SALEM'S REPUTATION IS AT STAKE

Salem's reputation is at stake. This city has not come up to expectations in the purchase of Liberty Bonds.

Salem must go "over the top." This city has not yet lagged behind in any form of war activities.

Our people have in each case done as much as or more than was expected of them.

Perhaps Salem's allotment is high now. But what if it is? Then let us do more than our bits.

Let us do more than we ought to be expected to do. Let us buy till it hurts. These are the greatest days in the world's history.

We should all be proud that we are able to have a part in the momentous events that are shaping the world for the future; for the final triumph of justice and the permanent era of peace and good will among all men.

The glorious Belgians are still going east, and all Hun-dom cannot stop them. They are fighting for their homes and their firesides and the resurrection of their nation.

Buy a little more than your neighbors expect of you. Be a 101 per cent American.

Damascus kicked through yesterday. The oldest city in the world will be made new.

Buy more Liberty Bonds. Keep your eyes on Allenby.

The prime picker, did not order. And then buy still more Liberty Bonds.

The Hun is on his way out of Belgium and France.

Turkey has decided to stay with Germany, according to report. But she will not have the decision for many more days.

Also bluing has doubled in price. The Kaiser must have used up the visible supply, judging from the way he looks.

How did you stand the first assault of the Fourth Liberty Loan drivers? That is only a taste of what is to come.—Los Angeles Times. They are hitting the line hard down there, too.

Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois is doing his presidential early, having been announced for the Republican nomination in 1920.

General Foch is to keep pounding the enemy on the western front. By such tactics General Grant captured Richmond. Give battle, carry off the dead and wounded—and keep going—that is the program.—Ex.

Wonder what the gentlemen who signed the Declaration of Independence would think if they were allowed to return to earth and see us now?—Exchange. They would be pleased to note that the whole world had caught up with them.

In making war on the German language it is well to remember that it is the language of the greater part of the people of Switzerland and also

REPUBLICAN TICKET

General Election, November 5, 1918. United States Senator (Short Term) FRED W. MURKIN, of Multnomah county. United States Senator (Long Term) CHARLES L. McNARY, of Marion county. Representative in Congress. First District: W. C. HAWLEY, of Marion county. Second District: N. J. SINNOT, of Wasco county. Third District: C. N. McARTHUR, of Multnomah county. Governor: JAMES WITHYCOMBE, of Benton county. State Treasurer: O. P. HOFF, of Multnomah county. Justice of Supreme Court: CHARLES A. JOHNS, of Multnomah county. Attorney-General: GEORGE M. BROWN, of Douglas county. Superintendent of Public Instruction: J. A. CHURCHILL, of Baker county. Labor Commissioner: C. H. GRAM, of Multnomah county. Public Service Commissioner: FRED A. of the greater part of the people of Alsace-Lorraine, whose aspiration to be reunited to France has the sympathy of people who are somewhat lacking in tolerance for their language. It was in no small degree because the French were tolerant to the German language that they held the allegiance of so great a part of the border people. Let us not emulate the rigid and pedantic intolerance of Prussia.—Springfield Republican.

THE MEN OF FORTY-FIVE.

Why are not men 45 years of age equal to the emergencies of the war? We read that John Burns of Gettysburg was 71 when he performed an act of bravery that was embalmed in verse. And there was the famous Thirty-seventh regiment of Iowa, that served during the Civil war, every man more than 45 years old.—Exchange.

BITS FOR BREAKFAST

Out the Huns go. Out of France and Belgium. It is the greatest pincers yet. And Foch knows how to work it, and he has the men. Damascus has been captured, and 7000 Turk prisoners. Keep your eye on Allenby. He is going north and west now. An unknown friend telephones to the Bits for Breakfast man to say that if the boys keep on keeping on they will get Turkey for Thanksgiving. Huns getting out of Lille. And they have taken everything on wheels, even down to wheelbarrows, to get away with their loot. They are true to Hun traditions. Germans surrounded a bunch of Yanks and tried repeatedly to capture them. They killed all corners, and finally fought their way out. Those Yanks will just not either be licked or stay licked.—Buy More Bonds. CIVIC EMPLOYEES ASK INCREASE. VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 2.—Demand for a general wage increase for members of the civic employe's union to take effect October 1 has been made of the city government.

IN A SOCIAL WAY

By MURIEL GRANT.

LIEUTENANT Edwin Socolofsky left Tuesday morning for Pullman Wash., where he has been appointed assistant personnel adjutant in Washington State college.

He was accompanied as far as Portland by his sister, Miss Salome Socolofsky, and his brother Harold.

Mrs. C. P. Bishop, chairman of the linen shower committees in Salem, requests those who have bundles of linen to send them to Red Cross headquarters in the United States National Bank building, as there will be a personal solicitation.

Articles such as hand towels, sheets, handkerchiefs and napkins are needed by the hospitals in France and all those who can contribute the above articles are urged to do so.

Monday evening a number of the Weosterian brothers of Lieutenant Edwin Socolofsky surprised him at his home on North Summer street. A delightful evening was spent in singing and telling stories and reviewing life at Willamette university.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Talmadge and daughter, Miss Mary Talmadge, will leave Saturday for Portland where they will spend the winter.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Bayne, 114 Bellevue street, will be the scene of a merry slumber party this evening when the members of the T. A. Club, an organization of the Salem high school, will entertain in honor of Miss Mary Talmadge, who is leaving on Saturday for Portland.

Miss Fay Peringer of Bellingham Wash., has returned to Salem to resume her studies at Willamette university and is a guest of Miss Muriel Steeves.

After having spent the past few months at the Presidio in California, Lyle Bartholomew has returned to his home in Salem. He is a former Willamette student and was a popular member of the student body.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gaston returned Tuesday evening to their home at Olympia, Wash., after a fortnight's visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Steeves, 316 North Church street. Their daughter, Miss Annie Gaston will remain in Salem a few weeks longer.

Miss Ethelwynne Armstrong left the best of the week for Forest Grove, where she will enter Pacific university.

Liberty bonds are mighty good things for patient people to hold on to and get more if they can.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We eat too much meat which clogs kidneys, then the Back Hurts. Most folks forget that the kidneys like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE The Story of a Honeymoon

A Wonderful Romance of Married Life Wonderfully Told by ADELE GARRISON

CHAPTER IX C A CURIOUS LITTLE PREMONITION

"Taxi's here, ma'am." As I passed through the foyer of the apartment building on my second errand to the janitor within two hours, the boy at the telephone switchboard stopped me with the announcement of the machine's arrival. "Thank you. Will you tell him to wait a minute or two. I am already but I must speak to the janitor before I go." "Why didn't you ask me to get the janitor for you?" I shook my head smiling. I did not wish to speak to the janitor about bawling Katie from the apartment in the presence of any one else. That was the reason I had not called him on the phone or sent the boy for him when I could not gain entrance to my own apartment because I had mislaid my key. I had heard Dicky say once that these apartment house switchboard boys were the worst gossips to be found in the world, and I certainly did not want them discussing my affairs.

Callahan appeared surprised to see me again. "Well, locked, ma'am," he said jovially. "Looked out again." "Not this time," I smiled at him. "I have my key safe in my purse, and the kitchen door is also out. I want you to keep someone else out." Callahan looked mildly surprised. "I have a reason for thinking that my maid may have come back this afternoon," I went on hastily. "She has a key to the back door, and when she finds the door bolted she may come to you. If she does, will you kindly tell her that Mrs. Graham will be gone until quite late, and that she will not need to return to the apartment until tomorrow morning? Don't say anything to offend her, you understand, but don't let her in."

"Sure, I understand, ma'am. You don't want one of them foreigners rummaging your place when you're not there. I'll see nobody gets in." "Thank you, Mr. Callahan. Good-day." "Good-day, ma'am." The old chap favored me with a bow that was almost courtly. I wondered if it were because I had perplexed "Mr." to his name. I knew that the tenants generally called him "Callahan," but I never could see, why, in democratic America, one man's calling should demand a "Mr." and another man's preclude it.

As I walked toward the entrance where the taxi waited I could not help smiling at the old janitor's contemptuous use of the word "foreigner." I was almost certain that he himself had not been born in America, but he evidently considered himself to be a native son, with the right of criticism of any late comers.

The chauffeur stood holding the door of the taxicab open as I came down the steps. "One hundred and four, West Eleventh street," I said as he closed the door. He nodded, touched his cap, and in a moment I was again rolling over the city streets.

Love and Contrast. ride with locomotive code sets on hr I could not help contrasting this ride with the one I had taken two hours before. Then I had huddled, shaken and grief-stricken, into a cor-

Whenever I am a note or a wire directed to the Hotel Alfred will be forwarded to me. If the impossible should happen and your husband ever fall you, remember Jack is waiting, ready to do anything for you."

I smiled proudly to myself at the idea of Dicky ever failing me. We had been married but a short time. I knew that Dicky loved me devotedly in spite of the ungovernable temper which had been the cause of most of our quarrels.

And yet, a curious little premonition chided me. Why, just at this time, like the flash of a picture on a screen, should the beautiful face of Grace Draper, a girl whom Dicky had engaged as a model, come into my mind?

It was but an instant's imagination, yet it left me shaken. Was it possible that some time Dicky might fail me after all?

(To be continued) —Buy More Bonds— APPRECIATIVE WOMEN. How often is the question asked, "Are the testimonial letters published in the advertisements of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound genuine and true?" In answer to that question we want to answer most emphatically yes; and it is gladness for health restored by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after weeks, months and sometimes years of suffering that has prompted these women to write such letters in order that other women who suffer as they once did may profit by their experience. —Buy More Bonds—
