

REBUILDING OF INJURED, PLEA

Bill Will Authorize Accident Commission to Make Start With $100,000

Attorney General Brown will be asked to draft a bill for introduction at the special session of the legislature providing a financial outlay for the industrial accident commission and to establish methods for physical and vocational rehabilitation of industrial cripples.

At a meeting in Portland Tuesday a sub-committee of the special committee of 15 members appointed by Governor Olcott to make recommendations pertaining to increased compensation rates, went on record unanimously in favor of a legislative enactment authorizing the commission to set aside $100,000, as an initial amount and 2 1/2 per cent of its annual income to establish this service for crippled workers. The members of the sub-committee are G. B. Bain of the Crow-Williamette Paper mills of Oregon City, C. L. Byrnes of the Portland Labor Press and Dr. T. Tharaldsen, of Portland.

Out of the proposed $100,000 used as a beginning fund the commission would be authorized to equip a complete physio-therapy department.

No new building is contemplated at the present time, but it is believed that arrangements could be made to carry on the work through such institutions as the State School for the Blind, the Benson Polytechnic schools of Portland and others.

YEAR IS ONE OF MANY DEADLOCKS

Nine Cases in Supreme Court Brought Total of Thirty-One Opinions

More deadlocks over cases under consideration have occurred in the state supreme court during 1919 perhaps than in any other year of the court's history. In nine cases of more than ordinary importance included among those handled by the court a total of 31 opinions were written. Perhaps the most notable of these was the case of Olcott vs. Hoff in which there was a wide diversion of opinions relative to the status of Ben W. Olcott as governor of the state.

A report compiled by Arthur S. Benson, clerk of the court, shows a total of 256 cases were filed in the court during the year, which is eight less than the previous year which was 264. Opinions written numbered 301 as against 336 for the year previous. Receipts for 1919 aggregated $9,160.98 and for 1918, $9,322.06.

Figures in the report follow:

Total number of opinions written, 301.

Appeals disposed of by opinion, 232; appeals disposed of by stipulation, 35; total appeals disposed of, 267.

Cases filed at Salem, 220; cases filed at Pendleton, 36; total cases filed, 256.

Appeals affirmed, 133; appeals reversed, 69; appeals modified, 24; writs allowed, 3; writs denied, 1; total, 230.

Attorneys admitted on examination, 30; attorneys admitted from other states, 26; total attorneys admitted, 56.

General filing fees, $7760.98; fees for admission to the bar, $1400; total cash receipts, $9160.98.

Damage Suit Lost Against Warren Construction Firm

The supreme court yesterday affirmed Judge Morrow of the lower court for Multnomah county in the case of Emma Wilcox et al. appellants, against the Warren Construction company. The case was an action for damages for the accidental death of Henry Wilcox in 1914 while in the employ of the construction company. Action was brought under the employers' liability law. At the time of Wilcox' death his wife, Gertrude Wilcox, was an inmate of an insane asylum.

Other opinions handed down were: State vs. A. P. Bateman, appellant; appealed from Multnomah county prosecution for statutory offense; opinion by Justice Burnett; Judge G. Robert Morrow affirmed.

W. G. Penick vs. H. W. Sarp, appellant; appealed from Multnomah county; action for the recovery of money; opinion by Chief Justice McBride; decree of Judge Gantenbein modified by elimination of item of interest and otherwise affirmed.

W. J. Murphy vs. Oregon Engraving Company, appellant; appealed from Multnomah county; action for recovery of money; opinion by Justice Burnett; Judge W. N. Gatens, reversed and case remanded.

George A. Palmeter et al. appellants, vs. Nelson Hackett et al.; appeal from Hood River county; suit based on alleged fraud in exchange of property; opinion by Justice Burnett; Judge Fred W. Wilson, reversed.

Joseph Almada, appellant, vs. Byron Vandear; appealed from Baker county; action in replevin; opinion by Justice Harris; Judge Gustave Anderson, affirmed.

J. L. Price Brokerage company, appellant, vs. Baker Grocery company; appealed from Baker county; action to recover damages for an alleged breach of contract; opinion by Justice Bennett; Judge Gustave Anderson, affirmed.

Miller Lumber company vs. George Davis, appellant, appeal from Deschutes county; petition for rehearing denied; opinion by Justice Harris.

Petition for rehearing denied orally in Rjaciich vs. Western Co-operative company, appeal dismissed in re Ed DeYoung in application for writ of habeas corpus.

Hundreds to be Employed by Salem's Paper Mill

The large paper mill of the Oregon Pulp and Paper company now under construction will become one of Salem's most valuable assets.

When the wheels begin to turn it will give employment regularly not only to several hundred laborers in this city but a large force will be kept at work in the woods getting out the soft wood timbers out of which the pulp is manufactured.

The mill will help to relieve the present acute shortage of news print paper, the rising quotations of which is now causing some newspaper publishers no little concern.

Some notion of the financial value of a well equipped paper mill may be gained by the following news item which appeared in a recent issue of the Fourth Estate, a true paper:

"The Hawley Pulp & Paper company, located at Oregon City, has been purchased by a syndicate of Pacific Coast newspapers for approximately $2,500,000. The capital stock of the company is only $800,000, and it is reliably stated that each share has sold for $410. The owners were W. P. Hawley, W. P. Hawley, Jr., and the estate of Theodore B. Wilcox."
