Enid Bennett in "Fuss and Feathers" By Our Own Omar.

When lovely Enid from her distant height Smiles with the eyes that put the stars to flight.

The fires of youth are flickered with the film, And all the fantasies of youth alight.

Some say that never was a picture made Like "Fuss and Feathers"; that fair Enid's played Her latest role in such high comic vein To make Maude Adams and Rejane afraid.

A simple story this; it comes to pass Through wealth a maiden rises from her class Her father's gold has bought the golden spoon— But not the manners with the knife, alas!

But when she meets the youth of her desire, His parents vainly raise their cultured ire.

He takes her to his arms and tells the world To go to an unmentionable fire.

Oh, you and I'd have done the same, I vow! A good director near to tell the how, And her beside me on the silver-sheet— Oh, silver-sheet where paradise snow!

Is Love "The Greatest Thing in Life?"

How would you like to see the motion picture version of the famous stage play "The Squaw Man?"

Is Power "The Greatest Thing in Life?"

The wife had the nerve to get the vampire to come and stay with them. Knowing her husband was in love with this cigarette-artist, the wife falls sick (?) on purpose, and left dear old vamp to cook and mend for hubby, whereupon Cupid flew the coop! in "Women's Weapons," at The Oregon Wednesday and Thursday.

Mirandy did the laundry for the organist, and the organist, being a nice young fellow, played a lot of music for her—and then Mirandy smiled—say, it's queer how peaceful and romantic a church is when there's nobody but the organist practicing."

One may destroy a grey hair by burning it in the flame of a candle but camouflage will not fool that unerring sharpshooter, Old Age. Esme's artistic soul shuddered at the first sign of departing youth—but even then she could not come down to earth and serve good bread and pork chops. A man cannot live by dreams alone as is proven in "Women's Weapons."
