ARTISTS HERE IN RECITAL

William Robinson Boone and Kathryn Cryslar Street Are Presented

Always anxious to offer to the people of Salem the best that can be obtained in a musical way, the Tuesday Musical Club last night presented in recital at the Congregational church William Robinson Boone, organist, and Kathryn Cryslar Street, contralto, both of Portland, for the benefit of the Armenian-Syrian fund. The numbers rendered by Mr. Boone were masterpieces of technique and expression. He plays with a degree of ease and finish which few accomplish and held his audience closely throughout each number. In the first group which included three numbers from the classics, "Tocata and Fugue in D Major," Bach; "In dulci jubilo," Bach; and "Minuet in E flat," Beethoven, there was a display of intricate technique, common especially to the compositions of Bach.

The other groups included a French suite by Boellmann, a selection from "La Boheme" by Puccini, and a group of compositions by American composers for the organ. The suite included four numbers of widely different character, the introduction a chorale number or hymn, the second a minuet, the third a prayer to our lady and the last a brilliant fantasy. In the group from American composers, the Chinese number, "With a Chinese Garden," was especially well received, also the "Serenade" by Herbert.

Mr. Boone has had wide experience in organ work, coming from New York and Brooklyn. For several years past he has been organist at the First Church Scientist in Portland. Kathryn Cryslar Street, assisting artist on the program, possesses a voice, deep and full, which was especially well fitted to the pathos and deep feeling of her first number, an aria, "My Heart is Weary," from Nadeschda by Thomas. "Come Home, Come Home, My Thoughts from the Hill" and "At Dawn" both by Ronald, were the other two numbers and she replied to an encore with a simple lyric.

Parade Plans Are Modified

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Secretary Baker announced today that he had been forced to abandon hopes he has entertained that a victory parade of three distinctive fighting divisions might be arranged to take place in Washington. The divisions he had hoped to assemble for the purpose, he said, were the first, representative of the old regular army and the first to land in France; the second, which includes the marine brigade, and the forty-second or Rainbow, the national guard unit built up from the forces of states. The secretary said experience had shown that it would be impossible to get the three divisions home at anything like the same time and he had been forced to limit the review to the forty-second division alone. Plans for parade of that organization, it is understood, are now being worked out. Whether even this will be practicable has not yet been definitely decided.

ALTERED TALLY SHEETS ELECT

Judges of Precincts Testify Against Cuts — Make Serious Charge

HUTTE, Mont., April 1.—Charges that tally sheets were altered to benefit William Cutts' candidacy for the democrat mayoralty nomination were made by election judges on the witness stand in the contest brought by W. F. Dunn in the district court today. Attorneys for the contestants allege that tally sheets were tampered with in two precincts. City Clerk Charles Treacy, one of the contestants, told the court the aldermen who made the official canvass of the vote saw only the tally sheets and did not see the poll books during the canvass. The poll books introduced in evidence showed a count less favorable to Cutts in the two precincts where the contest will center than official canvass taken from the ballot books gave him. The difference between the poll books and the tally sheets in these two precincts is sufficient to take the nomination from Cutts and give it to Dunn.

Policemen Are Official Alarm Clocks for City

RIVERSIDE, Cal., March 31.—Citizens of this Southern California town, discarded alarm clocks, and leave it to the Police department to get them up in the morning. Formerly the telephone girls used to make a note of the hour that patrons wanted to be called and ring them up in the mornings, but that was stopped by a company order; so the desk sergeant at police headquarters took over the unrequited, and usually unappreciated, task. Newspaper men, restaurant workers, and others whose business calls them out early, leave their numbers and the hour in their hands with the police sergeant, and he spends his spare time waking them by telephone. Some days he has as many as 200 calls, and every day there are scores of them.
