SHEPHERD NAMED DIRECTOR UNDER INDUSTRIAL ACT

Rehabilitation of Industrial Cripples in Charge of College Man

QUESTIONNAIRES SENT

Legislative Act Providing Vocational Education to be Applied

Frank H. Shepherd, head of the department of industrial education at the Oregon Agricultural college, has been engaged by the state industrial accident commission as vocational director and advisor to workmen who will be eligible for retraining under the commission. This will be through operation of the rehabilitation law passed at the special legislative session in January.

Initial steps to get the act under way have been taken during the last few days with the mailing out of questionnaires to workmen throughout the state who have been injured in industrial accidents while working under the workmen's compensation act. From the list filling in the questionnaires the commission expects to be able to select those in greatest need of vocational re-education, so that they may support themselves and their dependents.

State Schools Help

"This is the first important step taken by the commission under the authority conferred upon that board by the act passed by the recent special session of the legislature, providing for the vocational rehabilitation of persons accidentally injured in this state while working under the protection of the workmen's compensation law," says Commissioner Will T. Kirk.

"It is the plan of the commission to use the various vocational schools in the state for re-training these cripples.

"The commission has engaged Frank H. Shepherd, head of the department of industrial education at Oregon Agricultural college, as vocational director and advisor to the men who will be eligible for re-training at the hands of the commission. Mr. Shepherd, who has had much experience in this line of work, will give one-half of his time to the industrial accident commission, and one-half of it to the agricultural college.

"During the recent war, Mr. Shepherd was a member of the war department committee on education and special training, and had charge of the vocational training of the soldiers in the states of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana. When the armistice was signed he had supervision and direction of the training of more than 5000 soldiers in different schools, camps and colleges in the states included in this territory.

Shepherd Placed on Faculty
"When the Smith-Hughes law for vocational education was passed by congress, he was given charge of the work in this state by the state board

SALEM IS SURE TO BE CHAMPION

Basketball Victory Over Corvallis Last Night Clinches Honor

With a score of 18 to 34 the high school won easily from the Corvallis quintet on the Willamette floor last night the visitors fought hard but were outmatched. The Salem team is assured of the local championship.

The Corvallis team lined up with a little lighter team than the home team, with less experience. A run of four baskets was scored by the local boys during the first few minutes of the play. This seemed to lift the visitors up in the air as they lost all during the half. The second half was marked by a comeback staged by the visiting team, and some live passing ensued and for a large part of the half they were at par with the victors. Crane of the Corvallis five played most of their part of the game, but was subject to personal altercations. A. Gill with 14 and Boise with 19 points were the high men of the evening for the home team. Crane and Rawlins of Corvallis each scored four baskets, and made some good fast plays.

The Salem high school team is assured of the district basketball championship. There is one more game left to play, with Albany, and will be played here February 20. The game scheduled with Silverton was cancelled on account of sickness of their players. Salem has played eight games and won seven. Coach Phillip Schott is getting his men in line for the state tournament to be held on March 4, 5, and 6, and he says that if his team will stick to the grind, it has a chance to win.

The line-up for last night's teams was: Corvallis—Ramp and Rawlins, forwards, Crane, center, Hatch and Ball, guards. Salem—A. Gill and Shafer forwards, Boise, center, E. Gill and Ashby, guards. Irvine of Willamette was referee.
