By order of the public service comsuch other measures as may be necessary to afford to its patrons a reasephone service. The company is given five days within which to notify the commission whether it will comply with the order.

The order calls the company's attention to its failure to employ skilled operators, formerly in the companys' employ, who happen to be members of the telephone operators' union, although they have applied for positions since public clamor for better service arose, and while the company has been advertising for operators and giving lack of experienced help as an excuse for poor ser-

There appears to be no assurance that the services so offered by these skilled operators would be utilized any more readily after an increase in revenues or an advance in the wage scale, than under the conditions heretofore prevailing."

The commission takes the stand that the predominant cause of the depreciated and impaired service afforded by the company is its failure to provide a sufficient number of skilled operators.

"Student operators with from six to 10 days' instruction in the company's training school are now being placed at the boards in central offices," says the order, "whereas in normal times a period of from 16 to 22 days of preliminary instruction is required before a novice is considered competent to assume any responsibility as part of the operating that wages are too low is asserted in the order, which points out that wages have not been increased as contemplated although the company seeks to excuse the attempt to increase rates by asserting the increase is necessary to pay reasonable wages. The order point out that the service of the company is poor generally but particularly inadequate .in

"The commission is of the opinion hat increased wages will alleviate the seriousness of the present situation and believes that changes in the scale as outlined by the company may accomplish the desire end," says the order, "That the wages now paid to the operators of the company are inadequate and should be immediately increased there is no dispute. We do not, however, subscribe to the proposition that the present inadequate wages received by the young vomen in this work are solely responsible for the poor service afford-

Increase Short of 25 Per Cent Allowed Road

A supplementary freight tariff schedule of the Valley & Siletz railroad, making a 25 per cent horizontal increase in rates, was again suspended by the public service commission yesterday. This order, however, allows an increase in rates which it is believed will meet the demands of increased costs of operation.

"While the commission does not favor the establishment of a straight horizontal increase in all rates of the respondent, under the conditions which now prevail, we believe from the showing made that a reasonasle
