

OLCOTT USES HIS VETO

(Continued from page 1) House bill 59, by Gallagher, fixing open season for game birds—This bill would make a slight change in the season of killing jack-snipe and other birds in game district No. 2. This is a matter which should not have been considered at the special session of the legislature.

In any way affects the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety.

Repeat Scheme Detected Senate bill 23, by Union county delegation, relating to salaries of Union county officers—In the 1919 act provision was made for referring the measure to a vote of the people of the county affected at the next general election. This act has for its sole purpose the repeal of that referendum clause.

bill provides for the fixing or salaries of certain officials of Linn county. Section 2 declares an emergency. I am unable to see wherein the provisions of this bill are necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety.

House bill 72, by McFarland, to regulate angling in the Willamette river below Oregon City—Section 3 of this bill declares an emergency I am unable to see where the subject matter involved is necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety.

Importance Is Minimized

Senate bill 17, by Lachmund, relating to fire insurance association meetings—This bill provides a different method than the one now required by law for amending the constitution and by laws of mutual insurance companies and for other changes in the manner of transaction of their business. There may be some doubt as to the wisdom of the changes provided for in this bill.

House bill 16, by Hughes, to authorize inclusion of lands belonging to the state or any incorporated towns in irrigation or drainage districts—Section 2 of this bill declares an emergency. I am unable to find any provision in the bill which I deem would make such legislation necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety.

House bill 42, by game committee, authorizing purchase of lands for game farms—It seems to have been the intent of the legislature in this measure to endeavor to make more definite and certain the powers of the state board of fish and game commissioners in purchasing land for the purpose of conducting farms for the propagation, breeding, liberation and distribution of game birds. Both the title and body of this bill provide that it is to amend section 3 on page 287 of the general laws of Oregon for 1915. Section 3 on page 287 of the general laws of 1915 relates to the regulation of the business of loaning money by persons, firms and corporations other than bankers, trust companies and loan associations. It seems evident that it was the intention of the framers of this bill to amend section 3 of chapter 287 rather than page 287 of the general laws for 1915, said chapter referring to the general powers and duties of the fish and game commission. However, the title of the bill in question even fails to mention that its subject matter re-

HAVE YOU SCROFULA?

Now Said to Be as Often Acquired as Inherited.

It is generally and chiefly indicated by eruptions and sores, but in many cases it enlarges the glands of the neck, affects the internal organs, especially the lungs, and if neglected may develop into consumption.

It causes many troubles, and is aggravated by impure air, unwholesome food, bad water, too much heat or cold, and want of proper exercise.

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the medicine that has been used with so much satisfaction by three generations, is wonderfully successful in the treatment of scrofula. Give it a trial. If a cathartic or laxative is needed take Hood's Pills—there is nothing better for biliousness or constipation.

lates to fish and game in any manner, consequently to allow it to go on the statute books would in no way enhance the powers of the fish and game commission and it might materially affect the validity of the act relating to the business of persons loaning money other than banks and trust companies.

House bill 29, by Edwards, giving authority for the state to construct a bridge across the Nestucca river—This is a bill apparently designed to unwind some of the red tape required by the war department in the construction of bridges over navigable streams of the state. It is a measure of purely local type, covering construction of a privately owned bridge, and should have had no place in the consideration of the special session.

Port Bill Killed Senate bill No. 18, by Norblad, amending the code relative to the powers of municipal corporations designated as ports—This is a measure making very material amendments to the general port laws. Ostensibly it is designed to affect the port of Astoria alone, but in reality it affects every port in the state. With the exception of the provision relative to the issuance of bonds it would apply likewise to the port of Portland at such time as a bill affecting that port passed by the special session becomes a law. It will be noted that section 2 of this bill declares an emergency. By the use of the emergency clause the people within the confines of those ports as well as of the state at large are deprived of an opportunity of expressing their approval or disapproval of the terms of this bill.

Senate bill 14, by Hurley, regulating the grazing of nonresident owned livestock upon unenclosed lands—This is a bill which apparently has a laudable object of increasing the road funds of certain counties of the state. It would require the payment of a license to the county for the grazing of livestock when owners of such stock are not residents of the state of Oregon or when the ranch of livestock headquarters are not located within the state of Oregon. Section 5 of the bill reads as follows: 'Any person or persons violating any provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of misdemeanor, and if any such corporation shall herd, graze or cause to be herded or grazed, any livestock in violation of any of the provisions of this act it shall be fined in an amount of not less than $1000 or more than $10,000. It will be noted by this section that while any persons violating the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, nevertheless no penalty attaches against such persons, but on the other hand heavy penalty does apply against corporations. This provision of the bill, in my mind, is a clearly and plainly unconstitutional should it become a law.

Emergency Is Overdrawn House bill 85, by roads and highways committee, relating to taxation of automobiles in hands of dealers—This is a bill apparently designed to straighten out a small tangle relative to the taxation of automobiles in the hands of dealers. Section 2 of this act declares an emergency. While the object of the bill may be a worthy one in the main, I feel that after a careful examination of its provisions, where any of them are necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety.

PRINCE TO SEE AMERICA AGAIN

Edward Tells Pilgrims of Plans to Visit Great West and South

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The prince of Wales with tonight at a large and enthusiastic dinner of the Pilgrims. More than three hundred persons were present. The prince reaffirmed his intention to re-visit America, particularly the middle west, saying that the best proof that one had enjoyed a visit was his earnest desire to repeat it. 'The visits were very interesting to me as I had been associated with the United States army and navy during the war. It was that association that made possible for me not to feel a stranger. 'I had a wonderful time and I was touched by the demonstrations of good will, not only on my own account but because they were given me as the king's representative and to the British people as a whole. This made me realize that only personal contact is needed to prevent any misunderstanding between the American democracy and our own

'The cordiality has not ceased because of my departure. I am still receiving most charming letters, and I may add, not a lot from the fair sex.' (This occasioned much laughter.) 'There is only one way of showing that one has enjoyed a visit. That is by repeating it. I therefore propose taking the first opportunity of paying another visit to the United States. I am afraid I do not know when that will be. I hope that then I may have the opportunity of seeing the middle-west and of the other cities and places I had no time to visit last November. 'In conclusion, may I say I sincerely hope that personal contact between the British empire and the great American republic, may rapidly develop. We have the same language, the same type of domestic institutions and the same good will towards all people. 'I thank you for having entertained me this evening and I wish all success to all branches of the Pilgrims society. It has done and is doing so much to promote and foster continued friendship, good will and understanding between the peoples of the two great English-speaking nations. 'The Earl of Reading, lord chief justice and former ambassador to the United States, in toasting our 'American Cousins,' humorously remarked that perhaps he should have invited the Pilgrims to drink the toast in water.
