

MAZOLA

The Perfect oil for Cooking and Salads

How To Make Perfect Pie Crust

Here is a Pie Crust recipe that will convince you of the wonders of Mazola. And remember, too, that pie crust made with Mazola is perfectly digestible.

Follow this recipe—you can get Mazola at your grocer's.

- 2 cups Flour
- 1/2 cup Mazola
- Pinch of Salt
- Ice Cold Water

Work Mazola well into the flour and salt, add enough ice water to hold together, about one-fourth of a cup; roll crust out at once.

WOMAN FOR LEAGUE

Miss Tarbell, who spent January, February, March and April at the peace conference declared that President Wilson was the most authoritative and distinguished person at the table. His opinion and counsel was sought by all. She states that M. Clemenceau, was the most interesting person to watch in the entire proceedings. His high compliment was paid to Lloyd George, premier of England.

"When opponents of the conference belittle the peace workers and criticize the time taken in producing the final draft, they speak of what they know not," declared Miss Tarbell. Only consider that questions standing for causes of dispute for hundreds of years in some cases, engaged racial questions involving the fate of millions of people, economic matters covering billions of dollars have been decided upon and settled by these men from all corners of the world.

"The league is the most wonderful thing the world has ever seen or ever imagined prior to a few months ago. It is the instrument that will save America and the rest of the world from armaments and armies costing billions of dollars and from making another sacrifice of millions of our boys."

Bryan. John H. Albert was another speaker and Miss Ida M. Tarbell, who was on the Chautauqua program last night and who was an additional guest, and incidentally the only woman at the dinner, made a five-minute talk on the part Oregon must play in feeding the world during the period of reconstruction. Postmaster August Huckestein presided.

In his Chautauqua address Mr. Bryan spoke on reconstruction problems and reform. Fully 1000 persons listened. He said in part:

History of Reform Told.

It is now nearly three decades since I became nationally interested in national politics. During that time I have seen a great many reforms proposed and carried out and I have seen other times when they were bitterly opposed. I therefore know something of the slowness of the carrying out of some of these reforms. In fact, the first few years of my experiences were largely spent in encouraging reformers.

The reformers know what they desired and they wondered why others could not see their point of view.

"BAYER CROSS" ON GENUINE ASPIRIN

"Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" to be genuine must be marked with the safety "Bayer Cross." Always buy an unbroken Bayer package which contains proper directions to safely relieve Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Colds and Pain. Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets cost but a few cents at drug stores—larger packages also. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacturers of

Finally, I found a story that helped me out when I was endeavoring to encourage these men. A man went to a physician with a breaking out on his hands and the doctor gave him some ointment and told him to apply it for a month and then return and report progress. At the end of the month he returned and the doctor said:

"How is your hand?"

The answer was, "Doctor, looking at it from day to day I see no change and looking at it from week to week I think I can, and now at the end of the month I guess it is better and it may get well but I am afraid it will not be in my day." So it is with reformers. They feared they would die before their theories were triumphant in then things in which they were interested and these things do move slowly.

For illustration, it took us 20 years to secure the election of senators by the direct vote of the people after that reform had been endorsed the first time by a vote in the house of representatives in Washington. I had put in my platform two years before when first a candidate for congress, a demand for an election of senators by the direct vote of the people and during my first term in congress I had the privilege of voting for this reform.

I was not as well acquainted with the progress of events then as I have become since and when two-thirds of the house voted for this resolution I thought that that ended the fight and that we would have it at once. But just 21 years after it had passed the house 6 times it passed the senate for the first time. When it once passed the senate, the states ratified it in a very short time and today you can safely say that nine tenths of all the voters will vote never to return to the old system of electing the senators under the old plan. But it took more than two decades to secure this reform and during that time there was never a speech made against it that deserved to be reported or quoted and no convention ever declared against it. However, it took that long to get it through.

Income Tax Long Delayed.

In 1894 we passed a bill and made it a law providing for an income tax. The supreme court held it unconstitutional and did so by a divided vote of 5 to 4 and the one man whose vote decided changed his position on the subject between two hearings of the case. I don't know who that man was and I think his descendant will never let it be known who he was. Seventeen years after that we secured an amendment to the constitution authorizing an income tax and that amendment was secured just in time to enable our country to collect an income tax without which it would have been difficult to raise the money for the war.

I mention these things to show you how long it takes to secure a reform.

Among the reforms which have finally won out is woman's suffrage. I will not argue it as the time for argument is past. Suffrage is almost here and I predict that in a year we will have seen this ratified by the 36 states necessary.

Women's conscience, joined to man's judgment, will triumph in every righteous cause and if women's conscience had been listened to, instead of man's judgment, the saloon would have been banished from the United States long before it was.

Men kept saloons in towns, counties and cities on the theory that it would hurt business if saloons were driven out. They were able to create a sentiment that their towns had to be purified of later.

Whether the town would be benefited or not by a saloon. She believed it would destroy the home and the home was more to the woman than was the city.

I have had Republicans tell me to my face that my party was the whisky party and it has made me mad for two reasons. First, that any Republican would be mean enough to say such a thing to a man like me and, second, because I could not deny it.

Soldier Question Discussed.

As for the soldier proposition, when I see that these soldiers have shown themselves to be the greatest fighting machines the world ever saw and that they fought with all the strength that was in them, and surprised the world in being able to go into the fighting with little or no training, and the reason for their being such effective fighters was because alcohol was entirely separated from them, and we found that when we kept the alcohol away we could reduce to a degree what was called the preventable diseases.

Most of us believed that to make a national bureau to have a period of training but we had soldiers on the battlefield in less than four months from the time they put on the uniform and we showed that under our process of training and surroundings and environment that we could put them in physical condition and fit them to be the best soldiers on earth in that period of time.

Now when their work is done over there and they are back the first duty of the nation is to see that every soldier has a chance to resume the work he left to put on a uniform. If any of them have suffered so that they cannot work, it is only fair and proper that our nation should be prepared to train them for the kind of work that they are best able to do. I think there should be established a national bureau to provide these men with the work for which they are best fitted. I think it only just that the soldier be given a chance to begin where he left off when he joined the army. I think our good roads furnish an opportunity to secure a great public benefit and at the same time provide an opportunity for the employment of every idle man.

Now my friends I think the time has come when we can utilize any surplus labor in the country in the building of roads and there need be not one idle man under the American flag. Special attention should be given to the returned soldier in the matter of employment and I want to say a word about profiteering. I know nothing of your experiences. I am not prepared to say about any particular community so as to make local application of anything I say. But I know that in the country generally there has been profiteering and the blackest spot on the result of this war is found in the fact that while our people were fighting in Europe our people were being misled in the United States by profiteering. I come to the theory that there should be a remedy for every wrong, on the theory that whenever the government takes from the citizens the right to protect themselves and avenge his own wrongs, the government assumes the obligation of perfecting that citizen from every arm uplifted for his injury. Today I think there is an immediate and imperative demand for machinery that will enable and protect those of our citizens from the profiteers.

Trade Commission Urged.

I think a national trade commission in every city with ample power to deal with every wrong and every deal with every grievance so that if anyone complained that any man in the town, state or nation was profiteering or exploiting those with whom he dealt, a charge could be brought before the proper authority and an investigation made so that if a charge were false, the man accused could be vindicated. If it were true he could be punished.

Having spoken of these things, I wish to call your attention to the greatest of the issues before the nation of a domestic character. If I have correct in my judgment, the greatest domestic issue we have and which will be before us until settled and settled right, is the issue between private monopoly and government ownership.

Monopolies Discussed.

In presenting the principles involved I wish to say that we will never settle these questions until we understand the controlling principles. We will never have an intelligent opinion on the question of government ownership until we have an understanding of what a private monopoly is.

We will lay down the proposition of what a private monopoly is. It is indefensible and intolerable because it cannot be defended and intolerable because anything that cannot be defended cannot be tolerated. In a government likewise.

Let me explain. Do you know a judge so good that you would let him try a case if you sued him or he sued you? There is not a civilized nation in the world that would permit a judge to try a case in which he was pecuniarily interested. That is a matter we all understand. Unconscious bias of the man in favor of himself makes him unfit as a judge where his interests conflict with the interests of others. Thus the president of cases which concern the public at large as well as himself. He cannot help but be prejudiced in favor of his own interests.

Here are objections to the monopoly. One is the economic objection and the other is the political objection.

The economic objection is this: A private monopoly destroys every incentive and provocation to complete and the interest of the man who purchases an article will compel him to purchase where he can buy the article the cheapest. The buyer wants the best for the least money. It is necessary for the man who produces the article to produce the highest quality at the lowest cost. If you give him a monopoly and take away all competition, that incentive is destroyed and instead of his interest being on the side of the man who buys, it does not have to give you the best article. You have to take what he has to give you. He does not, furthermore, have to give it to you for the lowest price. No, you have to pay what he asks for it. But if you can convince me that under a private monopoly you can get the best article at the lowest price I will be opposed to private monopoly, for it is disjunctive of the theory of popular government. It cannot live under the same flag as popular government.

There are two explanations to this proposition. First, if a man is head of a private monopoly, when he starts to exercise these powers, he is doing an injustice to others. He becomes conscious that he is sating where he did not sow and when a man is conscious that he is collecting from the public without giving them a return, he is then the enemy of popular government.

For League of Nations.

The president has presented to the senate what is known as the league of nations. It was part of the treaty which he brought back from Paris.

I believe it should be ratified. Let me give you my reasons for believing this.

I believe it is the longest step toward peace the world has taken in 1000 years. If not, it is the longest ever taken by cooperation between nations. The first question to decide is whether you want peace or not. Those who do not want peace and believe in the Nietzsche theory that war is good will not favor the league of nations.

After talking at length in favor of the league of nations, declared himself flatly opposed to the prospective treaty whereby the United States and England would become obligated to help France in the event of an unprovoked attack by Germany.

ROBERT DAVEY IS RE-INSTATED

Son of Frank Davey Cleared of Charge and Given Commission

PORTLAND, July 23.—Robert E. Davey of this city, who was discharged from the service April 10, 1917, after a court martial hearing on the charge of disobeying a superior officer, has been reinstated as second lieutenant, infantry, reserve corps. Davey today received word from Washington of his reinstatement. At the hearing he set up the defense that the officer from whom he refused to take orders was also a second lieutenant and therefore not his superior. After the finding of the court martial, Davey appealed to the army department at Washington. Through efforts of the part of the Oregon delegation in congress, Lieutenant Colonel Ainslee was designated to review the case. He found the breach of discipline only technical one and recommending that Davey be reinstated. Davey is the son of Frank Davey of Salem.

Mr. Huber has moved his plant at a point near Eola and will begin operations at once.

John Jakes, Aged 92, Passes Away; was Native of England

John Jakes passed away yesterday afternoon at the age of 92 years and 4 months. He was a native of England. The deceased leaves to mourn his death four sons and two daughters: Elizabeth Jakes and Theodore of Salem, George Jakes of Nebraska, Mrs. Eva Morrison of Nebraska, Byron Jakes of Marysville, Calif., and Lorenzo of Ione.

The body is at the Webb & Clough undertaking parlors. The funeral announcements will be made upon hearing from relatives.

Removes Wrinkles and Refreshes Tired Faces

As the skin tends to expand in warm weather, causing wrinkles to form, a good astringent lotion should be used these days. Dissolve an ounce of pure powdered axolite in a half pint of water. Rub the face in this and see how quickly the wrinkles and furrows will disappear—and how much younger you will look! There's nothing better for sagging cheeks or double chin, or for enlarged pores.

Use this simple lotion during the heat of the day and you will find it wonderfully refreshing. You will lose that wilty, tired look. You will

Fisherman Killed when Car Passes Over Body on Trestle

ASTORIA, Or., July 23.—Alfred Seims, a Columbia river fisherman, was run over and instantly killed by an Astoria street car early today. Seims was en route to the cannery bunkhouse where he roomed and was supposed to have slipped on the trestle and to have been partially struck, as he was lying across the track when the car came along and struck him. The deceased was about 25 years of age and left one brother

TOBACCO HABIT DANGEROUS

Says Doctor Connor, formerly of Johns Hopkins hospital. "Thousands of men suffering from fatal diseases would be in perfect health today were it not for the deadly drug Nicotine. Stop the habit now before it's too late. It's a simple process to rid yourself of the tobacco habit in any form. Just get any up-to-date drug store and get some Nicotol tablets; take them as directed and lo! the pernicious habit quickly vanishes. Druggists refund the money if they fail. Be sure to read large and interesting announcement by Doctor Connor soon to appear in this paper. It tells of the danger of nicotine poisoning and how to avoid it. In the meantime try Nicotol tablets; you will be surprised at the result."
