BITS FOR BREAKFAST—Rather cheering news from Paris. Perhaps Germany may have her ultimatum tomorrow. Twenty-eight of the Salem boys members of Guard Company No. 1, and former members of Company M, are on their way home from Nevers, France. There were a few weeks ago forty-nine of the Salem boys there. It is likely that some of the Salem boys left before the twenty-eight. So it is not certain how many of the Salem boys are still at Nevers; but those who are still there are promised that they will be sent home between the 1st and 15th of July—if something else is not done with them. The wire men who were going to have a nation-wide wire strike just had their wires crossed; that is all. It is unfortunate that the loganberry contracts have to be taken into court. But that seems the only way. And the matter ought to be threshed out as fast as possible. Come to bargain day a week from next Saturday, and to the great celebration in Salem the third to the fifth of July. You are invited. Now watch Old Willamette grow and take on new life and spirit and pep. These things are all done. Col. Edward Mandell House may be saying a lot—but what is it? Why doesn't the Russian Delilah cut the hall of the Russian Bolshevik? The peace terms to Austria appear to be all wool and of the proper width. Official figures from Washington indicate an increase of five dollars per capita among the population of the United States. But the profiteers were onto that long ago. There's a lesson for the fellow who thinks he is indispensable in the fact that 15,000 trainmen are going to attend a 25-day convention at Cleveland.—Boston Transcript.

Bill's won the girl and bought the car. Of course it's a CHEVROLET Salem Automobile Co.

ANOTHER TEST CASE MAY BE BROUGHT SOON

Possibility of Having Supreme Court Decide Olcott Case Looms Again

NEW METHOD PROPOSED

Officials Suggest Governor Prevail Upon Some One to File Nominating Petition

Another method by which the Oregon supreme court may be asked to pass judgment on whether or not Bea W. Olcott serves as governor for the full unexpired term of the late Governor Withycombe, or whether his term expires in 1920, was suggested at the capitol yesterday. It has been proposed that friends of the governor ask some well-known person to file with the secretary of state a nominating petition for the Republican nomination for governor at the primary election, to be held next year. The secretary of state then could refuse to accept the filing and the embryonic candidate could file with the supreme court mandamus proceedings to compel the secretary to accept his nominating petition. Under this procedure the question as to Mr. Olcott's title to the office of governor would then be placed squarely before the court and a definite decision could be reached. The foregoing plan could be put in operation immediately if the governor's friends find a man willing to file this nominating petition. The state law requires that all such nominating petitions must be filed at least 35 days prior to the election, but this law, in the belief of state officials, would not bar a prospective candidate from filing his petition a year in advance. Governor Olcott went to Portland yesterday to attend the Rose festival, consequently no information could be obtained at his office as to his next step in his efforts to clarify the present unsettled situation which was brought about by the inability of the supreme court to settle definitely his title to his present office under the mandamus proceedings which were before the court. Close friends of the executive still insist that he probably will resign and name his successor as secretary of state within a short time. This prediction is made as a result of the majority opinion of the court which held that he is governor in fact. It is pointed out that Mr. Olcott has nothing to lose by giving up the office of secretary of state. Five members of the supreme court have said he is governor in fact and three have said that he has the right to resign and name his successor as secretary of state. A fourth member also voiced this belief although he did not give it as his judicial opinion. It is generally conceded that there are none who will contest Mr. Olcott's right to remain as governor for the coming two years, at least, while officials here are just as certain that in view of the diversity of opinion existing in the court, there is every likelihood that the question will be raised prior to the Republican primaries next year. This being true, Mr. Olcott.

they say, is playing absolutely safe in giving up his office of secretary of state and waiting until some prospective gubernatorial candidate makes a move before he insists upon having his title to the office of governor settled.
