issued this evening by the Central News says:

"The only progress the Germans have been able to make since yesterday has been to the east of Rheims, in the Prunay sector, where in spite of terrible losses, the enemy has compelled the French to retire to the southward behind the River Vesle."

TWO POSTS ENTERED.

LONDON, July 16.—The British official communication issued this afternoon, says:

"Early this morning the enemy attacked and succeeded in entering two new posts established by us in the neighborhood of Hebuterne (north of Albert), but was immediately counter-attacked and driven out. We secured a few prisoners."

"Hostile artillery was active today in the Loree sector and has also shown some activity on other parts of the front."

COUNTER-ATTACKS VIOLENT.

BERLIN, via London, July 16.—"On the Marne front the enemy has delivered violent counter-attacks" says the German official communication issued this evening.

"There were some local successes to the southwest of Rheims.

"To the east of Rheims the situation is unchanged."

WOMAN'S DEVOTION TO HOME.

Home duties to many women appear more important than health. No matter how ill they feel, they drag themselves through their daily tasks, overdo and pay the penalty in headaches, backaches, dragging down pains and nervousness; they become irritable, and finally discover that some form of female complaint has fastened itself upon them. When a woman gets into this condition there is one tried and true remedy made from the roots and herbs of the field, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for more than forty years has continued its great work among women in restoring health after many other remedies have failed.

C. S. ANDREWS WINS DECISION

Indictment Against Wasco County Rancher Dismissed by Supreme Court

Crayton S. Andrews, Wasco county rancher, won his appeal to the supreme court yesterday when the decision of the lower court for Multnomah county, where Andrews was convicted on the charge of larceny by baillee, was reversed. The offense was alleged to have been committed in Multnomah county, while Andrews was baillee of a promissory note for $1727.50, signed by H. L. Price and S. Anna Price and made payable to the order of C. L. Cook and L. M. Andrews. He was alleged to have converted the note to his own use. Certain personal property also was involved, the allegation being made that Andrews failed to account for it.

The defense claimed error because of the refusal of Judge George N. Davis to direct the jury to find a verdict of not guilty.

The opinion says that, in order to show a violation of law "it was necessary for the state to show that the rights of the legal owner of the note had been invaded to some extent, or that there had been a felonious conversion of the note to the defendant's own use. The state, having failed to produce such proof, it was error to refuse to direct the jury to find the defendant not guilty. Judgment of the lower court is therefore reversed and indictment dismissed."

Other opinions were handed down as follows:

D. Malagamba, appellant, vs. Irena C. McLean et al; appeal from Clatsop; creditor's suit to collect money due in connection with a dissolution of partnership; opinion by Justice Benson; Circuit Judge Eakin affirmed.

D. Malagamba, appellant, vs. Arch McLean, et al; appeal from Clatsop suit for a temporary restraining order and a mandatory injunction compelling McLean to apply his interest as heir of two estates to the payment of plaintiff's judgment against McLean; opinion by Justice Benson; Circuit Judge Eakin affirmed.

Jens Thomsen vs. Anton Gleibisch, et al, appellants; appeal from Multnomah; motion to strike out bill of exceptions; opinion per curiam; motion overruled.

Respondents' petition for rehearing denied in J. W. Quackenbush et al, vs. LeRoy F. Straight and David Aul, et al, vs. F. S. Starbard, both from Lam. county.

The case of Marion C. Gorain vs. Christina Flockenstein, administratrix of the estate of Henry Fleckenstein, appellants, was dismissed on stipulation.

OLSON EAGER FOR FIGHTING

Member of Company M Wants to Get Where the Big Guns Are Booming

Elmer S. Olson of Company M is still a considerable distance from the front line trenches, but he writes his father, N. P. Olson of Route 6, Salem, that he longs for the day when he can be in the front with the American lads who are in the actual fight. He has high commendation for the way the folks at home are backing up the boys at the front. He writes: "Received your letter the other day and was glad to hear from you again. You just can't realize how much good it does me as well as the other boys over here to get a letter from home. All of us watch for the mail and are so disappointed when we do not get a letter.

"I realize the fact that the people back home are backing us up. If they were not behind us here, what would become of us? They are sending everything imaginable over here. We have real good things to eat. The cats are simply fine, taking into consideration the fact that nearly everything is sent across the ocean about 3500 miles through the submarine zone and other dangers.

"I am a good piece behind the firing line at the present time doing guard duty at one of the large warehouses. But I am longing for the day when they will call us to the front with the other brave Americans who are there now and believe me, the Americans are making good over here fighting the Huns, and I long for the day to come when they will be brought to their knees and we can all come back to our dear homes in the good old U. S.

"The town I am in is a good-sized place, about 50,000 population, and the post here where I am stationed has a fine Y. M. C. A., one of the best in France, and I think if the people back home really knew what the Y. M. C. A. is doing for the boys over here they never would regret a penny they have put into the worthy cause.

"We had a half holiday yesterday for everybody in the post and in the afternoon had a big field meet with races and jumping, etc. We certainly had a fine time and, as usual, Company M. took off its part of the honors.

"The town I am in is on the Loire river and it is a pretty river. There is an old cathedral here that was built before Columbus discovered America. It is built of stone and it appears to be good for about a thousand more years. There is also a large museum here, which has a number of costly paintings and old things that were used by the Romans. It is interesting to go through this old cathedral and museum with so many odd things in them. I am hoping to get to travel over France a great deal before I return, as it certainly is a pretty and interesting country.

"It is real hot over here in the day time now, but the nights are pretty cool. It gets dark about the hours later than it does back home, not until about 9 o'clock. The gardens are green and looking fine. Cherries and strawberries are ripe and they taste mighty good. I was sick a few days ago and a French family across the street from where I do guard duty brought me some eggs and milk and strawberries. They are awfully nice to us.

"I saw some boys from Wisconsin a few days ago, but didn't know any of them. All the boys in Company M that you know are well, as far as I know. Some of them are detached on guard duty.

"On account of France being so mountainous, the railroad trains and cars are much smaller than they are back in the U. S. They even make the tunnels smaller. But they make good time and the little engines pull a big bunch of those small cars.

"I must close for this time, as the censor objects to letters that are too long. Write real often."

Schwab Discusses Steel Shipbuilding Problems

SEATTLE, July 16.—Steel shipbuilding problems were thoroughly discussed here tonight by Director General Charles Schwab of the Emergency Fleet corporation and steel shipbuilders at a banquet given by the Northwest Shipbuilders' association. The banquet was limited to members of the shipping board party and officials of steel shipbuilding plants.

After the banquet the Schwab party were guests at an informal entertainment given in their honor by the Seattle Press club.

THE IMPORTANT MATTER.

They were lecturing the young scapegrace and told him he should be more grateful to his uncle who had paid his debts.

"Yes, yes," he allowed coolly. "I know my uncle paid my creditors, but what has he done for me?"—Brooklyn Citizen.
