

Camel CIGARETTES

If you want to know what rare and unusual enjoyment Camels provide smoke them in comparison with any cigarette in the world at any price!

CAMELS are a cigarette revelation any way you consider them! Take quality, or refreshing flavor and fragrance; or, that wonderful mellow-mild-smoothness you never before got in a cigarette smoke! Yet Camels are so full-bodied and so full-of-satisfaction you marvel that so much delight could be put into a cigarette!

Camels expert blend of choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos makes them so irresistibly appetizing! And, the blend explains why it is possible for you to smoke Camels liberally without tiring your taste! You will prefer Camels to either kind of tobacco smoked straight!

You'll realize pretty quick, too, that among the many reasons you smoke Camels is their freedom from any unpleasant cigarette aftertaste or unpleasant cigarette odor!

Once you know Camels you won't take much stock in premiums, coupons or gifts! You'll prefer Camel quality!

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO., Winston-Salem, N. C.

Smokers realize that the value is in the cigarettes and do not expect premiums or coupons!

Camels are sold everywhere in scientifically sealed packages of 20 cigarettes; or ten packages (200 cigarettes) in a glassine-paper-covered carton. We strongly recommend this carton for the home or office supply or when you travel.

reservoirs, and in turn, out to the customers.

Efforts Without Reward.

"The employees of the company have been working night and day in an effort to generate and deliver to the customers as much gas as was required, but they fought a losing fight, as the odds were against them.

"They are now making every effort to resume the delivery of gas at the earliest possible moment, but do not expect to be able to do this before this afternoon at the earliest, and possibly not until tomorrow, and then it may only be possible to supply the center of the city.

"The gas plant's own water pump and system froze up two days ago and the city water pressure is now so low that a sufficient quantity of water cannot be forced through the pipes that are partially filled with ice. It is, therefore, expected that it will be impossible for the plant to resume its maximum output of gas until the temperature moderates.

Customers Are Warned.

"The management of the company issues a warning to all of its gas customers to be sure that the valves on all of the gas consuming appliances are shut off so that when the gas is turned on again it will not escape into the room and cause danger of explosion or asphyxiation.

"The officials also urge all customers to be as conservative as possible in the use of the gas when it is turned on again, so that the supply will not be completely exhausted again."

Schools Remain Idle.

Distressing inconvenience was felt by hundreds of families because of the frozen water pipes and exhaustion of the gas supply. Some borrowed water from neighbors who were fortunate enough to have some faucets in use. Others were compelled to do their cooking on the stoves of their neighbors.

Schools were not called yesterday, though announcement had been

GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC

The following eloquent tribute was recently offered by Judge P. H. D'Arcy to the Grand Army of the Republic:

The recent meeting of the Grand Army of the Republic at Columbus, Ohio, was one of the inspiring occasions of the past year.

To witness a session of this character is indeed a promoter of patriotism and love of country. The meeting of survivors of the great civil war in which our people were engaged gives to all believers in true liberty thoughts that made this nation the greatest which the world has ever seen. It is with pleasure and pride we recall the memory and stirring events of the past of men and women who bore a conspicuous part therein and participated in the greatest war of either ancient or modern times. Of those who made sacrifices for this country that the republic might live.

While the World war in which we took part was gigantic in its scope yet the civil war was of more importance to America than the World war. It was a war in which brother was arrayed against brother in hostile and deadly ferocity. It was a domestic war that tried men and women's souls to a larger extent than fighting a foreign enemy.

We can truly say, we are proud of the gallantry exhibited by our patriotic boys in the Spanish-American and the World war, still if it had not been for the courage and loyalty of the members of the Grand Army of the Republic there would not be a united country for which to fight. Our brave soldiers of the Civil war prevented the dismemberment of the Union. Out of this fierce struggle was evolved the only government on the face of the earth which approaches anywhere near the republican principles that the founders of this government entertained.

There is no reason why any one should apologize for the glorious work accomplished by the Grand Army of the Republic. Every act of theirs should be commended and receive the plaudits of a grateful people. Our admiration of them in saving and preserving the Union of States should not be dimmed in the least by more modern occurrences. On all occasions and under all circumstances we should never hesitate to speak in glowing terms of the sacrifices made by these true and loyal Americans. The meeting at Columbus was a special reminder of the struggle in which our citizens took part and at what a cost our Union was established on a lasting and firm foundation. We owe much to the Grand Army of the Republic. More than we can ever repay for the loyalty of its members who never faltered in their patriotic duty in the days when our nation stood on the perilous brink of destruction. Their heroism and valor will live in the hearts of a free and appreciative people.

We are pleased to think that the spirit of 1861-65 is still extant in the land which is amply exemplified in the bravery of our boys who crossed the Atlantic to perpetuate American ideas.

There is no eloquence which appeals to one like the meetings and parades of the veterans of the Civil war. The Grand Army of the Republic! What majesty in the name! What courage and patriotism are linked with this organization! How the mention of it carries us back to the tumult and struggle of the past. What memories it awakens! A small number of men stationed at Fort Sumpter in Charleston Harbor under the command of Major Anderson, an efficient officer of the United States, loyal to the country in which he was born and the flag which laved over this fort as a symbol of the grandeur of our nation and that every man therein owed his allegiance to the stars and stripes.

The Columbus meeting calls to mind the 12th of April, 1861, when misguided and disloyal men fired on Fort Sumpter. It brings vividly to our attention the bravery of Major Anderson and his little band of soldiers.

At that time there was only one stain upon our flag. It was the vicious system of slavery which the men firing upon Fort Sumpter strove to perpetuate. The decree of the omnipotent Ruler of all had gone forth that this system should be destroyed. The action of the deluded men who fired upon Fort Sumpter and began the Civil war hastened the fulfillment of this decree.

Mr. Lincoln said that this nation could not exist half slave and half free. The very moment the traitors in the land took the law into their own hands and fired upon the flag of our country, the fate of the slave oligarchy was sealed forever. The war thus begun was ended with the surrender of General Lee in 1865. This was brought about and consummated by the loyal efforts of the Grand Army of the Republic.

One of the great events of the Civil war in which the Grand Army of the Republic participated was the grand review of the Army of the Union after the close of the war when thousands of troops crossed Long Bridge which spans the Potomac river and marched down Pennsylvania avenue in the City of Washington, the capital of our nation. This review occurred on the 23d and 24th of May, 1865. There is nothing to equal it in the annals of history.

The spectacular triumphs which were accorded to victorious generals in olden times in Rome and other nations of antiquity were in no manner equal to this review. The banner made that they would be. Because of the depth of snow the two previous days, it was impossible for pupils to make their way to the school buildings, but with the walks cleared, an announcement was made Thursday that schools would be in operation yesterday. The temperature was so cruelly cold yesterday morning, however, that it was not deemed wise to ask the pupils to attend.

Business also suffered, particularly at the public offices. There were few business visitors in the city and many officials remained at their homes to help meet the emergencies of frozen and bursted water pipes.

baris conception was absent, but the splendor of American freemen was everywhere in evidence.

The days for the parade were beautiful. Nature seemed to shower up on our victorious troops her choicest blessings. It is estimated 200,000 brave men were in line representing a free people. After this review our soldier boys engaged in various occupations in civil life, went to their several homes and became useful members of communities in which they resided.

Fifty-four years have passed since the review of the Grand Army of the Republic. Our government still lives. There are some imperfections that should be remedied. They may be corrected in time. With the help of honest and sincere men and women, our country will continue to do its important work in making this republic the grandest nation that has ever had an existence.

All honor to the Grand Army of the Republic which secured to us a priceless heritage of freedom, struck the shackles from the limbs of the slaves and gave our country a standing among the nations which increases in splendor and magnificence as the years pass away. Which gave us a flag which represents the freedom of every person in this broad land. A flag without a stain. A flag which is the hope and inspiration of the oppressed of the earth.

EIGHT CHILDREN HAD CROUP.

"I have eight children and give Foley's Honey and Tar to all of them" writes Mrs. P. Rehkamp, 2404 Herman St., Covington, Ky.: "They all were subject to croup." It loosens mucous and phlegm, stops that strangling cough, makes easy breathing possible and permits quiet sleep. Contains no opiates. Children like it. J. C. Perry.

People Object to School Chosen by Addison Girls

WEALDSTONE, Eng., Oct. 25.—The local council here does not approve of Dr. Christopher Addison, minister of health, with a salary of $25,000 a year, sending his daughters to a public secondary school at Harrow, where the fees are only $10 a term.

One councillor stated that he did not consider that people with $25,000 a year should monopolize the school which was intended for the masses. There was a waiting list of 75.

Dr. Addison replied that he would gladly pay higher fees if the rules permitted and declared that he had as much right as any other citizen to send his children to a public secondary school.

WORK ON LABOR LAW

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—Seventeen committees have been created by the government to work out details of a national labor law that it is planned to pass either by the present national assembly or through the coming Reichstag. The committees will be so divided up as to deal with every kind of labor and every phase of the problem. The German government hopes to have an ideal system with countless improvements over the past.
