

SPARK OF REVOLT IN GERMAN ARMY

(Continued from page 1). WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, Sept. 6.—(By the Associated Press.)—Substantial advances again are reported all along the southern part of the line. The Australians have crossed the Somme on a wide front south of Peronne and have driven into enemy territory. St. Christ, Brie, Les Messil, Doint and Athies wood also have been taken. Progress is reported east of these places.

The enemy has been driven from east and northeast of Peronne. Over the whole area from which the Germans are retreating on this large section of the front many fires are raging and numerous explosions have been heard. Villages are aflame between the British positions and the Hindenburg line. Here and in the northern areas, the Germans are burning quantities of materials.

The British have reached the Athies-Ham road and are on the eastern outskirts of Bussu. At Nuru there has been heavy fighting. Strong German forces, fighting desperately with machine guns and trench mortars have caused the British to pause.

Along the whole front from the southern extremity to the Bapaume-Cambrai road the enemy artillery fire is dwindling away, indicating that the Germans are making strenuous efforts to get their guns back of the Hindenburg defenses.

In the Quent area the British, after severe fighting, occupied the ridge south of the Moerens and captured more German posts around Havincourt wood. South of Havincourt wood the advance north and south of Equancourt met with heavy resistance. Just east of here the whole town of Fins is aflame. This resistance probably was offered to give a chance to the destruction squads in Fins.

British posts west of the Canal du Nord, north of Inchy, have been pushed forward, but patrols on the west bank of the canal were heavily fired upon from the east bank. One of the British patrols crawled across a damaged bridge and came upon an enemy outpost asleep. The British pounced upon the sleeping Germans and captured three.

In the north, where the British are reported to be making advances, more fires are raging. In many places north of the Sensee river the Germans for several hours have been firing thousands of gas shells, so indiscriminately as to make it appear that they are trying to get rid of them.

A number of fires have been reported in the area south of the Estaires-Armentieres road. There have been three counter-attacks against Hill 63 and the surrounding positions. Two of these broke down completely, but during the third, north of the hill, the British were compelled to fall back slightly.

Further north the British reached the crest of the important ridge northwest of Wulverghem but were unable to make further progress for a time because of the heavy enemy machine gun and trench mortar fire. Still further north piece after piece of ground is being regained. The British have reached Canteleux and are pushing on toward Vislaines. Weak enemy counter-attacks south of Ploegsteert were easily smothered.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—The British troops south of Peronne are advancing approximately seven miles east of the Somme on the general line of Moncy-Lagache, Vraignes and Tincourt, all of which villages have been taken by them, according to Field Marshal Haig's communication issued tonight, in the Lys sector slight advances also have been made by the British.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—A British official communication dealing with the operations of the allied forces in the region around Archangel, Russia, says:

"After further severe hand-to-hand fighting with an enemy force led by the Germans, the allied troops have occupied Obozerskaya. Prisoners to the number of 150 were captured and heavy losses were inflicted on the enemy.

"The allied casualties were slight."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—General Pershing's communique for today follows: "Section A—North of the Vesle our troops have taken the villages of Longkeval, Merzal and Glenes and have reached the line of Vieil-Arcy-Villers-en-Prayers Revillon. Our patrols are on the south bank of the Aisne canal. Elsewhere the day passed without incident."

ROME, Sept. 6.—"Along the mountainous front," says the official statement issued today by the Italian war office, "our artillery yesterday effectively shelled the enemy's front lines and rear areas. In the Concalaghi, Posina and the Assa valley our patrols engaged enemy exploring parties and drove them back.

"North of Montefera an attempt to raid our advanced lines was arrested by our garrison, which afterward, by a counter-attack put the enemy to flight with losses.

"On the lower Piave enemy scouts attempting to cross the river in small boats were driven back by rifle fire"

LONDON, Sept. 6.—The military commander in the district of Altona, Prussia, has issued a proclamation warning the populace against damaging the railroads thus exposing military transports to danger says a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Copenhagen.

The proclamation imposes the death sentence upon such persons as are found guilty of disobeying the order.

ATHENS, Sept. 6.—Predicting success for the entente allies in their conflict with the central powers, Premier Venizelos in a recent address at Pozani, where he was the guest of the municipality, urged upon the Greek nation the adoption of a policy of radical economy, in order that Greece might come out of the war with a minimum of debt and in shape to meet the pressing problems which would then arise in an economic way.

SLACKER DRIVE STIRS SENATE TO THE DEPTHS

Strong Terms Are Hurlled Against Roundup of Men in New York City

CHAMBERLAIN TALKS

Sharp Criticisms Hurlled at Men Responsible for "Meddlesome" Move

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Controversy over draft slacker roundups broke out again today in the senate. Senator Smoot of Utah, Republican, called up his resolution proposing an investigation by the senate military committee of the arrests in New York and elsewhere.

Senator Jones of New Mexico commended the effort to catch draft slackers.

In the midst of the discussion the Smoot resolution automatically was laid aside under the rules to give place to the pending emergency bill with its prohibition rider. The resolution goes to the calendar, where it must remain until taken up by majority vote.

Senator Calder read a number of telegrams from men who had been detained by the New York police, detailing their experiences. One man said he was held for hours despite the fact that he had shown military officers his registration card.

"I protest against further continuation of the methods used in this roundup," declared Senator Calder.

"I think the author of this drive should be dismissed from the public service," interjected Senator Thomas.

Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the military committee, resented the suggestion that the resolution be referred to any other than the military committee, in view of the participation of soldiers and sailors in the New York raid. He said he was glad to see that the president had ordered an investigation and referred to the raid as the work of "some meddlesome agent of the department of justice or some other meddlesome person."

What he particularly resented, Senator Chamberlain said, was the use of soldiers and sailors and the arrest of persons not within the draft age.

Senator Jones of New Mexico said soldiers and sailors are required to arrest deserters, but Senator Chamberlain replied that they had no authority to roundup civilians.

Senator Brandegee of Connecticut, Republican, interrupted to emphasize there is no legal authority or warrant for the detention and questioning of men without writs or other court proceedings.

The roundup of 4,000 New Yorkers, Senator Chamberlain continued, with the result of apprehending only a few hundred slackers, was a test of New York's patriotism.

"There was no necessity for this proceeding," he continued. "The draft law has practically put the slacker out of business. I predict that if a roundup was held in every city of the country, they couldn't get 10,000 men for the army. I resent any such Prussianism as is being attempted and I venture that the president also will resent it when he gets full information."

Referring to the spy bill he proposed last spring, extending power of military courts-martial, Senator Chamberlain suggested that at that time the department of justice was inactive in rounding up pro-Germans, but now had become suddenly active in rounding up slackers.

Senator Poindexter of Washington who yesterday praised the government's activity against slackers, said citizens should regard it as a pleasure to suffer some inconvenience in the searching out of slackers.

Attack on Lenine Occurs While Americans Are Still in Petrograd

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 6.—The American refugees who left Moscow August 26 arrived at Hparanda, Sweden, Thursday, after an uneventful trip through Finland.

The Italian military mission accompanied the Americans from Moscow.

The attack on Nikolai Lenine, the Bolshevik premier, who was badly wounded, and Moses Uritsky, commissioner for elections to the constituent assembly, who was killed, occurred while the Americans and Italians were in Petrograd.

They say there was great excitement and disorder, but that the party was allowed to proceed after a slight delay.

Major Allen Wardwell and Captain William R. Webster of the American Red Cross remained in Moscow with their comrade, Captain Andrews who was too ill to travel. Nearly all the other Americans in Moscow and Petrograd joined the party.

One of the Americans says many French and English are imprisoned in Moscow and Petrograd and that Tchitcherin, the Bolshevik foreign minister, refused to allow the British and French to leave.
