Submarine Back Number in War, Says Daniels

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The submarine is no longer a determining factor in the war and statements by Emperor William in a proclamation to the German army and navy that submarines "are tenaciously attacking and fighting the vital forces which are streaming across the sea" are without foundation, Secretary Daniels said today.

PROPOSED DRAFT AGE EXEMPTION IS UP

repeatedly since then that he has seen no reason to change his opinion in that regard. Congress, however, ruled against taking men below the voting age of 21.

The reluctance of many members of congress to go lower than the 21 limit is still apparent, although there is evidence of a strong sentiment toward carrying the maximum up as high as 45. There is no doubt, however, that war department officials would prefer to draw on the classes of 19 and 20 year old youths to fill the ranks and see no decided military advantage to be gained from any considerable extension upward.

Secretary Baker has heretofore announced that his policy in recommending any change in draft ages would be to seek a sufficient number of men to meet the army's needs in such ages as would least disturb the economic situation at home. The bulk of the new forces, in his view, would be drawn from the youngest class of men physically able to stand the strain of modern warfare.

From the purely army standpoint this has been a boys' war from the start. The quick recuperative powers of youth have been vitally necessary to the military machine under the conditions of modern warfare.

Older men are slower to recover and are, therefore, of more limited use to the army. On the other hand, however, there are a great number of men who could be called out of the higher ages, even up to 45. A far greater proportion of the men between 31 and 45 have independent incomes than is true with men below 21, reducing the dependents factor for exemption to that extent.

No Definite Size

It is not certain that the department is aiming at the creation of a force of any definite size. There are now upward of 1,300,000 American troops either overseas or en route. Secretary Baker said today the shipment rate of the early part of July had been maintained through the month, although he did not have available the total shipment. Under the 250,000 a month suggestions and without mishap to the supply line, October should see 2,000,000 Americans overseas and the opening of the spring campaign of 1919, when many officers believe the final scenes of the German defeat will begin a great combined drive against the German lines, might easily see three million ready for action, with another force of substantially 2,000,000 organized at home. That would represent the army of 5,000,000 men for which, in a general way, the war department may be aiming.
