Prune Pickers in Demand—Every day brings to the federal labor office a number of calls for prune pickers—boys, girls and women. Hundreds of them will be required in this vicinity during the height of the season, though proportionately fewer hands are needed for this labor than for other fruit harvesting, as one person can gather up a great many bushels of prunes in a day. Between fifty and sixty calls for laborers come into the office every week. During the past week there have been calls for eighteen blackberry pickers, ten bean pickers, eight hop pickers, sixteen common laborers, and several loggers. All these calls are accompanied by an offer of wages that ought to look good to any ordinary man.

RIVER HAS NO BRIDGE.
RUBY, Alaska, July 15.—(By Mail.)—Alaska's big inland waterway, the Yukon river, is believed to be the longest river on the North American continent, if not on the globe without a bridge. The big river is over 2100 miles long and from where it arises back of White Horse, Y. T., to its mouth, near St. Michaels, Alaska, it is not spanned. Bridges are unnecessary along the Yukon during the winter, for the dog and wagon trails along the shore cross on the ice when crossings are necessary. In the summer small boats are used. At Dawson there is a hand propelled ferry.

CHANCE FOR EXPLORERS.
VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 2.—Nearly 30 per cent of Canada is still unexplored, according to the beliefs of officials here. Mist of the unknown lies to the north of the country dained by the great Mackenzie river which flows into the Arctic ocean. Even the Indians, it is believed, have not penetrated the wild mountains bordering the Mackenzie basin. If the reports of the natives are to be believed the Mackenzie basin contains one of the largest of possible oil bearing country on the face of the globe. Natives say that up back of the Basin of the Yukon river there are lakes 100 miles and over in length which no white men have yet seen.

SALOON MUCH CHANGED.
FORT BLISS, Tex., Aug. 3.—The "Bucket of Blood," formerly an infamous saloon where killings occurred almost nightly, is now the general headquarters of the Y. M. C. A. for the El Paso district. In Lynchville—the old hard rowed adobe saloons have been converted into soft drink places and the bartenders serve root beer and sodas instead of red liquor and knock-out drops. This collection of board front stores, curio stands and soda parlors resembles a small amusement park and is crowded nightly with soldiers dancing to the music of jazz bands, drinking soft drinks at tables and having their pictures taken to send home.

BEAR CUBS GENEROUS.
EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 2.—Jack and Sister have offered themselves as living sacrifices for the Red Cross fund. They are bear cubs captured by an Indian policeman at the Mesalero Indian reservation and donated to the Red Cross to be sold and the money sent to France to buy supplies for the fighters. They are three months old and are as playful as kittens. An army engineer in the unit which has been camped in the mountains near where the bear cubs were captured has made up a purse to bid in the bears and take them to France as Mascots.

AUTO SLOGAN CHANGING.
EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 3.—"Salute and Ride" is the slogan of automobile owners here. It has long been a practice to pick up soldiers walking to and from the fort. But it is difficult for automobile drivers to tell when the men are going far enough to warrant taking them in their cars. Now the rule is that soldiers wishing a lift will salute and the drivers will stop for them.

BOLSHEVIK ARE AFTER BRITISH

Arrest of Counsel General May Be Reprisal for Archangel Affair

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Robert H. B. Lockhart, acting consul-general in Moscow, and six Britishers attached to his staff and several French diplomatic agents have been arrested in Moscow by the Bolsheviks, says the Daily Mail. The newspaper attributes to the foreign office statement there is no reason to believe that British at Archangel shot representatives of soviets and adds: "There was some shooting at Archangel incidental to the landing operations but this could only have been in reply to shots fired at our forces by the Bolsheviks forces. The arrest of Liekhardt is, of course, an act of hostility in international law and will be so regarded by us. It is especially a reprisal for our landing at Archangel and in the Murmansk region."

MOSCOW CONSUL TOO.
LONDON, Aug. 10.—The Evening News says that J. O. Wardrop, the British consul at Moscow, was arrested with R. H. B. Lockhart, Messrs. Lockhart and Wardrop remained in Moscow when the diplomatic staff went to Archangel.

Few Men Able to Beat Draft by Volunteering
Some time ago there were rumors that all volunteer enlistments for army and navy service would be suspended. Yesterday these were confirmed by telegrams received by both recruiting offices in Salem, stating that until further orders no more men were to be enrolled for either army or navy. However this order did not apply to men who had applied previous to Thursday, August 8, or to men who were being examined with a view to acceptance. It is supposed that this action has been taken by the war department in view of the possibility that with the prospect of passing the new draft laws there might be a stampede of young men to volunteer in order to get in ahead of the draft. The following succeeded in getting through the Salem office before it shut down: Lyle Waring, David C. Howard, Bartley Newman, Ralph E. Palmer, L. A. Culbertson, W. H. Paulus, J. A. Neal, Claude Traubne, Maurice W. Sawyer. All left yesterday to enter the naval service.

$25,000 Will Be Needed by Council of Defense
John K. Kollock, secretary of the state council of defense, yesterday telegraphed the state tax commission that an estimate placed the need of the council at $25,000 for the biennium of 1919 and 1920. The telegram stated that no regular budget could be submitted as is being done by other departments for the reason that the council's work is one of meeting emergencies. The state banking department places its estimated requirements at $26,500 and receipts from fees and miscellaneous sources at $40,000. The state board of horticulture's report places its estimated requirement at $12,000.

Highway Engineer Nunn Has Faith in the Women
Wherever practicable women will be employed on state highway work, according to an order of State Highway Engineer Nunn and hereafter all inspectors, rock checkers and others doing light work will be women if they are willing to take the work. Two women are employed by the department on a packing project between Inglis and Salena on the Lower Columbia River highway and Engineer Nunn says they are giving satisfaction and take more pride in the work than do men employees. Their work is pouring water on the macadam to settle the road beds.

NEW ETERNAL TRIANGLE.
FORT BLISS, Tex., Aug. 5.—Ice cream with plenty of sticky, sweet crushed fruit, candy—chocolate preferred—and red soda water is the favorite triangle of the enlisted soldier. This is especially true if he is young and newly enlisted. The pastries and sweeties he was accustomed to as a civilian are missing on the menu dished up by the camp cook, officially known as the "food mangle." The soda fountain and soft drink stands do a rushing business when the soldiers are off duty and on shore leave. Cakes, stock candy and ice cream cones are also popular and the Y.M.C.A. huts and shops near the post do a wholesale business, especially on pay day.

WANTED TO BE SURE.
When a flashily overdressed woman entered the elevator in a big Kansas City store the other day everybody looked. A little boy grabbed frantically at his mother's dress to attract her attention. "Mamma," he said, as he looked in the direction of the fashion-plate woman, "is that the show you said you saw a while ago?" Then everybody in the elevator laughed except the overdressed woman. —Capper's Weekly.

WOULDN'T TAKE A CHANCE.
"Why don't you get out and hustle? Hard work never killed anybody," remarked the philosophical gentleman to whom Rastus applied for a little charity. "You're mistaken dor, boss," replied Rastus; "I've lost four wives that way." —People's Home Journal.

PEACH MOTH IS MADE TARGET OF FEDERAL EXPERT

Larson Here to Enlist Growers Against Dreaded Oriental Invader
PEST COMES FROM JAPAN
Species Is Prolific and Produces Five Generations in Season
O. A. Larson, of Washington, D. C., representing the bureau of entomology of the department of agriculture, arrived in the city yesterday in the course of a tour of the coast states. He is here for the purpose of investigating the various fruit districts and interesting growers in a fight against the dreaded oriental peach moth, which has already secured a foothold in some sections. This pest, which is closely related to the codlin moth, has been brought into this country from Japan. In some respects it is far more a menace than the codlin moth, as it produces five generations in the course of a season. And it does not confine itself to the fruit, like the codlin moth, but attacks the twigs and the leaves before the fruit appears. During the bearing season it borrows into the fruit after the manner of the codlin moth, but doing far more damage to the interior. Even after the fruit is gone, the insect continues its depredations on the twigs. Bug Hard to Combat. The fact that it can not be combated with the Bordeaux mixture makes it more difficult to deal with. Thus far no specific has been discovered that will check it, and the department of agriculture, through its field workers, is endeavoring to bring it to the attention of expert pathologists all over the country in the hope that means will be devised to check its progress. Mr. Larson states that its presence is first shown by the withering of leaves on the smaller twigs, and he advises the Willamette growers to send samples of affected wood to the bureau of entomology at Washington at once if such indications appear in the orchards. It is most apt to be found on peach trees, but attacks all classes of fruit trees and even flowering shrubs. Prune Ailment Scrutinized. While Mr. Larson's attention is devoted chiefly to the peach moth, he has taken notice of the prune disease that is reported throughout the Pacific coast states. When told that local fruit men had discovered a working hypothesis as to the cause of the rot he proceeded to shoot it full of holes by the statement that it had been found in every section of the west, in every sort of location and soil, on high and low soil on yellow and old trees on dry and irrigated soil, and on every variety of prune. It develops in spots over huge orchards where conditions are absolutely uniform. Eminent pathologists in various parts of the west are disagreed on its cause. In one district in Washington the growers dug up trees badly and sent them to the experts in Washington, D. C., in order that they might have an opportunity to study the effects of the disease on the entire structure. The one point upon which they are agreed is that it is due largely to the root condition. The lieutenant was killed.

ENTERPRISE STOCKMAN DEAD
ENTERPRISE, Or., Aug. 9.—Walter S. Brockman, the largest cattle owner and operator in Morrow county, was found dead in a remote spot on the Snake river last Monday, according to word brought here today. Several of Mr. Brockman's horses were found nearby and a dead mule, still unpacked, lay near his body. The cause of his death was not apparent. The body, it was said, was taken to Grangeville, Idaho.

TROOPS REMAIN HEALTHY.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Continued satisfactory health conditions among troops in the United States are shown in the report for the week ended August 2. Hospital admissions and non-effective rates were lower than for the previous week, and the death rate for disease continued unusually low. Camp Grant, which had the best health record for the week, showed no deaths among 50,000 men.

GREAT SALMON RUN.
MARSHFIELD, Or., Aug. 9.—An extraordinary heavy run of Chinook salmon has been in evidence in the Rogue river this week. Some eighty boats working for the Macleay and Seaborg canneries tawing from thirty-five to fifty fish each nightly. The salmon are extra large, few being lighter than thirty pounds. Fishermen are making the highest earnings on record.

AMERICAN SCHOONER SUNK.
NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Aug. 9.—The American schooner Stanley L. Seaman bound from Newport News to a foreign port, was sunk last Monday 110 miles east of Cape Hatteras by a German submarine. Captain W. C. McAloney and crew of eight men arrived today at this port. They were picked up by a British vessel. 'Sno-use. The man who tries to keep a stiff upper lip feels resolution failing when he meets a kissable girl.—Roller Monthly.

MODIFY RULES FOR ATHLETICS

State Board of High School Sporting Activities Holds Meeting Here

Modification of two important rules governing high school athletics was made here yesterday by the state board of control of high school athletics. Members of the board are State Superintendent Churchill, A. C. Strange, superintendent at Baker, and J. C. Nelson, principal of the Salem high school. The board decided to suspend a rule which would bar a boy from participating in athletics in the fall, when he had dropped out before the end of the spring semester without having secured his proper credits. It also suspended a rule which barred a boy from entering athletics in the fall term before October 15. The widespread need of students in the harvest fields and in other lines of work connected with the winning of the war was responsible for the moves taken. Letters also will be sent out to the seventy schools in the association asking if they desire further modification of the rules, and also urging that they abide by the rules as laid down by the association.

HUMBLED HUN TELLS TALES OF HORRORS
their places. It was like killing a few bees in a swarm. "What could we do ourselves, very inferior in numbers, especially when the enemy fire was so terrible? It seemed best to run when we could not hold, take another position, resume the fight and gradually retire. "Those who could not run have fallen into the hands of the enemy. Many of them had that fate. There were also a large number of killed and wounded. Those who are not too severely wounded are the lucky. The country receives them in her arms and they are out of an unlucky situation. "I did not participate in that fight, which lasted until late into the night. At nightfall I went to the commanders of the company to get orders for the future. The French and Americans having attacked and advanced more to the north, we have been obliged to abandon the position, and we went several kilometers toward the north. Yesterday morning they put us at rest in a wood but the 'wicked enemy' was there in front of us. Last night we were engaged again but my battalion was in reserve at about 600 meters from the first line for the reason that we had seriously melted in numbers. But any minute we expect to be engaged to repulse a new attack, as the French, with renewed courage, are attacking constantly. "The battle continuously sways back and forth. The village changes hands frequently. With the exception of a few points of minor importance we hold the positions occupied yesterday. "The blockheads attacked with several tanks today; according to reports the tanks have been destroyed. Their cavalry also is engaged. "There is terrible noise here. Our own and enemy shells are passing constantly over our heads and bursting sometimes close to us. The machine guns are cracking before us, which is proof that the enemy are engaged. Let's hope they will not pass. "Summing it all up, I think we have under-estimated Foch and his reserves and especially the Americans. I have a presentiment I shall lose my skin, I wish it were tomorrow." The lieutenant was killed.

DAIRYMEN ORGANIZE.
PORTLAND, Or., Aug. 9.—Organization was effected here today of the Oregon Dairymen's League, whose purpose is to carry on a campaign of publicity throughout the state to enlighten the public on the value of the dairying and kindred industries. Dairymen declare dairy cows are being slaughtered because their owners cannot afford to keep and feed them at present high maintenance cost and at present alleged inadequate prices for products. J. D. Mickle, state dairy commissioner, met with the dairymen and endorsed their statements as to the menace said to be hanging over the industry.

EDITORS IN SESSION.
MARSHFIELD, Or., Aug. 9.—Editors and publishers from all over Oregon convened here today for the annual convention of the Oregon State Editorial association. Addresses and discussions comprised the first day's proceedings. The session will continue tomorrow.
