

TEN MILLION DOLLAR ACT IS ADOPTED

Eddy Attempts to Have Measure Referred to People But Is Unsuccessful Because of Senate Line-up

PIERCE VIGOROUSLY LEADS IN ATTACK

Lachmund and Thomas, "Bitulithic Twins" Are on Opposite Sides

The second hardest fight in the state senate was the engagement yesterday between opponents of the $10,000,000 road bonding measure and proponents of that legislation.

A departure from the usual line-up on highway bills was that Senators Lachmund of Marion county and Thomas of Jackson county, known as the "bitulithic twins" because of their uncompromising opposition to the paving trust, and who ordinarily are together on opposite sides, were yesterday on opposite sides.

Eddy Moves to Refer Senator Eddy moved that the bill be recommitted to the committee and amended so that it be referred to the people at the special election.

Hurley spoke in opposition to this Jones opposed referring the bill to the people, declaring that other measures calling for appropriations by tax levy will be on the ballot and that to refer the bill would endanger its passage.

Senator Smith said while he had signed a minority report against passage of the bill, Senator Eddy's motion would obviate the minority report.

"Had this legislature not been called for emergency legislation," said Smith, "no one would have thought about additional road bonds."

HALF SALEM USES BOOKS OF LIBRARY

City Has Enviably Record in Patronage of Literature Set Forth in Annual Report of Librarian Flora M. Case

1231 VOLUMES ADDED TO COLLECTION IN YEAR

More Room and Equipment Crying Need Owing to City's Growth

Almost half of the population of Salem is registered as borrowers from the Salem public library, according to the annual report of the Salem public library, submitted by Flora M. Case, librarian, there are 8872 residents of Salem on the registration list.

Owing to the large attendance at the library the report claims that the seating capacity of the reading rooms is proving inadequate. There are 70 chairs and less space at the tables. On a busy evening as many as 100 persons have been counted at one time, some having to lean on book cases to read and an occasional child seated on the floor to read and every chair in use.

During the last year 1231 books were added to the previous collection of these 134 were gifts, 69 were periodicals bound and 1028 were purchases. Taking into consideration that books have increased in cost from 25 to 50 per cent during the last three years and the library book budget has not been increased, the year's purchases were seriously limited. Because of loss, wear, or contact with contagious disease, 259 books were withdrawn which leaves 972 as a net yearly increase and brings the entire total 15,077 books and pamphlets. The limitation in book purchase has encouraged every possible effort to make an old book serve where a new one was needed. During the year 1900 books were rebound and glued.

School Department Grows. The school department of the library which includes a small collection of books at each public school in Salem that are used as reference works, has a total collection of 10,319 books, of that number 596 were added last year. The system own in addition 1490 pamphlets. Total of books in this department loaned last year were 12,395.

Last year two changes were made in the personnel of the staff. Mrs. Lottie Peters came from Syracuse Library school and assumed the duties of school librarian August first. This position was temporarily filled by Mrs. Euphemia Freer, after the resignation of Miss Ruth Paxton in October, 1919. Mrs. Blanche Howard who had served six years as first assistant resigned September first to accept the librarianship in Winterset, Iowa. Miss Caroline White, a graduate of the Portland Training school, succeeded her.

During the winter months an average of eight to 10 meetings were held each week in the library auditorium and club rooms, which are free for public use by appointment. The annual lecture course of seven lectures was presented between January and April, with an average attendance of 146. Two lectures were added to the above plan. Mildred Campbell lectured on "The Experiences of a War Nurse" and Prof. Magardner of O. A. C. who spoke on "League of Nations."

M. DESCHANEL WINS FRENCH PRESIDENCY

Largest Majority Since First Head of New Republic Is Given Candidate Chosen by Caucus of All Parties

CLEMENCEAU IS NOT ENTRANT FOR PLACE

Choice of Two Chambers Is Man Deemed "Admirably Adapted"

VERSAILLES, Jan. 17.—Paul Deschanel was elected president of the French republic today by 734 votes of the 888 members of the national assembly voting. His majority was the largest since the election of Louis Adolphe Thiers, the first president after the fall of the empire, who was chosen unanimously. The result was certain since the caucus yesterday at which Deschanel was chosen the candidate of the senate and chairman of deputies, comprising all the various parties.

Not as Clemenceau The feeling among the senators and the deputies was that the new president should come into power with a vote that would give him the necessary authority to speak impressively of France. The general sentiment is that while M. Deschanel has not won the presidency by such outstanding services as those rendered by Premier Clemenceau, he is a man admirably adapted for the position.

Briand Acclaimed The proceedings, as provided by the constitution were formal. However, the members of parliament and visitors joined in a great outburst of acclamation when former Premier Briand, who is generally credited with a large share in the election of M. Deschanel, declared to a group of friends "France and the republic continue."

The return to Paris was watched by thousands along the route who cheered each car, crying "Long live Deschanel!" and "Long live the republic!"

LAST DAY OF LEGISLATURE UPROARIOUS

Representatives Go Wild in Mid-Afternoon and Pandemonium and Mob Rule Is Order Until 2 a. m. Today

SENATE MAINTAINS COMPOSURE TO END

Strikes and Walkouts, Denunciation and Great Unrest Rule: Unchecked

Following a continuous session of 16 hours in which scores of measures were acted upon, in which numerous attempts to actually adjourn at 11 o'clock noon and at intervals after that in which "mob rule" and pandemonium were the order of the day, the special session of the legislature for 1920 adjourned at about 2 o'clock this morning.

At 11:35 Sergeant-at-arms Joe Singer of the house stopped the clock, and the clock in the senate was stopped a few minutes later. From then on motions to adjourn were shouted at frequent intervals, and threats of strikes and walkouts were numerous. When Representative Haines moved a few minutes before actual noon, to take a recess of an hour and thirty minutes, there was a shout of approval which turned into derision when Representative Schuebel moved to recess until 1:30 o'clock. Schuebel was ruled out of order but insisted that he would go one record as having made such a motion and if necessary would put it in writing. He was howled down.

Smiths Break Out Eugene Smith of Multnomah was breaking forth at almost every opportunity with a motion of one kind or another to quit. Schuebel in mid-afternoon tried again to secure an adjournment and after calling the legislators a "bunch of school boys" he said he was going home at 3:30 o'clock. He went. Smith of Baker shouted something about mob rule once or twice and along after 4 o'clock this session adjourned.

Kubli Denounces K. K. Kubli said that rather than that railroad the 50 or more senate bills through, the would go home and move adjournment or strict attention to business. He denounced the members of the house in severe terms.

Finally out of the bedlam Woodson contrived to secure enough attention and votes to get through a motion to have a committee of five appointed to go through the bills and place them in the order of their importance. Members of the committee were Woodson, Schuebel, Graham of Washington, Smith of Baker, and Smith of Multnomah. The committee took a short recess and made report. While they were out Gallagher managed to secure recall from committee of senate bill No. 48 relative to voting by party, and put it across before the committee returned.

Hubbub Is Order Throughout the hubbub Speaker Jones as well as members of the house were yelling for order. Sergeant-at-arms Singer was repeatedly ordered to clear the aisle, and the gavel of the speaker beat a steady tattoo upon the desk. All through the turmoil Reading Clerk Elbert Lede maintained a steady drone of bill-reading and votes were taken in spite of the uproar.

The noise and confusion grew steadily worse after the house had reconvened after recess for the evening meal, and by midnight would have made moving day in the tank corps sound like Sunday afternoon in a home for mutes. While waiting for them to work on, the senators "went on a picnic" without leaving their seats and indulged in songs and "stunts" of various kinds.
