NATIONAL SUFFRAGE ENDORSED BY HOUSE

Senator Clark of Florida, Democrat, leader of the opposition, proposed that the state ratification be compulsory within seven years, and Representative Sanders of Virginia, Democrat, sought to compel state adoption by popular vote. The overwhelming denial of a roll call on these proposals by a vote of 241 to 52 preceded the vote of adoption, and indicated the relative strength of the Republicans' supporters and opponents.

Leaders Are Gratified.
Suffrage organization leaders expressed gratification at the large favorable vote and predicted victory in the senate due to changes in membership. It is expected the resolution will come up for a vote early next month in that body.

Unlike former occasions when suffrage was before either branch of congress, only a small crowd was present when debate began. Before the final roll call, however, all seats were filled, principally by members of suffragist organizations. Frequent applause punctuated the debate, but the loudest outburst came when Speaker Gillett announced the final vote.

Both Republican Leader Mondell and Democratic Leader Clark asked adoption of the resolution, the latter referring to President Wilson's request for such action, while Dr. Mondell praised the Republican members for their attitude, pointing out that adoption of the resolution was the first legislative act of the new congress.

been the money in the dairy business that should be. When you come to conditions where you have to buy mill feeds you can't be independent. It will be a great day for you when you can raise a substitute that will serve the purpose, for the only ones who are successful in the business are those who don't have to depend on any other source for food."
Ivan Loughary, Ed Cary, J. D. Mickle, J. W. Hughes and Mrs. Crawford all spoke on subjects relating to Jersey breeding.
Nearly 90 people attended the gathering.
President is ill
The party was in charge of Ivan Loughary of Monmouth, who took the place of W. A. K. Taylor, president of the Jersey men, on account of the latter's illness. Autos followed a few hundred yards behind each other, making a lengthy procession through Yamhill and Polk counties. Turns in the road were marked by sprinklings of confetti.

One of the features of the trip was singing of improvised Jersey songs by a quartette of men when stops were made at the various homes.
Among the prominent men on the trip were W. M. Ladd of the Ladd & Tibbon bank in Portland, State Dairy Commissioner J. D. Mickle, Harry West, one of the largest importers of Jerseys in the state, who has a farm at Scappoose, and D. Brooks Hogan, superintendent of the "Iron Mine" farm. E. H. Barton of Clifton, R. C. represented the Canadian Jersey cattle association of which he is president. Thomas Withycombe of Portland, brother of the late governor, was on the trip.

Publications Represented
Among the county agents with the association are S. V. Smith of Linn, L. J. Smith of Coos, George W. Cable of Benton and D. C. Howard of Columbia. O. M. Plummer, manager of the Pacific International Livestock show, was accompanied by his wife and daughter. Others in cars were Professor Brandt of Oregon Agricultural college, Isaac Staples, Portland jeweler and proprietor of a bank at Reedsport, O. B. Staff of Rickreall, M. A. Smith of Oregon City, Ira Whiting of Spokane and Frank Doerfler, of Salem. Numerous coast farm publications were also represented.

The autos will leave early this morning for Monmouth, going from there to Corvallis and Albany. The return will be made through Shedd, Marion and Silverton on Friday.

said they had brought her to Salem in an automobile about 3 o'clock on the morning she was found and left her asleep near the porch of the Miles home.
The identity of the father of the child was not told by the mother, though a birth record, which is on file in Linn county contains it.
The child was never named, but she was called "Deedy" as a pet form of addressing her. She is still in the custody of the juvenile court and is being cared for by a private family.
The investigation which resulted in the arrest of Mrs. Armstrong and her daughter was the ninth made by Chief of Police Varney and Sheriff Needham, who have been working together on the case, to solve the mystery.

Mr. Terwilliger Tells What He Does Not Do:--

"Recently when returning from one of our cemeteries, this question was asked me by one of our local ministers. 'Terwilliger, if it is a fair question how much did you charge for such a funeral (it being one of a little child whose parents were in poor circumstances)?' 'You should let the public know such things.' I replied that I would rather they knew the things I did not do, than those that I do."
"I will try to tell you of a few of the things I have not done. I have never refused any one a funeral outfit or asked for security, and during my ten years in this city I have trusted scores of people unknown to me at the time of getting their needs supplied. I am safe in saying few funeral directors in Oregon have lost less in business than I have. True, I have not been paid for some funerals. I attended a few funerals that I did not ask pay, but gave them freely without price. I have never sued a man or woman for a funeral. I have never tried to get people to take expensive funerals by appealing to their feelings when their hearts are rent with sorrow and grief. I might have done so and afterwards they would have found the payment burdensome. I have many times appealed to those sad stricken ones to be moderate even in funerals for their own good. I am minus the extra paltry dollars, but believe me, I sleep well at night, and can look straight into the eyes of those I so advised. I have never used creed, politics, secret societies or Society influences to gain patronage in my profession. I have left party and sect which causes heart burn among men, out of my professional life. I have never overcharged or oppressed any one; I have never, nor will I ever hover around sick chambers or homes to look for professional patronage, for I firmly believe an unseen eye is looking over our professional lives as well as our actions as professing Christians."
—G. F. TERWILLIGER.
Mrs. Terwilliger, the only graduate and licensed lady embalmer practicing in Salem, will be pleased to take full charge of preparation for the funerals of women and children.
