LOOP QUINTETS IN FAST GAMES

Capital National Bank and Hauser Brothers Lead Commercial League

The Capital National bank team and Hauser Brothers team are the leading teams of the Commercial Basketball league. In a game at the Y.M.C.A. last night the Capital National team played the Anderson-Brown team and won with a score of 14 to 12.

In the first game between Anderson-Brown and the Capital National players took the first basket and with the necessary fouls, which made the game unduly interesting, they kept the lead to the end of the first half, and a score of 9 to 3 in their favor.

The last half of 15 minutes was considerably more lively and both teams fought hard. Harra and Brown of the Anderson-Brown team were the leading players, and Gosser made some fine baskets for his team.

Sociolofsky and Turner were stars of the Capital National team, both doing good work. The latter part of the last half the ball was mostly under the basket of the Anderson-Brown team, who made an extra effort to even the score and were shooting baskets regularly, which brought the score to 12 to 14, when the whistle blew.

The lineups were: Anderson-Brown—Harra and Brown, forwards; Gosser, center; Clark and Patterson, guards. Capital National team—Hart and Sociolofsky, forwards; Turner, center; Hull and Hulsey, guards.

The second game of the evening was between Hauser Brothers and the United States National bank teams. The final score was 23 to 11 in favor of Hauser Brothers.

This game was played cleaner than the first. A few new players that were new to the rules of the game were mainly responsible for the fouls.

Hauser Brothers team with Springer as captain played a fine game, Springer was the leading man of the team, being everywhere at once and making some neat basket work.

Sociolofsky and Bayne did good work. However, Bayne's size was a handicap for him.

Jaskoski and Utter of the United States National bank team played good and hard. However, there was a slight tendency for each to attempt difficult shots, and each succeeded once. Harrell and Lucas were there with the goods and worked hard and fast.

The lineup for Hauser Brothers was: Hayes and Rheinart, forwards; Springer, center; Bayne and Sociolofsky, guards.

The lineup of the United States National bank team was Harrell and Lucas, forwards; Jaskoski, center; D. Utter and DeLapp, guards.

M'NARY RECEIVES ADVICE FROM EXPERTS

The last things to die in severe freezing weather. Right under the cambium layer is the youngest and newest formed part of the annual ring of wood. This is much easier killed than the cambium, and often splits a black line in cross section of considerable thickness, which is often mistaken for dead cambium.

LET "DANDERINE" SAVE YOUR HAIR

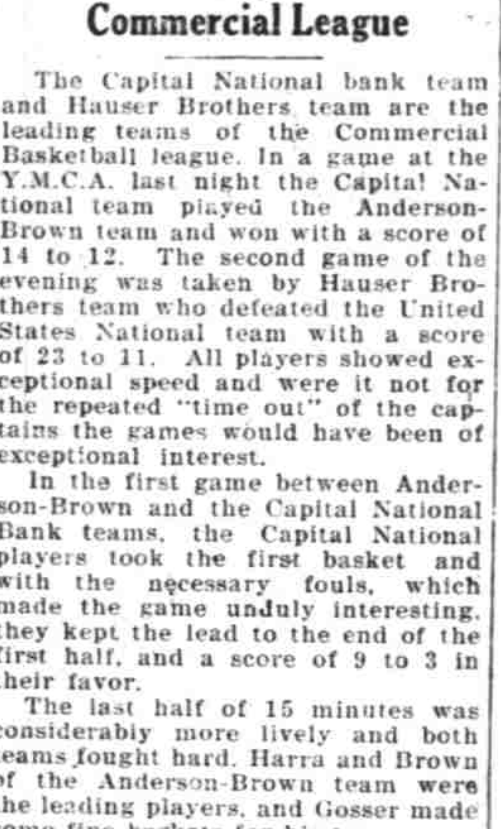

Get rid of every bit of that ugly dandruff and stop falling hair.

To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a small bottle of "Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter for a few cents, pour a little over your hand and rub well into the scalp. After several applications all dandruff usually goes and hair stops coming out. Every hair in your head soon shows new life, vigor, brightness, thickness and more color.

"Isis" can do everything but think, says Dr. Cecil E. Nixon, a San Francisco dentist, who spent sixteen years building his wonderful automaton. In the breast are 300 wheels and in the entire body 1,187, all the work having been done personally by Dr. Nixon with the accuracy of a watchmaker.

Professional magicians have been puzzled by the uncanny things "Isis" can do. The automaton will play any tune requested on a zither.

ferent trees in different parts of the orchard. In general, we would advise letting the trees alone rather than cutting in to them opening up the injuries or attempting to treat them in any way during the winter.

In reply to your question about tacking the bark on, this may do some good where the bark and cambium are alive by merely holding it in place. The same would apply to wrapping or bandaging the trees.

Frost-injured trees do some remarkable things in the way of recovery, as indicated by a rather striking specimen, which was shown to you, of a frozen cherry tree from Connecticut. If the trees are too badly hurt, however, and completely killed or frozen through above the snow line, nothing of course will save them.

There is a line upward, the ground line where they are thoroughly alive and grafting the stump. Trees which take kindly to this sort of grafting, such as the orange tree, are often quickly brought back by a new top. Since walnuts are often stump-grafted, it occurs to me that this might be considered in case of any badly injured walnut trees, but we are not well enough informed at present as to the success of this procedure on the walnut to know how promising it would be in your case.

We will endeavor to find out more about this. One thing is certain, however, that if you do give up any of these walnut trees as dead from the snow line upward, the quicker you can saw off this dead top near the point of grafting, the better it will be for the tree. This is not only true of walnuts but of other trees. The fermentation from weather and wood starts in with warm other words, if you cut any of these trees which require this treatment reasonably soon after freezing, it will be just the same as cutting off the top of a sound, healthy tree an stump-grafting it.

Later Treatment Easier. "I doubt whether you would want to undertake this procedure with the prunes in any event.

"When the cold weather arrives in spring, the dead bark will discolor and it will be comparatively easy to give wound treatment to and treat which have enough life in them to justify it. If you find dead spots where the bark is lifted and dead on one side, the best treatment is to carefully cut out the dead bark, and carefully in early summer, doing as little injury as possible to the healing-in margin and then the whole exposed wood painted with the coal-tar creosote tree paint, or liquid grafting wax, or some similar protective covering. These wounds, as well as any cracks in the bark, should receive attention at least once a year until they are entirely healed over.

"Since the conversation with you, we have arranged to have D. F. Fisher, our plant pathologist located for a while in a harmless solution made by dissolving an ounce of powdered salolite in a half pint of which hauling the hateful lines, not only because the skin and thus ironing out the effect which improves a helpful tonic circulation and nerve tone. These are better for flabby cheeks or chin. Be sure to ask the druggist for the powdered salolite.

"It occurs to me that you may be able to get some help from the plant pathologist of your state experiment station at Corvallis, since this is only a few miles away, and it will be easy for them to reach the orchard. At any rate, let me suggest that you take it up with them."

How to Keep Age-Lines and Wrinkles Away

Don't forget that the woman who smiles will have a skin more free from wrinkles than the woman who frowns. When you plan to bathe to appear in a good plan to bathe the face once a day by dissolving an ounce of powdered salolite in a half pint of which hauling the hateful lines, not only because the skin and thus ironing out the effect which improves a helpful tonic circulation and nerve tone. These are better for flabby cheeks or chin. Be sure to ask the druggist for the powdered salolite.

Cambium May Be Safe.

From my understanding of your conditions, we can probably cut out all root and collar injury and injuries to the base of the trunk up to within a couple of inches of the snow line. You should expect to find the worst injuries on the trunk, and at just about the snow line, and probably diminishing upward into the tops of the trees. If the cambium has been killed in all cases though this may be true. There is certainly a chance for the cambium to remain alive if the bark, even the lifted bark, is alive. After a few mild days, this can readily be determined by examination. The examination can be made from specimens sent in, but of course better data can be obtained from examination on the ground, which will only necessitate cautiously cutting into the bark without destroying any live bark or wood.

Advice as to Procedure. "It is rather difficult to give very definite advice without knowing exactly the degree of severity of the injury and the variation of this on different trees."

M'DONALD CASE IN JURY'S HANDS

Judge Instructs Jury Verdict Must Be Murder, or Trio Freed

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 20.—Testimony in the case of Marie Fay and Ted McDonald, charged with the murder of W. H. McNutt on June 23, 1919, was completed late today in Superior Judge Blake's court, after which Judge Blake delivered his instructions to the jury and reposed his closing argument.

In his instructions to the jury, Judge Blake said one of three verdicts must be returned: first, murder in the first degree; second, murder in the second degree; third, not guilty.

The court further held that if any three defendants killed McNutt, all three were equally guilty. He further instructed that if Will McDonald, fearing McNutt intended to kill him or his sister, Marie, as the defense has alleged, struck in self-defense, a verdict to that effect must be found. The court also held that flight of the defendants under fear of the consequences might be considered in the light of guilty.

COMPROMISE BODIES OF SENATE WRANGLE

Another plan, championed by a Democratic advocate of compromise contemplates a "round robin" petition to bring Republicans and Democrats into a joint caucus. The "round robin" plan, however, has been reported opposed to the bipartisan caucus plan and also to the pending motion of Senator Underwood, Democrat, Alabama, for appointment for formal conciliation committees. Followers of Republican Leader Lodge as well as the Republican "round reservationists" are said to agree that if the present bipartisan meetings of the leaders shall fail it will be useless to appoint other conciliation committees.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 20.—The suspension of five socialist members of the New York state assembly was given consideration by the national Americanism commission of the American Legion, in session here yesterday. ALLEGED REDS FILE DEMURRER

Quartet Held for Violation of Criminal Syndicalism Act Charge Irregularity

PORTLAND, Jan. 20.—Demurrers to the indictments returned ten days ago by the Multnomah county grand jury, charging Claud Harro, Joseph Laundry, Fred W. Frye and Karl W. Oster, with having violated the criminal syndicalism act, were filed in the circuit court today by W. S. U'Ren, attorney for the four men.

The indictments charge that, through holding membership in the communist labor party, the men have violated the provisions of the state syndicalism law passed last year.

The demurrers attack the indictments on the ground that the three crimes are alleged, that no specific crime is set forth, that the indictment does not allege any unlawful teaching of the communist labor party, or that the acts were knowingly done by the indicted men, and that the state law under which the men were indicted is in conflict with the state and federal constitution.
