THE DAY AFTER FOR THE WHOLE WORLD.

When Napoleon was told that a certain general had won a victory in the field he asked: "What did he do the day after?"

The supreme test of generalship was whether he improved or wasted the opportunities that victory offered.

That is the question which history will ask of us; whether we appreciated the gravity of the day after.

Hates and rancors, some of them centuries old, have been loosed by the social and political upheavals of the last five years. THE EIGHTEEN WARS NOW WAGING furnish conclusive evidence that the newly constituted nations cannot be left to shift for themselves. The little ones would be crushed; the predatory ones would keep Europe in a constant turmoil; and the ones that sought to turn from militarism to industrialism would become the prey of warlike neighbors. These conclusions are so fundamental that it seems trite to repeat them but they seem to be wholly overlooked by the would-be economists in this country and elsewhere who are now opposing so arrogantly and so demagogically the one plan that offers a prospect of bringing order out of chaos, the formation of a League of Nations.

Treaties will continue to be so many scraps of paper until they are supported by a force that no envious nor predatory people will dare challenge. The necessity for an authoritative direction of the course of nations that will prevent collisions was never so apparent.

The world can be and must be "made safe for democracy"—for representative governments, like that created by our Federal Constitution; it can and must be made safe for the free peoples of the world; and that can be accomplished only through the establishment of a centralized control, international in scope, and exercised through machinery such as that provided by the covenant for the League of Nations.

Yes; Germany will sign; and after that will come world reconstruction, and the ushering in of age-long peace and good will; "And they shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruninghooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."

Now for the harvest.

Did you ever see such crop prospects?

Busier days, if possible, from now on, for all the farmers and gardeners and fruit growers.

There are evidences that the German people think they have had enough war; and they ought to know what they want.

Another thing for the government to do would be to raise the pay of the consumers. That would mark the end of a perfect day.—Exchange.

Peace will not be delayed by any German or Italian cabinet crisis. It is time for action. The time for words has passed.

Of course we are having peace, but at the present moment there are twenty-five wars in progress, including nine on the Bolsheviks. The pinfeathers must all be pulled out of the dove of peace.

Priests at Loreto, Italy, struck for an amelioration of their financial condition, owing to the high cost of living. This is unprecedented. What will happen next? Perhaps a strike by the poorly paid preachers of the United States.

When Speaker Gillett told that Mexican delegation that it would be more to the point of they cleaned up their own country and made the lives of Americans safe in that republic before asking for a closer alliance with the United States, he gave utterance to a whole mouthful of good sense.

Villa is said to have sent a messenger, demanding to know why American troops went across the international line after Mexican bandits. If that is true, and any answer at all is made, it ought to be made in three words, the first letters like this: "G. t. h." The reader may supply the missing letters.

My Claim to Your Glasses

Patronage is based on the satisfaction of having made glasses for over ten thousand people living in McMinnville and vicinity during the past seven years.

This is rather definite proof that my methods and prices are about right.

If I did not feel fully qualified to give you entire satisfaction when you feel the need of having your eyes examined or glasses changed, you would not be reading this advertisement.

Former Huerta Minister Who Has Gone to Aid New Revolt Against Carranza

GEN. AURELIO BLANQUET

Washington dispatches tell of the state department being informed that General Aurelio Blanquet, who was Huerta's minister of war, has arrived in Mexico from New York and is cooperating with General Felix Diaz in an effort to overthrow the Carranza government. Washington officials do not seem to believe that Diaz has sufficient strength to seriously threaten Carranza.

AN OPINION

John Wanamaker has had military organizations with army training in his big stores for more than a quarter of a century, but is inclined to oppose the introduction of this training in the public schools.

This objection has been chiefly because of the expense, however.

He has found it very costly in his stores and does not think the people should be burdened with this extra in a period of peace.

A bit of army discipline and some of the simpler exercises of the training camp are to be desired if they can be obtained without added cost or without interfering with the normal educational program.

Honest John belongs to the grand army of homely philosophers who think there are too many fads and frills in the public schools. And yet he was long accounted America's foremost advertiser.

LEST WE FORGET!

The tumult and the shouting dies—The captains and the kings depart—Still stands Thine ancient sacrifice. An humble and a contrite heart, Lord God of hosts, be with us yet, Lest we forget—lest we forget!

BITS FOR BREAKFAST

That Germany will sign.

That Italy will accept President Wilson's ideas as to the Adriatic.

That seems to be the dope.

So the "Big Three" will have outlined the outstanding points of the treaty of peace.

And the tired old world will get down to peace and order and decency in every corner of it.

Great crop prospects. Especially for loganberries. And the vines are making a great growth for the crop of next year.

Ever since it has been discovered that the luxury tax hits the ukelele there is not such a strong movement in favor of the abolition of the levy.

IT IS ALL GONE NOW

Samuel L. Kramer, Box 95, Sellersville, Pa., writes: "I had kidney trouble for two years and had a terrible backache. That is all gone now after using Foley Kidney Pills and I feel well again." Foley Kidney Pills get results quickly and are tonic in their healing and soothing effect. J. C. Perry.

THE BRIER ROSE

Midst the mountain and the snows Where the sea breeze gently blows In a valley of repose, Is the sweet old briar rose.

Where the wide Williamette flows, As toward the sea it goes, The sweetest flower that grows, Is the lovely briar rose.

In a place I'll not disclose, For I'm the only one that knows, There is a goddess there, who sows The seeds of briar rose.

Tobacco Habit Dangerous

says Doctor Connor, formerly of Johns Hopkins hospital. Thousands of men suffering from fatal diseases would be in perfect health today were it not for the deadly drug Nicotine. Stop the habit now before it's too late. It's a simple process to rid yourself of the tobacco habit in any form. Just go to any up to date drug store and get some Nicotol tablets; take them as directed and in; the pernicious habit quickly vanishes. Druggists refund the money if they fail. Be sure to read large and interesting announcement by Doctor Connor soon to appear in this paper. It tells of the danger of nicotine poisoning and how to avoid it. In the meantime try Nicotol tablets; you will be surprised at the result. D. J. Fry.

have him extend his trip to the Pacific Coast—to Washington and Oregon and California. Americans are averse to kings and princes for themselves, although they are fond of alluding to their money tanks and their merchant princes, but if some of the European countries prefer to retain them that's their business.

It's a matter of self-determination.

But though they don't want princes as hereditary rulers, the American people are interested in a young chap who is likely to be the King of England and they would like to see him on their soil. Not a few Americans have already met him and like him. They say he's a fine young fellow, a chip of the old block. All the more reason why he should pay the United States, and particularly Oregon, a visit.

His father, George V, passed us by when he traveled through Canada from Vancouver to Halifax some years ago, but his grandfather, Edward VII, paid this country a call and had a jolly good time. Maybe there are women still living who danced with "Baron Reinfrew"—that was his "incog."—when he came to Washington, and there are lots of girls in this country who would like to emulate their grandmothers and dance with a Prince of Wales.

Apart from the purely social pleasures of such a visit there would be international advantages. The United States and Great Britain came closer together as companions in arms and the visit of the British heir-apparent would strengthen the cordial relations existing between the two countries.

AS TO JAPAN

"It is the psychological moment for us to adopt the sympathetic and understanding attitude. To have a friend one must be a friend. And Japan is beset with big problems even as ourselves. She has fifty-five millions of people in an area the size of California and increasing at the rate of a million a year. She is about to face all the "movements" she has so far escaped—labor-unionism, woman's suffrage, Socialism, Bolshevism, et al. All the national epidemics will be hers so soon, for those fifty-five millions are waking up loudly and intelligently and, with our help, she may have a bloodless revolution rather than a Germanic debacle."

The above quoted paragraph is the conclusion of an article on Japan by a writer in the Los Angeles Times who has recently visited that country.
