BEAUTIFUL appointments, lovely gowns of the women and a general happiness marked the Cherrian dinner dance Tuesday evening at the armory. Never before in the history of the organization have these men been hosts to such an elegant affair. Garlands of cedar were hung in festoons across the armory and intermingled with small firm trees along the walls made a picturesque setting for the beautiful multi-hued gowns of the women.

The entrance of the armory was attractive with cedar boughs and garlands and the hall in the second floor of the building was converted into a cozy rest room for dancers.

The Cherrians had as their guests 60 out of town people, Prunarians from Vancouver, Wash., Rosarians from Portland, and Radiators from Eugene who came with their wives. The tables were small ones seating about a dozen at each and were placed around the sides of the room. The tables were attractively centered with small plants of the Jerusalem cherry in red bowls. On the table red candles burned and further emphasized the red color idea. At the table over which King Bing C. B. Clancey presided a tall vase of white carnations gave distinction as the centerpiece. At each table a Cherrian was a host and the out of town guests were met at the entrance by their dinner host and escorted to his table. The hosts numbered 25 and included the ex-King Bings, the present officers, and the entertainment committee which consisted of William McGilchrist, Jr., chairman; David W. Eyre, P. E. Fullerton, Milton L. Meyers, and Dr. H. H. Oliniger. Each Cherrian wore clever little recognition cards bearing a cluster of bright red cherries and their names. The banquet was exceptionally good and was served by the Marion hotel. Plates were laid for 275.

There was constant entertainment throughout the evening. A group of five Portland artists and the Cherrian orchestra were all enthusiasically enjoyed. Each was splendid and added much to the smartness of the affair. Miss Marie Gamme, a Russian danseuse, Madame Lillian Jefferys Petri, concert pianist; Mrs. Dudley Clark, Jeolatorata, soprano; William Wallace Graham, violinist; and Christian Poole, cellist, were the Portland entertainers. They entertained during the courses and between courses and after the dinner the Cherrian orchestra under the direction of Oscar Steinhilber, furnished music. During the banquet the Prunarian guests bestowed upon King Bing of the Cherrians the honor of being a Prunarian.

Dancing was enjoyed until 2 o'clock, the subdued lights and the many beautiful gowns of the matrons and maids making a lovely scene. Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Garlner, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Curren, Mr. and Mrs. James Carter, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Knapp, G. E. Lee, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Swan, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Shattuck, Mr. and Mrs. T. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. William Cotten, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Flinger, Mrs. E. Blecker, R. B. Bain, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. William Hornbrook, Mr. and Mrs. James P. Clancey, R. E. Dunbar, C. C. Fleet, all of Vancouver, Wash., and E. R. Spencer, A. E. Adair, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Northup of Portland, who were guests at the Marion hotel.

THE Salem Women's club held a very enthusiastic meeting yesterday afternoon in the Commercial club rooms, with a large number of the members present. Mrs. Grover Bellinger, chairman of the county public health committee reported $700 from the sale of the Red Cross seals, and Mrs. William Everett Anderson gave in $50, each to the building fund, and to the park committee made from the Winniford Hyrd concert. The club gave a rising vote of thanks to Mrs. Anderson for her work. Rev. James Elvin spoke on thrift to the club. The club will join with other organizations in carrying on the national thrift week which is from January 17 to 24. A new class in the study of the family budget will be organized in a short time.

Mrs. William Hamilton was chairman of the thrift committee for the program yesterday. During the meeting six new members were taken into the club. They included Mesdames Homer Goulet, C. J. Green, Harry Hawkins, J. Chase, A. J. Rahn and Floyd Utter.

Following the business hour all the members stayed for tea which was served by the board of directors. Mrs. William E. Kirk and Mrs. George J. Pearce poured and they were assisted by Miss Dorothy Pearce, Miss Ada Miller and Mrs. W. E. Anderson.

MRS. HENRY W. MEYERS on Wednesday entertained the members of the Bridge Luncheon club at her home on North Summer street. Mrs. R. E. Lee Stener was guest of honor for the afternoon. Mrs. Meyers' home was in holiday dress and she used red shaded candles on each of the tables. A large basket of fruit centered the large table. Mrs. Milton L. Meyers was a guest of the club for the afternoon.

The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. Walter McDouglas at the Marion hotel on Friday, January 23.

THE reception Wednesday evening for Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Gilbert, who recently came to this city to live was one of the enjoyable affairs of the week. The reception was given by the First Methodist. The Jason Lee Memorial and the Leslie Methodist churches and it was held in the parlors of the First Methodist church.

In the receiving line with Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert were Dr. and Mrs. Richard N. Avison, and Rev. C. M. Acheson. The rooms were adorned with baskets of greenery and one the table green shaded candles were burning. Mrs. B. L. Steeves, Mrs. Ronald Glover, Mrs. U. G. Lehman, Mrs. H. H. Vandervort, Mrs. E. E. Barnes, Mrs. Oscar Price and Mrs. Ralph Jones were in charge of the dining room. During the evening Mrs. Ray L. Farmer, Mrs. W. T. Rigdon, Mrs. Thomas Roberts, and Mrs. A. A. Lee presided at the coffee urn. A bevy of young maids of the church served. They were Misses Ruth Barnes, Esther Paronassian, Mary Spaulding, Eva Scott, Junelle Vandervort, and Mrs. F. Hilpot.

About 200 called during the evening. Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert have purchased the residence at 250 Leslie street and will soon make their home there.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. White presided over a dinner party Friday night at their home on South Church street. A large basket of pink carnations made a most attractive centerpiece for the pretty table. Green shaded candles were used to carry out the green and pink color scheme. The place cards were small pink lamps and dainty pink and green nut baskets were at each place. Covers were laid for Mrs. F. G. Delano, Mr. and Mrs. William Kaerth, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Sykes, Miss Cynthia Delano, Miss Margaret Hann, Miss Jeannette Sykes, Miss Margaret White and the hosts.

At the pupils' recital to be given by Miss Elma Weller at the First Presbyterian church Monday evening, January 12, Mrs. Ethel Raymond-Hoyd will assist. Mr. and Mrs. Boyd of Balboa, Canal Zone, are now visiting at the home of Mrs. Boyd's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Raymond. Mrs. Boyd's girlhood days were passed in Salem and her many friends who remembered her as a sweet singer will be delighted to hear her again.

Miss Elizabeth Levy was hostess for a box party Wednesday night to hear the Cherniavsky trio at the Grand Opera house. After the concert the party had the pleasure of meeting the artists who received them cordially and gave them many words of praise and encouragement. Later in the evening the party gathered at the Spa for a supper. Seated around the table were Misses Maurine Larson, Frances Purdy, Alice Lester, Frances Tone, Ethel Hopper, Winona Smith, Donnie Smith, Gwendolyn Jarman, Angella Sundin, Kathleen Smith, Mildred Pugh, Geneva Sundin, Lena Belle Tartar, Margaret Fisher, Mrs. Sol Levy, Mrs. C. BINNER HIGH GRADE CORSET

Why your corsets should be fitted to you.

No two figures in the world are exactly alike any more than two faces are identical. You may select a corset which seems to you ideally suited to your figure, but a corsetiere could show you that it is not at all the model which you should wear.

Select the right model of the Binner Corset and adjust it properly so that it will fit your figure perfectly and give you the greatest comfort.

Binner Corsets are created from beautiful materials, attractively trimmed.
