S. C. Bartrum Here—Forest Supervisor S. C. Bartrum is in Salem watching the proceedings at the special legislative session. He is indirectly interested in the fish and game commission "shake-up" and the outcome of the proposed legislation affecting the commission. He is greatly pleased with the airplane forest patrol experiment tried out last summer, having himself made several flights with the aviators and gained much valuable additional information on the topography of the Cascade forest reserve district which could not be obtained so satisfactorily in any other way. This new branch of the forestry patrol service has probably come to stay. If most thrilling experience in airplane patrol observations last summer was a forced landing after their airplane motor stopped at a height of 3000 feet. The landing was effected safely.

BITS FOR BREAKFAST

Government by majority. That is what we have. Extending even to our highest courts.

Three members of the Oregon supreme court say the law is the law of reason—that the intent of the fundamental lawmakers should be regarded—that in case of vacancy in office the people should have a chance to fill that office at the first opportunity. But four members of that court say that this matter was settled once, a long time ago, therefore the rule of stare decisis must hold; and there is also a dispute by the other three members even on this point—they hold that the four are reading into the Chadwick case a meaning and a construction that it does not contain.

But the four against the three make up the decision—the rule by majority.

So let us not complain; though nine-tenths of us believe that the people ought to have a chance to elect at the first opportunity. Which is a fact.

Rather let us blame our fool selves for not providing for a lieutenant governor.

acts; not Sunkist, Sunsweet, or Sko-kum—but something better, for the something that is better in our better fruits and nuts. The $100 prize is for the name; then will come another prize for a design, and perhaps another for a slogan. "What's in a name?" There is millions in a name.

How to Bathe Face to Remove Wrinkles

Since its remarkable astringent and tonic properties became known, clever women all over the country have been using the astringent face bath to "tone up" their faces, remove wrinkles and draw flabby cheeks and neck back to normal. After using the solution, the face immediately feels much firmer. The skin tightens evenly all over the face, thus reducing lines and sagging. The formula is: Powdered salicylic acid, one ounce, dissolved in which hazel, one-half pint. These ingredients are of course perfectly harmless and there is no difficulty in obtaining them at any drug store.
