Mexico Makes Own Nest

Concerning Mexico and Costa Rica not being in the league of nations, the presidential view is said to be that the situation is of their own making and that it is necessary for those governments to "find themselves". Relative to the president's 14 points, the view is taken that the treaty adheres to the points more closely than had been expected, owing to the difficulties and complications which arose during the course of the negotiations. On the whole, presidential quarters regard the signing of the treaty as the end of a long job they are glad to see finished and President Wilson, it was stated, starts back relying with confidence on approval of the work by the people when misapprehensions have been cleared away and they have been made fully aware what the conference has accomplished.

Besides the signing of the treaty and the protocol tomorrow, the president has made it known that he is ready to sign the treaty carrying out the arrangements whereby the United States and Great Britain will come to the assistance of France in case she is menaced by Germany, if the treaty can be prepared for signature before his departure; otherwise he will authorize Secretary of State Lansing to sign that treaty after his departure.

Letter Goes to Senate

The triple understanding has already been communicated in the form of a letter which will be sent to the American senate, but the treaty is the formal carrying out of the engagement.

The American newspaper correspondents were received by President Wilson at the Hotel Crillon this afternoon and the president bade them each farewell.

President Wilson, in reply to an inquiry from Secretary Tumulty on May 9 regarding the proposed pact by which the United States and Great Britain will protect France from aggression, said:

"Happily, there is no mystery or privacy about what I have promised the government here. I have promised to propose to the senate a supplement in which we shall agree, subject to the approval of the council of the league of nations, to come immediately to assistance of France in case of unprovoked attack by Germany, thus merely hastening the action to which we should be bound by the covenant of the league of nations."

Corporal Lloyd A. Lee Returns from War Service

Corporal Lloyd A. Lee, who was the first Salem boy to land in France after the United States declared war on Germany, has arrived home and is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Lee of 1515 State street. He enlisted June 1, 1917, and spent nearly two years in France. The greater part of the time he was with general headquarters and so did not get to the front. Special work with the signal corps, however, took him over considerable French territory and he had ample opportunity to witness the work of destruction wrought by the Huns.
