Glover Hatches Woodpecker—
Glover, the man who presides behind the cash counter at the Statesman office, went fishing Sunday and caught one small trout and one woodpecker. Glover has a neat way about catching the woodpecker which was all right, since there were no witnesses. According to his own story Glover saw the tall feathers of the bird protruding from a hole in the trunk of a tree. He grabbed his hat over the hole and the woodpecker backed right up in his hand and was then deposited in a basket.

IN A SOCIAL WAY

By DORRIS LEAH BIKES

ONE of the best of the many replies made to John Mac Rae's stirring war poem "In Flanders Field" is the following anonymous one:
We have kept faith ye Flanders dead
Sleep well beneath those poppies red
That mark your place.
The torch your dying hands did throw
We've held it high before the foe
And answered bitter blow for blow
In Flanders fields.
And where your heroes blood was spilled
The givers are now forever stilled
And silent grown.
There is no moaning of the slain,
And blood will never flow again
In Flanders fields.
Forever holy in our sight
Shall be those crosses gleaming white.
That guard your sleep.
Rest you in peace; your task is done
The fight you left us we have won
And "Peace on Earth" has just begun
In Flanders fields.

An event of musical interest which will be held early next week is the concert to be given by the choir of the Presbyterian church. Miss Ada Miller, one of the most popular and most talented of local musicians, is directing the concert.

In addition to several anthems by the whole choir a "song cycle," "The morning of the Year," by Charles Wakefield Cadman will be presented by the quartet composed of Miss Ada Miller, Miss Margaret Hodge, Henry Compton and Leroy Myers. There will be numbers on the piano and organ in unison by Miss Dorothy Pearce, who will also accompany the quartet, and Mrs. S. C. Worrell, organ accompanist for the choir.
