POSITION OF COUNTY COURT IS OUTLINED

county, out of a bond issue of about six hundred thousand dollars, it is contemplated to improve around three hundred miles of road and that only about thirty miles of paving are contemplated. Whatever the facts may be in regard to that conviction, in the program, we are outlining less than fifteen per cent of the one million, seven hundred thousand, would be spent on high grade gravel road and more than eighty-five per cent would be spent on permanent hard surfacing.

expenditure of these amounts in each section, it will be greatly appreciated. It is suggested that recommendations be made only after consulting the wishes of the people in each market section in regard to the roads they wish improved.

"For the basis of apportionment you may take fifteen thousand dollars as a basis for the cost of a mile of paved road and four thousand dollars a mile as a basis for the cost of a gravel road, and apportion to each section as much road of either or both varieties as the section is equitably entitled to on the basis of schedules C and D.

"If it should appear that the market sections have not been arranged with due justice to all of the sections, or that any other feature of schedules C and D is unjust or inequitable, we will be glad to have you call our attention to the same. Our only aim and suggestion is to treat each and every section of the county fairly and not to pave one section of the county at the expense of another section; in addition to that, to see that this county undertakes and promises no more than we may be reasonably expected to perform.

HOW A YOUNG GIRL SUFFERED

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough for what it has done for my daughter. She was 15 years of age, very sickly and pale and had to stay home from school most of the time. She suffered agonies from backache and dizziness and was without appetite. For three months she was under the doctor's care and got no better, always complaining about her back and side aching so I didn't know what to do. I read in the papers about your wonderful medicine so I made up my mind to try it. She has taken five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and doesn't complain any more with her back and side aching. She has gained in weight and feels much better. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all mothers and daughters."—Mrs. M. FINORE, 516 Marcy Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

nection with the meetings are entirely questions for local authorities. It was explained.

PARADE IS STOPPED

BOSTON, May 1.—Three hundred policemen, aided by soldiers, sailors and civilians fought with a crowd of several hundred radicals who attempted to parade after a May Day meeting here today and three policemen and a civilian were shot, another officer was stabbed and a number of radicals were badly beaten. Two men who were arrested are in a hospital. Other were treated by physicians before being placed in cells. Early tonight 112 arrested had been made.

Following a meeting in the Dudley Street opera house the radicals filled into the street carrying red flags, wearing red buttons and flaunting radical literature. A number of women wore red dresses. Leaders could not produce a parade permit and a policeman ordered them to disperse.

Other officers remonstrated with the crowd but it continued to surge up the street. Police reserves were called and as a patrol wagon approached shots were fired at it. A patrolman was hit.

Radicals defied the police, who arrived in large numbers. More shots were fired, stones were hurled and the police waded into the rioters swinging their clubs. The radicals fought back.

The police were outnumbered and soldiers, sailors and civilians went to their assistance. For several minutes a serious street battle was waged.

The police succeeded in breaking up the crowd and began taking out prisoners. These were loaded into patrol wagons and taken to station houses. The policemen held their guns on the radicals who threatened to rescue the prisoners.

shore unless you mind your own business."

Finding that the attempts to reach the chamber of deputies and war ministry were futile, speakers begged the crowd to turn to the Place de la Republique and de la Bastille. The crowd obeyed singing the Marseillaise.

At the Place de la Republique the most populous quarter in Paris, all accesses to the squares were strongly guarded, cavalry charging repeatedly and the firemen using their hose in spraying the crowds, already wet from the rains, until ingenious youngsters turned off the water of the nearest hydrant leaving the useless hose in the hands of the bewildered firemen.

Here a blind soldier, wearing the war cross with two palms, entered a stalled automobile. The crowd was silenced and the soldier delivered a speech.

"We are the weakest," he said. "Let us not shed French blood. I cannot see you but I feel that you are honest working men and women. Let us disperse."

"Don't mind the police. The soldiers won't hurt you. I'm one of them and for 15 months I have been fighting for you. I have lost my sight, but I am not sorry for it as for my country and yourselves, I would regret eternally if French blood flowed today."

The crowd followed the blind soldier who was carried on the shoulders of the enthusiastic crowd.

One of the speakers climbed a pole and addressed the crowd saying it useless to attempt to storm the Place de la Concorde and reach the objective, the chamber of deputies and the war ministry, where demonstrations had been planned, and advised the people to proceed to the Place de la Republique and the Place de la Bastille.

The crowd obeyed, turning east on the boulevards, singing the "Internationale." The roar of voices was audible for many blocks as the surging crowds overran the boulevards, which were lined with the republican guard in their shining helmets. The Place de la Concorde looked ghastly in the driving rain with rusty, colored German guns of all calibre pointed toward the heavens. Here and there was a machine gun, inconspicuously placed between the captured enemy material and looking strangely new.

Diamond SQUEEGEE TREAD Tires

Why their treads are black and their sides are red

Color cuts no figure in making the treads of Diamonds. For a tire tread must resist the mauling of rough and stony roads—the grind of macadam and brick.

When the toughest, most gristly rubber that could possibly be made for Diamond Treads was made, it just naturally CAME BLACK! Black it will be always unless a tougher rubber is discovered.

But the sides of Diamonds are made red purposely—because Diamond Red Rubber admirably resists side wear, and those red sides make Diamonds distinctively beautiful.

Watch those red-walled Diamonds—they're rolling up 5,000 to 8,000 miles for our customers as often as any other tires, and they COST YOU LESS than most other tires.
