

FEDERATION OF FARMERS URGED

Spokane Convention Endorses Proposed Temple at Washington

SPOKANE, Wash., June 12.—Federation of the several farmers' organizations in the states of Washington, Oregon and Idaho is favored in resolutions adopted here today by the federated farmers' convention and to that end a committee was appointed, consisting of one member from each organization, which is to make arrangements for an early meeting to decide upon the method of procedure.

The convention also strongly endorsed the proposed temple of agriculture at Washington, D. C., the endorsement being shown in a practical way through the subscribing of $20,000 toward the building funds.

2500 persons in attendance at the convention.

An address by United States Senator Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma was a feature of today's session. Senator Gore enlarged upon the need of cooperation among the farmers as among organized labor unions. The senator digressed from the farm subject to discuss the league of nations.

"I am not going to discuss the league of nations," he said. "We want to be careful that in trying to keep out of more wars we don't get into more than we keep out of. I want to give the mothers of the boys who are to fight our future wars the right to vote on the necessity of the war before the government plunges them into it."

Other speakers today were Milo D. Campbell of Coldwater, Mich., president of the National Milk Producers' Federation, who spoke on "The Dairy Farmer and the Sherman Anti-trust Law," and John A. McSparan of Furness, Penna., master of the Pennsylvania State grange, who discussed the "Federation of Farm Organizations and the Temple of Agriculture."

The concluding session of the convention will be held tomorrow. There will be reports from committees and an address by Dr. Holland, president of Washington State College.
