SALEM OUGHT TO KEEP WIDE AWAKE.

Salem ought to keep wide awake. Every legitimate line of progress ought to be encouraged. Business and manufacturing should be pushed. The largest possible employment for labor ought to be provided, here and hereabouts.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo announces a policy of continued credits to Europe during the reconstruction period, in order that the hungry people of the war-torn lands may be fed, and in order that they may get their idle millions to work building up the countries laid waste by the ravages of war.

The food and the building supplies and the raw materials and manufactured articles they will need from this country will, for a time, have to be bought on credit.

But it is in line with enlightened selfishness that our country should extend the necessary credit.

It will make for good will that will keep the commerce of this country growing indefinitely.

Lloyd George has already announced a vigorous reconstruction policy on the part of Great Britain.

There is to be no lagging anywhere.

There is to be a world boom, and the communities and cities that are alive and awake to the situation will be the ones to profit most.

So Salem must keep wide awake. There will soon be more and more people to do the necessary work. They must all be found employment.

More loganberries ought to be set out. More land ought to be cleared.

Dairying and live stock raising in every line ought to be speeded up.

There should be more work for the canneries and fruit packing concerns, and for the dryers. We should get more factories.

A linen mill, for instance.

This can be done now, with plenty of footloose experts from the demobilizing armies of Europe.

There is a great future for Salem, if she will reach out and take advantage of every opportunity.

The women of Germany are appealing to the women of America. They say they have been starving "for years," and no doubt they have. But they need not worry. General Foch looked out for that, in two paragraphs of the armistice terms. And Herbert Hoover looked out for it. And President Wilson has given his word. And the British, French, Italian, Serbian and American delegates are to meet at Paris, and hurry the matter along. The whole world will exert every effort to keep any from starving anywhere.

The Yanks, who showed Europe how to speed up a war, will now show her how to get a move on with supplies for the hungry. Germany will have another surprise of her life.

Now, unscramble the ensemble.

Let the Yanks come home, where they are needed.

Also the nation has been made safe from the Democracy.

Rioting by Syndicalists in Copenhagen. Something rotten in Denmark.

Hereafter Hungary expects to make its own goulash from its own recipe.

There are plenty of European soldiers who need the jobs to do the guarding.

Flour restrictions are off, and the amount of sugar raised to four pounds a month. Everything will be off soon, and nature will be allowed to take its course.

With the next senate close politically watch "Battling Bob" La Follette once more emerge from privacy that was heartily appreciated by the country, into the spotlight. This is a hunch and it costs nothing.—Los Angeles Times.

General Peshing yesterday placed on the breast of Marshal Foch the distinguished service medal of the United States; the first of these medals to be conferred. But Marshal Foch does not need any medals to proclaim him the greatest military commander the world has produced. And he is as simple in his tastes and bearing as he is great in intellect and judgment and mercy.

HEROES ALL.

You never can tell. The professor of romance and language in the University of Iowa has been cited twice for bravery on the fields of France. We have been showing the world that anybody can be a hero.

TAKES TIME.

Under six months of government operation the railways show increased running expenses of nearly five hundred million dollars, only about half of which is represented by the increased wages allowed to employees. At the same time freight and passenger rates were advanced an average of about 25 per cent. The net earnings of the roads fell off more than 60 per cent. If this gait is to keep up the original stockholders of the roads would be glad to have the government take their holdings off their hands. There's no fun in being a share-owner in a government operated railway. It is pretty hard as yet to figure out an advantage to any one save a few employes whose pay has been increased.

COURAGE IS COMMON.

One of the soldiers from Camp Kearny, who has since been in the fighting in France, in the course of a letter to his mother, casually writes:

"I never knew courage was so common. Everybody seems to have it."

That is what discipline and companionship do to nature. Many a man who, in the solitude of his lonely soul, adjudges himself a coward turns out to be a hero under stress of circumstances. But the turning point of the war was when the Americans in goodly numbers appeared on the front line. The boys had only trained long enough to find out that they were not cowards—that is, each one had found that, after all, he was just as brave as his comrade, and from thence to rashness is but a step. Courage is common with any wholesome, right-minded race, when banded in a just and honorable cause.

BITS FOR BREAKFAST

Over the top, of course.

Over the top for the war work.

Paradoxically, if you give till it hurts, it will make you feel good when it quits hurting.

Uncle Sam saved six billions by getting the war over so soon; and no telling how much more. She can afford to loan at least that much to Europe, to help get the people over there on their feet.

The appeals of the hungry German women are pathetic. But they are unnecessary. Our people knew they were starving, and they were ready to feed the hungry the moment the fighting stopped.

Up in Custer county, Idaho, they are trying to keep out the flu by force of arms. If this could be done everyone would be justified in getting a gun.

It will be a reciprocal arrangement. America will feed hungry Europe now, and Europe will later feed the hungry American tourists.

There is a likelihood that the German Socialists will prove as different from the Russian Bolsheviks as an American laboring man is from an I. W. W. That's the impression. Let's hope so, any way.

Of course those American airplanes can be used for the delivery of the mail. Nothing is ever lost.

It would be a move in the right direction if, after the war, we should follow the program as to foods that circumstances now made it possible and necessary to compel. We all have been the habit of eating too much.—Exchange.

Not so long ago the physicians were warning the women against the wearing of veils, claiming that they harbored germs. Now some of them recommend the wearing of masks to keep 'em out. It is hard to get away with the docs.—Los Angeles Times.

We have now bid a fond farewell to the "daylight saving" humbug until next April. Then, unless, something fortuitous intervenes, we shall be urged to victimize ourselves into the belief that we are given an added hour of daylight by taking it out of the morning and putting it in the evening.—Los Angeles Times.

Moving day is about to set in among the central powers.

IN A SOCIAL WAY

By MURIEL GRANT.

THE Young Women's Christian association of Willamette university held its recognition services Thursday afternoon at Adelanta hall. The freshman girls who were to be recognized carried red candles and marched into the reception hall in single file to the tune of a dreamy melody, which was played by Miss Freda Campbell. The girls took their places and the meeting opened with a Y. W. C. A. song. Miss Gladys Nichols presided at the meeting. The freshman girls were given red or white carnations, which were worn upon their dainty frocks. About 40 girls were bidden to enter the Y. W. C. A.

Lovely in every detail was the wedding of Miss Fannie Chamberlain daughter of Senator and Mrs. George E. Chamberlain and Horace W. Tevis, which was solemnized Thursday evening in Portland at 7:45 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, in Irvington. The Rev. E. H. Pence of the Westminster Presbyterian church officiated and Mrs. Warren E. Thomas played the wedding march. Soft tunes were played during the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, United States Senator George E. Chamberlain, and was attended by her sister, Mrs. Charles Donald Wood, (Carrie Lee Chamberlain), as matron of honor, and Miss Nancy Holt, Miss Paulone Wolfard, Miss Cornelia Tevis and Miss Miriam Reed, were charming bridesmaids in airy and dainty frocks.

Owing to the epidemic only relatives and a few intimate friends of the married set were bidden for the occasion. At 9 o'clock the guests departed and their places were taken by a number of the members of the younger set, who were bidden to spend the remainder of the evening in merry-making and dancing.

The wedding was to have been a brilliant church affair, but owing to the quarantine, the plans were changed. Both of the young people are very popular in the social set and have been the inspiration of a number of social gatherings during the past fortnight.

Miss Mildred Taylor has returned to Salem from an extended trip to eastern Oregon, accompanied by Mrs. E. R. Webb, whom she has been visiting for the past month. Mrs. Webb was formerly Miss Amelia Taylor of Salem. She will remain in Salem a few weeks as the guest of her sister.

Mrs. George G. Brown, after having spent the past few days in Harrisburg, returned the first of the week to her home at 60 North Summer street. She accompanied Mr. Brown as far as Harrisburg while he continued his trip to San Francisco. Mrs. Brown was the house guest of Mrs. Lloyd Shisler.

Clyde B. Clancy returned the first of the week from Tacoma where he witnessed the peace celebration on Monday. He was the guest of his parents while in Tacoma.

Mrs. Thomas Sims of Portland, who has been entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Mott, returned to her home Thursday.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the parsonage of the First Christian church Thursday afternoon when Miss Emma Caroline Hersch became the bride of George Allen Hall. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Leonard Orter. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Lily Mary Hersch and the groom was attended by Adam Hersch, a brother of the bride. The young couple will make their home on a farm near Macleay.

The wedding of Robert S. Fisher of Dallas and Miss Esther Luce of Mount Ayre, Ia., was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hayter in Dallas Tuesday afternoon. The ceremony was a complete surprise to the many friends of Mr. Fisher. The wedding was the culmination of a romance started while Mr. Fisher was on an extensive tour of the east two years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Fisher left immediately after the ceremony for Portland where they will spend a few weeks.

TWO MEN HELD IN COUNTY JAIL

Cartwright and Slattery Accused of Stealing From Sundin's Store

With Troy Cartwright and Tom Slattery, alias Clarence Ledgeth, in custody, Sheriff W. I. Needham came from Albany yesterday, having received the men from Albany officers who arrested them upon advices from the sheriff's office here. They are accused of stealing a bolt of cloth from the tailor shop of John Sundin Wednesday, and other goods of similar nature found in their possession indicate they have been engaged in the shop lifting game elsewhere.

At Albany the two men attempted to sell the cloth to a tailoring establishment there. This led to their immediate arrest. The Albany officers having received instructions from Salem. Cartwright and Slattery visited nearly every tailoring shop in Salem Wednesday and their action excited the suspicions of the proprietors, so when the theft at the Sundin establishment was discovered their descriptions were easily given to the officers. Sheriff Needham located them at a local hotel a few minutes before they took a train for Albany, but was unable to apprehend them before they boarded the train.

Appearing at the Sundin shop Cartwright and Slattery asked to have a suit of clothes pressed. While the shopkeeper went upstairs to do their work they are alleged to have taken the bolt of cloth and one of the two secreted it beneath an overcoat which he carried on his arm.

The two men are held at the county jail in separate compartments. They tell conflicting stories and are to be questioned further today. Cartwright carries discharge papers from the Canadian army and is a cripple. He claims Chicago as his home and Slattery says his home is in Indiana.

LOUIE COMPTON HIT BY GERMANS

Former Secretary of Salem Y. M. C. A. Gets Bullet Through Shoulder

Louis H. Compton, first lieutenant 23d infantry, A. P. O. 710, A. E. F.

France, writes under date of October 8 to John H. Farrar. He writes from American Red Cross Military hospital No 1, Paris, where he has been confined with a German bullet hole through his shoulder. Lieutenant Compton, before offering his services to Uncle Sam, was general secretary of the Salem Y. M. C. A., as everyone in Salem knows. He was everybody's chum, but an especial chum of his was Mr. Farrar. Following is his letter to Mr. Farrar:

"Here I am with a nice hole through my shoulder which some nice Hun machine gun slipped to me as a souvenir up on the Champagne front on the 4th inst.

"I have by 'quivering system' pretty full of gas also; but I'm rearing to get back and at 'em.

"The going was awfully hard on the last front, but we went just the same. I have a little difficulty writing 'flat o' my back, but trust you'll be able to read it. Saw George Watson yesterday. I went down town in a taxi.

"Well, I must close, old boy, and get to sleep. Be good, write once in a while. Think you owe me a letter or two. Regards to all the Salem People, and love to you both."

Many a man thinks himself holy and righteous, when as a matter of fact he is only lazy and tired.

WHAT THE SUN DOES.

By letting the sun shine for a given time upon the blackened cover of a box filled with water or some other liquid and noting the rise in temperature, affords us a method of approximating the amount of heat given up by the sun. By such a method it is estimated that the earth receives every second from the sun enough heat to raise 600,000,000 tons of ice water to the boiling point, or to melt 480,000,000 tons of ice without change in temperature. If this is the amount that the earth receives think of the amount that must be passing off into space and other planets. This amount has been computed to be 2,200,000,000 times as great as that which the earth receives. Scientists have shown that the amount of heat received by us from the sun may vary as much as 5 per cent in less than a week.—F. P.

New governments, and maybe public, are being born at this very hour in Europe. It is not too much to say that the map of the world is in the remaking. And let us remember that revolutions never go backward.

Laces and Delicate Fabrics Have No Terrors for Us

No need to hold out the delicate things when sending laundry to us. We carefully sort out all such articles for special painstaking treatment. They are not dumped into a washing machine with a lot of rough stuff, but are turned over to our skilled "expert on laces and light fabrics."

They receive separate care—are cleaned properly, dried properly, shaped properly, ironed properly and returned to you in proper condition.

Remember this and send us all articles which you prize and are particular about.
